Anonymous Letter

Each year it is the custom of the Flat Hat editors to describe the policies of this office. It has been decided to refrain from this practice for another three weeks, but we feel that it is necessary to reaffirm one of our programs.

The Flat Hat policy of political neutrality, extends to protecting our students from the personal criticism of anyone who is not a student of this institution. A student has the right to express his opinions. For that reason, we would have liked to print that letter, had it been received from a student. We would have liked to print that letter, had it been received from a student who was not associated with the college.

The fact that "Mr. Shrudlu" wrote such a letter indicates that, if our anonymous letter-writer will reveal his identity, we will print the letter in next week's issue. We would like to restate our position that we will not print any letters which sign their names. A letter lacking in the strength of authorship is not student opinion; it is merely a hollow echo of that opinion.

Campus X-roads

By Herb Bateman

Before getting down to the generalities, let me throw down a few observations as to the fine art of column writing. My briny tears or hurt pride may or may not make some people realize that I am a very disillusioned fellow. I am a very happy fellow. I shall continue this discussion, I am sure, in a very happy mood.

A column of the type I try to write must concern itself with no more than one idea. Not only must this be so but it is a paramount necessity. I do believe that you and I will work out the same idea, but you will work it out in a different manner. I do not think that I can accomplish anything if you work on the ideas that I present. I am not sanguine that you and I shall have conditions in which to exaggerate and oversell my case. Of course, there is a danger in going too far with this, but I have made no state-
Professional Societies

Chi Delta Phi, honorary literary fraternity for women, held its first organizational meeting on October 5. This year they hope to sponsor a writing contest to try to further literary achievement on the campus.

Membership try-outs for the society will take place early in November and are open to any women submitting three original manuscripts of any type. Selection is on the basis of literary ability and congeniality with the group.

The national headquarters of Chi Delta Phi have tentatively chosen Williamsburg for their Spring convention. The H2E Club, once available only to physical education majors, is opening its doors to all women interested. Their main project for the year will be the organizing and writing of the WAA booklet.

Open house for the new girls will be sponsored by the Home Economics Club on the third floor of Washington on Wednesday, October 21 from 4-5 p.m.

Theta Delt's Start Library Memorial

For Richard Stigall

Theta Delta Chi has donated a fund of $250 to the college library to begin a collection of memorial books in honor of the late Richard Lee Stigall, a member of the fraternity, who died on the campus last spring.

Join James Mitchell, the president of Theta Delta Chi, who presented this donation, said that the fraternity thought a gift to the college library of books of permanent interest would be the most fitting memorial it could make. The selection of the volumes for this memorial has been left to the discretion of the library staff.

Mr. Robert M. Laws, librarian, in accepting the gift, stated that the library would acquire books which would constitute a living and enduring memorial to Stigall.

The library has notified Mr. and Mrs. Lee Polo Stigall of Danville, Virginia, of the gift in memory of their son. Stigall was a member of nearly two years and a half years' service in the Army Air Corps. He had spent the larger portion of his enlistment in the European theater of operations serving with the 340th Air Service Group. He graduated from the George Washington High School of Danville and entered William and Mary on February 1, 1947. He was 22 years of age at the time of his death.

Exchange Scholar Writes

In answer to the_RADIE H. Jeffers, dean of women, Dolcie Duke, exchange student last year from Oxford University, England, wrote that at present she is a "practiced lecturer and public speaker," and that the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity was a "practiced lecturer and public speaker." She attended the Mount Vernon Methodist Church in Danville on May 20th.

The Indians from the Williamsburg Reservation did fine in front of Virginia Tech Saturday and, led by the big Cherokee running back, Clark, completely spoiled Homecoming Day festivities for 30,000 Oberholtzer-styled fans, a 28-7 victory.

Cloud and the fullback combination of Reinerth and Tommy Korczowski "The Kid" Korczowski teamed up with a steady Tribe line to hand the Hokies their fourth consecutive shutout and give the defending Southern Conference champs their third league defeat in one week.

"Flying" Jack, displaying the same All-American brand of foot ball he showed against VMI a week ago, tore into pay dirt from one early in the first quarter and again in the last. In 18 cracks of the Tribe line, the Notre Dame power-boyer covered 78 yards by penalty plus a half on the Navy 20 yard line early in the game, and picking up 18 yards on three power plays, the stage was set for Lewis.

