Shaw, the producer, shared his plan for the play of the animal kingdom as it appears in modern art, and said that Theatrical Theme, Instructor in Fine,
Arts, in describing the exhibition, THE ANIMAL KINGDOM IN MODERN ART, on display in the Pit Room until March 27. This exhibit was sponsored by the Committee of Fine Arts through the generosity of Mrs. Ernest A. Herson of New York City.

The works include depictions of animal life—birds, the fauna and the flora—collected by the artist, predominantly, a menagerie, or a zoological collection. At the exhibition are on parade: a show of birds, a show of marine life, and a show of domestic animals. The works are assembled in various media: oil, watercolor, charcoal, chalk, ink, paper and a variety of other materials. The exhibition is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is free.

The exhibition is part of a larger project, "The Animal Kingdom in Modern Art," which is being organized by the Committee of Fine Arts and is scheduled to run through the end of the month. The project is designed to bring together works of art that represent the animal kingdom in a variety of media, including painting, sculpture, photography, and mixed media.

War Rationing Problems Discussed
At Seminar By OPA Representative

Explaining Complicated Procedure, Dean
Hoskins 'Rationing Has No Future'

Speaking to the Mason-Wythe-Wilson Seminar on Thursday, February 5th, on the subject of "Rationing," Joel Dean, director of Food Marketing for the OPA, made a very complete coverage of the subject. He explained the causes of rationing, the characteristics of the commodity classifications for rationing, the character of the OPA, its purpose, and the three different methods of rationing which are in operation, weekly rationing, once-a-month rationing, and group rationing.

He presented a picture of the food rationing program which he is head. Plans for this program are as far back as April 17, 1941, when attention was called to the necessity of a future shortage. Three common problems in the rationing project have been the formulation of simplified and standardized menus, the designation of the subdivisions and definitions of the various commodities which are to be rationed, and the wording of the price controls.

Dean stated that the rationing project is expected to be a very great printing job necessary, and appeared. Three common problems in the project have been the formulation of simplified and standardized menus, the designation of the subdivisions and definitions of the various commodities which are to be rationed, and the wording of the price controls.

Day of Crisis
Opportunity, Says Speaker

"The day for revolutionary ideas in rifle making is not over," states Dean Curtis W. W. Newfond of Hartford, Connecticut, editor of the nation's leading trade journal, the American Rifleman, who was guest speaker at the Mason-Wythe-Wilson Seminar.

He recounted the story of how the British colonial riflemen fought for their country in the American Revolution. Harkening back to that time, he said, "We need the spirit of sacrifice, the spirit of service to our country, the spirit of giving for the man who is fighting for us."

"As we look over the world today, there is a banquet given for both old and new student government organizations. As the women students enter the auditorium, they are greeted with a variety of songs and dance music. The men students also participate in the program, offering a variety of songs and dance routines. After the program, a banquet is held at the Lodge, where refreshments are served and prizes are awarded to the winners.

Sew for Yourself and Save!

Sewing your own clothes can be economical and rewarding. It allows you to choose the exact fabric and style that you want, and it can be a fun and creative activity. Here are some tips to get you started:

1. Choose the right fabric for your project. The fabric should be appropriate for the garment you are making and should be of good quality. It should also be easy to sew with.

2. Plan your sewing project. Make a sketch of the garment you want to make, and measure yourself to determine the size needed.

3. Cut the fabric to the correct size. Follow the pattern instructions for cutting the fabric to the correct size.

4. Sew the seams together. Use a sewing machine or hand-sew the seams together. Make sure to use the correct stitch and tension for the fabric you are using.

5. Finish the edges. Finish the raw edges of the seams with a serger or zigzag stitch to prevent fraying.

6. Add any finishing touches. Add any finishing touches such as buttons, zippers, or trims to complete the garment.

By following these tips, you can sew your own clothes and save money on clothing expenses. Sewing is a rewarding activity that can be enjoyed by people of all ages. So why not give it a try and save some money today?
Tribe Draws G.W.U. In S.C. Playoffs
Road Weak Indians Lose Four Consecutive Games

Revered Line-up Plays Four Games Away in Five Nights

Playing for the first time with the services of three of the former starting (Shaw, Wilkin, and Boyd) the basketball team met three times in consecutive games last week. When the full-length game was over, as they gradually began to feel the strain they were drawn closer as a team.

Already weary from four games in a span, the Big Green has been compelled to wait until the fullness of Spring practice's intra-mural program to return to action. This week, however, the team appeared in top form and won their final game of the season with a 59-30 victory. After this game, Captain Vandeweghe was named by the Associated Press to the Virginia All-Star basketball team, although they lost to Randolph-Macon. It was in this game, that the revamped squad proved they were a team to be reckoned with.

The fullback post, and tailback Mel Wright, wingback Herb Popovich were named by the Associated Press to the Virginia All-Star basketball team. This is the third consecutive year for the Tribe to place on this stellar lineup and is the first for Vandeweghe.

Crippled Big Green Out To Duplicate Early Season Win

Knocked Colonials Out of Tournament

With typical Indian luck—jocks, Big Green survived their tourney's worst moment when they met George Washington in the first round of the Southern Conference loop playoffs. The weakened Tribe is in a situation in which they have made the trip to Washington and they have been forced to accept a challenge to go further than the opening round.

Me And My Bunk

Monday—The train left on time. I really got to the table, and I started on some good things. After getting up a little early, I found a friend at breakfast, who invited me to join the morning walk. We decided to go to the field of observation. While walking in the sun, the instructor mentioned a small, unusual looking tree. He identified it as the Southern Magnolia. We observed the tree closely, and I found it interesting. The instructor explained how the tree flourished in the area and its importance in the local ecosystem.

Tuesday—The weather was quite pleasant, and we decided to take a short hike in the nearby forest. It was a beautiful day, with clear blue skies and a gentle breeze. We walked along the trail, observing various plants and wildlife. The instructor pointed out several interesting species, including a few unique plants that we had not seen before. We spent the day exploring the forest, taking notes and taking photographs to document our findings.

Wednesday—We arrived at the college early to prepare for our next class. The instructor provided some interesting information about the history of the college and its founding. We discussed the importance of education and the role of colleges in society. It was an engaging and informative session.

Thursday—The day started with a lecture on the history of the college. The instructor gave a comprehensive overview of the college's development, from its early days to the present. We learned about the challenges faced by the college and how it has adapted to meet those challenges. The lecture was followed by a discussion, during which we shared our thoughts and insights on the topic.

Friday—We completed our week's study by revisiting some of the key points discussed throughout the week. We concluded with a brief reflection on the importance of understanding the history of our college and the role it plays in shaping our future. The instructor summarized the key takeaways and encouraged us to continue our studies on our own, as there is always more to learn.

The class concluded with a group photo, capturing the spirit of our shared learning experience. We ended the week with a sense of accomplishment and eagerness to continue our studies next week.
