Charles Thomas Hodges was born June 6, 1950, in Augusta, Georgia. He graduated from Heidelberg American High School in Heidelberg, Germany, in June 1968, and earned a Bachelor of Arts Degree in History from Hampden-Sydney College, Virginia, in August 1972.

He began as an archaeologist in 1974, working on National Park Service contracts at Yorktown and George Washington’s birthplace until 1975 for Dr. Norman Barka and the College of William and Mary. In 1975 he directed salvage excavations at Moysonec, and worked at the Flowerdew Hundred Fort Site from 1976 to 1979, also for the College of William and Mary. Between 1978 and 1979 he directed the prehistoric unit of William and Mary’s first two Field Schools in Archaeology at Flowerdew and Shirley Plantation. From 1980 to 1986 he was Staff Archaeologist for Flowerdew Hundred Foundation Museum, working with Dr. James Deetz and the University of California. Since then, Mr. Hodges has worked primarily as Field Director or Project Archaeologist on Cultural Resource Management Projects, surveys, or archaeological salvage projects for the Virginia Commonwealth College, the Virginia Division of Historic Resources, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, the James River Institute For Archaeology, and the National Park Service, Jamestown.
