powerful athletes show
SKILLFUL
play worthy of national ranking

Finishing with a respectable 10-12 season overall and Colonial Athletic Association tournament play on the semifinal level, the women’s tennis team displayed their technique and teamwork skills. Beginning with the 16th Annual William & Mary Invitational which lasted for three days in mid-September, the Tribe women faced their first challenges in a host of formidable opponents. However, their natural talent and drive to win showed as many Tribe women won important matches. The No. 20 ranked doubles pair of senior Kat Zoricic and junior Ragini Acharya advanced to the finals bracket after a pair of wins. As singles players, Zoricic and Acharya also won their opening round of matches. The two freshmen Katie Kargl and Maria Morissey also won their first singles matches. The duo pair of Kargl and junior Carmen Pop also advanced to semifinal double play.

By the last day of matches, the Tribe had garnered a number of wins and impressive titles. Kargl and Pop took home the flight B doubles title with a 4-0 score, while Zoricic and Acharya won the third-place mark in their doubles category. In singles play, Zoricic won her third-place match, Kargl her fifth-place match, and Pop beat her Elon opponent 6-4 and 6-0 in her consolation match. It was an impressive start for a memorable season.

Competing in about six fall invitationals before beginning the season against the top-25 women’s tennis programs, the No. 22 nationally ranked Tribe team prepared for the season to come. The invitational and championship games were held all over the nation in such cities as Nashville, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia. At each of these matches, the Tribe women honed their skills, gained valuable playing experience against other well-ranked collegiate athletes, and improved their season records.

Besides improving their personal records, many of the lady athletes also received special CAA recognition as well. For example, Zoricic was named All-CAA first team in both singles and doubles for the fourth time in her Tribe career. Her teammate Acharya also received All-CAA first team recognition in singles and doubles for the third time at the end of the season. Pop was recognized with her first collegiate All-CAA honor and her own CAA Singles Player of the Week award.

Finishing the season with two major national rankings showed the campus that the women’s tennis team was focused on success. The team was ranked 49th in the country and the doubles team of Zoricic and Acharya ranked No. 54. Even with the loss of major players, such notable success ensured that the team was well-set to continue a tradition of excellence into next season.
