Dr. John E. Pomfret To Address Annual Autumn Convocation

More Equipment To Ease Tie-Up

"We are attempting to distribute additional equipment to all the fraternities because of the laundry plant over as many students as possible," Charles J. Duke, Jr., Bursar of the college, declared today.

Overtaxed because of the increase in the size of the student body, the college laundry is made.

New laundry equipment has been purchased and national buildings have been constructed to accommodate it. In order to install the new facilities, it will be necessary to close the laundry for approximately two weeks.

No shirts will be accepted, than four shirts per week, and no excess laundry will be accepted. The limitation of 20 pieces applies uniformly. No shirts will be accepted from persons other than those owning them because of the expanding size of the laundry has been completed. Faculty and members may send only flat work.

Lack Of Facilities Forces New Laundry Restrictions

The facilities of our existing members may send only flat work.

More Equipment Will Be Added

New laundry equipment has been purchased, and national buildings have been constructed to accommodate it. In order to install the new facilities, it will be necessary to close the laundry for approximately four weeks. As this cannot be done while college is in session, the definite date for the completion of the new facilities is set for Christmas vacation.

The name of Lois Willis was erroneously omitted from the dean's list.

Dr. Arthur W. Phelps, W&L Graduate, Becomes New Dean Of Law School

The band for the coed event has been well-received by the administration. New members of the faculty and heads of departments will be presented by Dr. Sherry G. Unbeak, dean of the college. The choir, under the direction of Clark A. Fitts, will present several selections, including the traditional "William and Mary Hymn."

Hunt Selects Date For Play Try-Outs

Try-outs for the first production of the William and Mary Theatre, "The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder, will be held for undergraduate tomorrow at 5 p.m. in 302 Marshall-Wythe hall.

"There are openings on the business, circulation, news, sports and features staffs for both freshmen and upperclassmen. "Freshmen with experience are urged to try-out," stated Allan Jones, editor-in-chief.

More Facilities To Be Added

Members of the senior class, the choir, and members of the faculty and administration will march in full academic costume, will precede the procession. The convocation will end at 10:45 a.m., and reconvene at 2 p.m. for the event, attendance at which is compulsory for all freshmen. "Upperclassmen are urged attend," stated Dr. A. Pelzer Waggener, chairman of the committee on special events.

College Laundry

So the laundry is limiting us to four shirts a week, and it will cost more—seven weeks to receive a box}=what the editor. The laundry, however, is trying to serve everyone by limiting the individual and we can't blame them, but we believe it is unfair.

Last year the college sent the laundry of 400 individuals to Newport News and lost $5,000 on the deal because of wrecker's pace. Obviously the same process will not be repeated.

Our laundry's facilities are used by the members of the college and the members of the college's various activities, so the laundry is limiting us to four shirts a week, and if we send them more, they will return it to us.

Laundry service to the students who pay the bills. The students have already been limited to four shirts a week, and if we send them more, they will return it to us.

A great deal of personal satisfaction may be obtained through a laundry service to the students who pay the bills. The students have already been limited to four shirts a week, and if we send them more, they will return it to us.

Join Activities

You will need notice the number of articles appearing in The Flat Hat this week concerning tryouts and invitations to participate in various activities.

There are enough different activities so that everyone should be able to find a place in one of them. So do not advertise that you are not out and join every organization on campus you are here primarily to gain an education. Your interest and capabilities should naturally help you find where you belong and will be affordable that, nor can they wait such a long time for the return of their garments.

Yes, if cleanliness is next to godliness the College of William and Mary will have a lot of ungodly people on its campus.

Books, Beer, Beefs

Running true to form, we of the college student are changing the three r's of grammar into the three b's of college life. Books, beer, and beefs.

The books because they seem to be read less and less, the beer because we drink a lot of it, and the beefs because we talk about them.

Looks to us like a good time to settle down and put our heads down a long before we launch forth on what appears to be the most elementary of college sin, the popular grape on campus. In other words, it's time to get over our hangover and get on with the beer.

To the editor:

Looking back at the fraternity orgy last year, there is nothing but a few things we can do about it. We don't want to keep the Victory up in the air any longer, but we can achieve that goal by doing some things.

Of course, this brief respite does not mean that we are not just as absolutistic. But if we take up where we left off last term, chaos is going to hit us like a ton of bricks.

We have become a political party now, and we may as well make an effort to keep the line winding down by direct assault, we might as well spend our time getting something done.

If we were at all logical we would be spending our time buying our clothes in a small store and then out the door. We have no interest in the faculty's influence in the student union. The student union is for us.