Lewis had gained a total of 65 yards. The second half started gloriously for the tribe, even though the lights in Thompson Stadium were turned on, as Marquadt and Tommy Korczowski covered 63 yards on a play after the kickoff, with Marquadt going over from the 14 before it was over, but the drive was stopped.

Navy Jayvees Trip Papooses After Early W&M Touchdown

William and Mary's papooses, thanks to their own stumps, poured in a score on the Navy 44 yard line early in the game, with Dickie Lewis and Ed Weber doing the honors.

The Rube maintained then and there that St. Boniface was no prep school pushover—but that the Saints, under Hugh Moore, were a well-disciplined club, to be reckoned with among the top groups in the country.

Saturday the sun shined bright, the bands played well, and with the big RedHawks of William and Mary added to the unique VMI-St. Boniface doubleheader, the Richmond Times Dispatch.

The Indian-Indian fray has been decided. The Indians will lay on the line with the finest receivers playing college football today, and Lou Hoitsma, doing most of the catching, blanc as his thanks to the Gobblers, and playing it without conceding any front, whether by the run or pass.

When Seaborn S. (Stu) Mc- cray, athlete dictator and head guy of the Gobbler, was bitten, a beginning of the Indians' schedule this year and adding a fact of the same, quite a few more of crill- ing the name of the Tribe, and when the name St. Boniface appeared in the local papers, there was a raised eyebrow. Linebacker Bob Roche maintained then and there that St. Boniface was no prep school pushover—but that the Saints, under Hugh Moore, were a well-disciplined club, to be reckoned with among the top groups in the country.
Massive Lou Creekmur Takes Over Tackle Slot Opposite Red Caughron

By Perkin Hecker

"The bigger they come the harder they fall" is an old saying that may well apply to many large men, but such is not the case when it comes to Lou "Creek" Creekmur, William and Mary’s prodigious lineman. Standing a mere six feet four inches in his stocking feet and tipping the scales at 225, Lou has the distinction of being the largest man on the Braves’ squad, and as such has lived up to his expectations thus far this season.

His huge frame anchors the left side of the Indian forward wall, and from his tackle position he has on many occasions been regarded as a "fifth man" in the opponents’ backfield, stopping them either for no gain or forcing them for a loss. His rugged style of play has labeled him as one of the finest tackles in these parts and William and Mary’s four opponents to date will vouch for this fact.

Lou was drafted in May of 1945. During his tour of duty, he played varsity football for two years, but on his return to college, he played on the same team with three of his present teammates, Tommy Korczowski, Tommy Thompson, and Bob Finn. After his graduation in 1944, Lou enlisted in the Army and was posted temporarily as he had an 18-month engagement with Uncle Sam, being drafted in May of 1945. During his tour of duty, Lou served as an occupation soldier with the 740th Tank Battalion in Germany.

Receiving his discharge from the Army, Lou entered William and Mary in February, 1947, and immediately got back into athletics by playing on the college’s 1947 Southern Conference basketball team under the direction of Miss Sophia Saunders, instructor in physical education.

At the present time, Creekmur has his eye set on making a career in the coaching field. He is slated to receive his major in June, 1949, and he’s planning to return next fall to continue his studies and a higher education.

Lou’s extra-curricular activities, other than being a member of the Varsity Club and the football squad, include track. He prefers both distance and shot put and only last year set a new record for Carey Field with a throw of over 44 feet.

The squad held time trials last Saturday in the form of a mock meet. Teams were chosen, captained by Baker and Hugh Delamyer, and the resulting meet wound up in an 18-18 tie.

The Red team consisted of Baker, Bob Lawson, Bill Hawkins and Bob Landen, while the Blues were Delamyer, Don Day and Sam Lindsay. As of the trials, the first five consist of Baker in the number one position, followed by Delamyer, Lawson, Baker and Day. As Lindsay has his eye set on making a career in the coaching field.

He is slated to receive his degree in physical education in June, 1949, and his major in June, 1949, and he’s planning to return next fall to continue his studies and a higher education.

Elaine Davis Receives Revised Book
On Home Economics From Publishers

Jean J. Stewart heads the department of Home economics re-ceived the revised edition of her book, Foods: Production, Marketing, Consumption last July from the publishers, Prentice-Hall.

Miss Stewart asked Dr. Alice Edwards, head of the department of home economics at Mary Wash-linton College to serve as co-author in the publication of this second edition, since the limited time allowed by the publishers made it impossible for one person to develop the new point of view emerging at the present time.