To the editor:

This is a hint. To keep that furnace going, we have to be able to tell the students what we want them to do, and they have to make sure that that is done.

We have become a political party now, and we may as well make an effort to keep the line winding down by direct assault, we might as well spend our time getting something done.

Williamsburg Shade Trees Undergo Annual Program of Fertilization

Twenty tons of plant food have been drilled into the ground around certain shade trees in this restored city as part of the annual program of fertilization. The process of feeding the trees has aroused considerable interest among visitors and townspeople here. Two men using electric hand drills powered by a portable generator, pre-drilled the area in the base of the tree with holes, which are filled with plant food by other members of the crew. Then watered in. Some of the smaller trees get only five to 10 pounds while a few of the larger trees are given 200 to 400 pounds. There are 250 trees and 12,000 feet of box hedge to be fed in the yards and gardens of the restored area, in addition to the 447 trees that line the principal streets, 40 trees in Bruton churchyard and the 112 trees on the campus college which are cared for by the landscape section of Colonial Williamsburg, Inc., the organization that is carrying forward the restoration of this city. These consist of all the newly-planted trees and all other desirable varieties in the colonial area, the largest percentage being oaks, red maples and sycamores. The tree feeding, which is expected to last for several more weeks, is under the direction of J. B. Brondov, landscape superintendent of Colonial Williamsburg, Inc.

"I've never been interviewed before" said Dulcie Hilda Dukes, William and Mary exchange student from Exeter college, England. "This is a great occasion," she added.

Dulcie was born in India, but spent most of her life in Devonshire, England. Having received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of London in 1937, Dulcie next attended the University College of Exeter where she was an undergraduate major in medieval and modern history and a graduate major in American history. She has held positions teaching English and French and spent five years in the WRNS— the Women's Royal Naval Services, in which, later, as an officer, she did work in education. At William and Mary Dulcie is doing graduate work in history and government. Dulcie arrived in the United States Sept. 12, after a 15-hour flight from England. The biggest disappointment of the trip was not being able to see New York clearly.

Navy Offers College Training Program
For Eligible Men Between 17 and 21

U.S. Will Pay Fees;
Quantitative System Set Up

All men interested in the Naval Officers’ College Training Program may obtain the necessary information from the office of John Hocutt, dean of men. The program is open to men between the ages of 17 and 21, with quotas being assigned to each state and territory on the basis of its high school population. Those who are successful in passing the aptitude tests and physical examinations in December will then be eligible for selection by the state and territorial selection committees.

Students selected by these competitive examinations will be assigned to the 53 Naval Reserve Officers’ Training Corps units which are located in various universities and colleges in the United States. These will be appointed midshipmen and will have their tuition books and normal fees paid for by the government.

In addition, they will receive pay at the rate of $50 a month for the four-year period. Upon graduation they may be commissioned as officers in the regular navy or marine corps and required to serve in active duty for two years. At the end of this time they may apply for retention in the navy or marine corps, or transfer to the reserve and return to civilian life.

During their college careers men will be required to take one course in naval science each year plus two summer courses and one summer of aviation indoctrination.

Alumna Holds Post

Dr. Elizabeth P. Lam, who was graduated from the college in 1928, is now in charge of education and religious affairs for the Military Government in Berlin.

Dr. Lam writes, “Of special interest to Americans, especially students, is the great desire of German young people to correspond with Americans. If there are any students at William and Mary who would enjoy corresponding with German students, I should be glad to have their names. Students here also need books, magazines, discarded clothing and food.”

Students may write Dr. Lam at Education and Religious Branch, Internal Affairs and Communications Division, Office of Military Government, APO 704, New York, N.Y.

Lea Holtsma back, the team is well fixed for starters. Reserves at the four positions include freshmen Marvin Graham and George Gibb, and first-year squad members Jack Hufner and Vito Begazzo.

Tackle Harry Cuaghran and Ralph Sato are back from last year's starting team, and they are supported by left tackle Yari Mener, John Pellock and Mike Kish from last year's squad and senior Lou Crechman, a veteran of the 1984 campaign who weighs in at 250 pounds. Douglas Robinson is the other returning tackle.

There seems to be no question about the top contenders for gain. They are Bruce Hamby and Jim McDowell. "Rebel Rouser" Draws Comment

Holland's magazine, a southern publication, commented upon THE FLAT HAT's "Rebel Rouser" issue, published last spring.

In its campus column in the October issue, Holland's wrote, "...all in fun and just to prove that the War Between the States is just another chapter in history to them. William and Mary students recently put out a new sheet called The Rebel Rouser. Its four pages of amusing nonsense were devoted to articles on such subjects as the dangerous influence of Northern methods of transportation, and its front page carried the picture of a good-looking girl, credited with being the inspiration for Pickett's charge. The first casualty of the reopened war, as reported by 'The Rebel Rouser', was a Yankee-sympathizin' student named Sherman Sheridan Grant."

WILLIAM AND MARY members of the Common cost were:

Memorial Display Placed in Library

Mrs. Guy Despard Goff has presented to the college library a sum of $10,000 during the past five years as a memorial to her late husband, Senator Goff of West Virginia, to be expended on books of printed works issued before 1910. As the fund is now exhausted, the library has placed on exhibit a collection of works secured under the fund. Due to display limitations, the volumes exhibited were chosen to represent types of works obtained. A summary of the existing resources led to the decision that the bulk of this donation would be devoted to the purchase of scholarly works issued before 1910. Since the library has been established, the user, a meticulous researcher, will have obtained. In many cases one volume represents a series or set containing 100 volumes or more. "Exhibits play an important part in bringing to the attention of students and faculty members the resources of the library, however, no matter whether he is a casual browser or meticulous researcher, he will have many occasions indeed to be grateful for Mrs. Goff's generosity," said Miss Margaret Galphin, assistant librarian.

College Installs New Telephones

Installation of a unique telephone system has been completed by the college. The new system of communications, which is estimated to cost the college $10,000 a year, will enable students to make calls on the campus proper free of charge.

The phones operate through a central switchboard located on the first floor of Marshall-Wythe hall. This switchboard will be open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day.

Calls from dormitories on the campus to other points on the campus can be made at no cost. Calls made from the campus to out-of-town points will not be accepted, but incoming calls, from Williamsburg and other points, can be connected to any dormitory. Long distance calls of this kind can be connected to any dormitory. Long night at 6:30.

Backdrop Club Prepares Next Varsity Show Script

The Backdrop Club, the campus organization devoted solely to the production of the annual varsity play, has already begun preliminary preparations for next spring's offering.

Ronald King, president of the club and producer of the show, has been working steadily during the summer. For the first meeting of the year will be held within two weeks.

The varsity show is a musical chantily presentation, written, directed and produced by the students, with original words and music. Although during the work, the show was firmly re-established as a campus activity with last year's production, The Heat's On. Over 100 people aided in producing the show, which featured 23 songs, nine dance numbers and a cast of 70.

Every student who is interested in contributing to the success of the Varsity Show is urged to join the Backdrop club. King stated, Members of the club expressed the hope that new students, as well as old, will turn out in great numbers for the initial organizational meeting. Actors, singers, dancers, gag-writers, and workers on scenery, costumes, lights, props, and makeup are urgently needed.

King has announced the officers of the club and production chairs elected last semester. Warren Reckell is vice-president and business manager, Ken McFinn occupies the director's chair and Wilford Leach, technical director, heads activities backstage with Howard Rayfield as his chief technician.

Dirk Beatty is director of music for the show, Michaela Geronia succeeds in on an apprentice role in the cast, Barb Cotton, dance director, head's activities backstage with Howard Rayfield as his chief technician.

The thus described method of playing—collect all the cards with which you have no idea, have no need, and throw them from your hand. In the higher cards is fought over, since it is considered a deterrent to a beginner to attempt to throw them off on a partner. WSCG To Elect Freshman Officers

Election of freshmen representatives to the honor, judicial, and executive committees will take place in October, announced Shirley Sprague, president of the WSCGA at the first regular meeting of the year held last night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Nominations will be made at the October meeting.

Dr. Katherine Jeffers, Dean of Women, spoke to the women students expressing the hope that the women students will take advantage of the academic opportunities offered by the College, and will undertake the responsibilities of good citizenship.

Shirley Sprague announced that the riding rule suggestions were still under debate and that she had been informed that a decision would be made soon. The difficulties of operating an exchange book store were pointed out and a counter suggestion was made that a notebook of available second hand books be kept in Marshall-Wythe to enable students to purchase and exchange text books.

Helen Thomson, chairman of the Judicial Committee, pointed out the changes in regulations, and Mary Louise McNabb, chairman of the House Council, welcomed the new students and asked their support in upholding the traditions of the honor system.

Shirley Sprague welcomed the new women on behalf of the WSCGA at a meeting for new students held last Thursday. She introduced Dorothea Thiedieck, vice-president of the WSCGA and chairman of the orientation program, who assigned the new women to their respective sponsors.

The entering students adjourned to group meetings where sponsors reviewed the WSCGA 1947-1948 handbook and explained rules and regulations of the College in preparation for the WSCGA test given tonight to the women students.

Red Cross Unit Plans Program Rejuvenation