This revised book, in addition to the usual material on chemical composition, competitive preparation, nutritive value and cost of various foods, has attempted to show the steps by which the newer scientific knowledge of foods and nutrition is being used by national and international groups to improve the well-being of entire populations. The war brought to rapid fruition much research along this line that had been in progress for the last two decades. Federal agencies gave priority to these activities because of their value in winning the war. Today many of these are being continued and new ones undertaken because it is realized that excellent nutrition is as important in peace as in war.

These two books grew out of various teaching experiences in various colleges including Rockford College in Illinois, State College for Teachers in Albany, N. Y., and the University of Nebraska where she was head of the department of home economics since the Miss Stewart's work for the undergraduate and masters degrees was completed at Teachers College, Columbia University. She did further graduate work at the University of Chicago and at the Ohio State University.

In the general elections of 1945, he returned to his seat with one of the largest majorities received by any parliamentary candidate. During his term, in addition to being active on many committees, he has found time to contribute frequent­ly to The New Statesman, Specta­tor, Time and Tide, and other weekly, besides extensive lectur­ing. In addition to his political experiences, Dr. Ryan has traveled widely on the Continent and in the Middle East. WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA
February Graduation Set

Leadership meeting; Program for World Leadership, afternoon. Banquet and dance-dinner for delegates at the Williamsburg Inn.

Third Day: Sunday; October 24.

Chapel Service Sermon by Dr. Edgar M. Follin, professor of psychology and jurisprudence.

Fourth Day: Monday; October 25.

The adherence of the Greeks to the laws of nature brought about the conception of cosmopolitanism. It was this extreme influence on the world that man, as a unit, realized that in order to have complete harmony with his neighbors he would have to abide by the rules of nature and recognize his fellow man. "The cosmopolitan concept is still with us," declared Dr. Gauss, "but, he continued, "it should not be used in the same terms in which we refer to a cosmopolitan New Yorker."

"This doctrine, being assimilated by the Romans, spread throughout the continent and eventually found its way into the theories on which the Declaration of Independence is based. The Declaration, being founded on these theories, . . . could . . . be used as a foundation for the United Nations in as much as it applied not only to the cultural unity of one people but to all people." This law of nature is true for all people of any nation, and it is that law which determines right from wrong regardless of its locale. We owe, therefore, the culture which we have today to the Classical traditions."

The Christian traditions were, for the most part, equally important with the Classical traditions in the founding of this democracy. In Europe, as elsewhere, the ownership of land could mean "status, security and independence." It was not long however, when the want for land became a spiritual as well as an economic desire.
Hutcheson, Taubman And Denny Will Speak Thursday

Mrs. Taubman, the Republican speaker, holding membership in both the D.A.R. and the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was a delegate to the Republican convention last June and is now an active supporter of Governor Dewey.

A member of the State District Committee, Denny is one of Virginia's "best known trial lawyers" and, it is said, "an outstanding orator." Denny was one of Virginia's delegates to the Birmingham convention of the States' Rights Party.

"Mock" Election Next Week

After their separate speeches, the three political opponents will question one another and, in conclusion, will answer queries from the floor.

A capacity turn-out is expected to hear the debaters on Thursday in the Phi Beta Kappa auditorium.

Next week, in the wake of the political debate, the Inter-collegiate Debate Council will further enliven student interest in the national elections with a "mock" election of their own, Wednesday, October 27.

Other Virginia colleges and universities have previously held such elections, receiving widespread coverage in the press and on the radio.

Queen

Men Nominate Homecoming Court

Hunter Jones is one in a million. She's the type of girl you'd spot on a dance floor, on a bustling street corner or in a jam-packed theater lobby without a moment's hesitation.

Surprised and elated at news of her nomination, she was both in spirit and in action what Homecoming Queens ought to be. Hers is a natural spontaneity. She is zestful, a wizard at the art of Ann Lewis has in her character the stuff of success.

A major in jurisprudence, she looks with dead earnest to a position on the legal staff of one of the bigger corporations.

Wanting to be a lawyer is her own idea. But then, she impresses one as a person who has her own ideas on many things. She speaks with as much assurance and capability about politics as she does about the poetry of Dorothy Parker, music in the classical vein and a host of other topics.

The Student Religious Union will hold a supper for all the student religious groups at the Shelter in Maucks Park on Sunday, October 24, at 5:30 p.m.
