Robert B. Bloom, associate professor of education, has been invited to address First Step-1980, an international conference on preschool handicapped children. Bloom's paper, "Working With Parents of Young Handicapped Children," identifies crisis/bereavement cycle and its effect on the structure of the family. The conference will be hosted by the University of South Carolina in March.

Clifton F. Conrad, associate professor of education, and Jean C. Wyer, assistant professor of business administration, have completed a commissioned monograph, "Liberal Education in Transition." The work will be published by The American Association for Higher Education and the Educational Resources Information Center in their Higher Education Research Report series this year.

Vickie Woodbury, lecturer of modern languages and literatures, is the author of a review of Sergei Orlov's Kostry, a collection of poems, to be published in World Literature Today.

Schirin also presented a lecture on "The Market Mechanism and the Provision of Health Care" at a workshop on Dynamics of the Health Care Economy, for 4th year medical students, at the Medical College of Virginia on December 12.

Karen A. Emden, assistant professor of business administration, has been selected for the current issue of Marquis' Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

Boyd Coyner, professor of history, appeared on the program, "Virginia Today," WTVR, channel 6, Richmond, Jan. 15, to discuss the Iranian and Afghan crises.

Applebee Wins Award Of Merit

The Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) has selected Constance M. K. "The Apple" Applebee to receive its 1980 Award of Merit.

Miss Applebee taught hockey at William and Mary with the late Martha Barksdale. Now 106, she lives in the small village of Burley in Hampshire, England.

Affectionately known as "The Apple," Miss Applebee introduced the sport of field hockey in the United States. Among the many trophies she treasures at her home, "The Dodgers," on the edge of the New Forest, is a set of Jefferson cups, each with a William and Mary coat of arms, which was a gift from friends of the College.

She demonstrated the game of field hockey at Harvard in 1901 and a team was introduced field hockey at Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Smith, Mount Holyoke, Wellesley and Radcliffe. In 1922 she organized the United States Field Hockey Association.

Superintendents to Hear Rohr

John Rohr, associate professor at the Center for Public Administration and Policy at Virginia Tech, will speak on "Ethical Considerations in the Formulation of Education Policy," at 2 p.m. Wednesday, December 10, in the Campus Center, room A.

Rohr will be speaking at the monthly meeting of the Tidewater School Division Superintendent's Association meeting. The meeting has been opened to the public because of the wide interest in Rohr's topic.

The superintendents meet monthly on campus to discuss common problems and participate in special workshops and seminars. Royce Chesser of the School of Education serves as local coordinator of the group.

Rohr has lectured and published extensively in questions of law and conscience in general and on the special question of ethics for the career civil servant in particular. While an associate director of the General Management Training Center of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Rohr designed a training manual on ethics in public management.

Rohr currently serves as managing editor of the scholarly journal, "Administration and Society." In 1975 he was selected as a Fellow by the National Association of Schools of Public Administration, and since 1977 he has served as a member of the committee on standards and ethics of the American Society for Public Administration.

Irish Speaker Here Thursday

Maurice Manning, senior lecturer in politics at the National University of Ireland, University College, Dublin, and a candidate for election to the European Parliament, will fulfill two speaking engagements at the College of William and Mary on Thursday, Dec. 4. Manning will speak to Alan J. Ward's government class in room 2 of Swem Library at 11 a.m., and at 4 p.m. will address a government departmental colloquium on developments in the European Community in Morton Hall, room 4. Both meetings are open to interested students and the general public.

Manning, a specialist on Irish and European governments and the author of two books on Irish political parties, will be speaking on contemporary Irish government and politics. Manning is a frequent commentator on the political scene for Irish radio and television.

Further information concerning Manning's visit may be obtained from Professor Ward at ext. 4007.

Autograph Party Set for Bloom

Lynn Z. Bloom, associate professor of English and editor of "Forbidden Diary," the account of an American woman's life as a Japanese prisoner in the Philippines during World War II, will be hosted by the Williamsburg Area Women's Center on Jamestown Road at an autograph party at the Center at 8 p.m., Monday, Dec. 8.

The May issue of Ms. magazine singled out the book as "new and recommended." Newsweek described it as a "diary about the heroism of building an ordinary life under extraordinary hardship." CBS has bought the option for a TV movie. "Forbidden Diary" sells for $14.95. Copies of the book will be available from the Women's Center for $8.95 through Dec. 8, with a donation of at least $6 to the Center.

Hall of Fame Taps Six

Constance Applebee, the second dame of field hockey in the United States and founder of the United States Field Hockey Association who helped Martha Barksdale found the hockey program at William and Mary, is one of six athletes who have been selected for induction into the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame on Dec. 6 at halftime of the basketball game with the University of Virginia. Miss Applebee, now 107, lives in the small village of Virley in the south of England.
Modern Dance Program Opens History Month

February is Black History Month and the College will open its festivities with an exciting dance program, “Sojourn: A Tribute in Dance to Black Folk,” at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 5, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Martina Young of the College’s dance faculty and Rodney L. Williams of Petersburg, a 1980 graduate, will present a variety of modern dances, many of which were choreographed by Ms. Young. The program is supported by a grant of $2,000 from the Virginia Commission for the Arts.

The William and Mary Theatre will sponsor a professional performance by the Atlanta Alliance Theatre of “For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When the Rainbow is Enuf,” at 8:15 p.m., in Saturday, Feb. 14 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The theatre performance will be one of the events listed for visiting minority students who have been invited to spend “A Week-End With Us,” Feb. 14, planned by the Office of Minority Affairs. Minority students who are considering the college will be on campus for two days of informational sessions and touring. Alpha Phi Alpha is planning “Cabaret,” for the visitors Friday evening the Campus Center Little Theatre.

A Leon Higginbotham, Jr., Circuit Judge, United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, Philadelphia, will speak on “Race and the American Legal Process,” at 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 20 at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

‘Sampler’ Stars Symphony

Mark Kaplan, a talented young violinist, will share the spotlight with veteran Mitch Miller in the second Richmond Symphony “Sampler” program at 8:15 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 8 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Tickets are available at the Campus Center office or at the PBK box office the evening of the concert. Tickets are $5 for the general public; $4.50 for members of the College Community.

Kaplan gained fame in 1973 at the Leventritt International Competition where the judges unanimously declared him the highest ranking contestant by granting him an Award of Special Distinction. He has performed in concert both here and abroad, and one of his first performances was in Syracuse where Miller first made his debut with the Symphony Orchestra.

“Sing Along with Mitch,” a community participation feature which Miller has made famous, will be part of the program Sunday evening.

Miss Applebee 1873-1981

Constance Applebee, who helped Martha Barksdale found the field hockey program at William and Mary and was one of six athletes who were recently inducted into the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame, died at her home in Hampshire, England, on January 20 at the age of 107.

It was during a class discussion of women’s exercises at a summer course at Harvard that “The Apple” volunteered to give a demonstration of field hockey at a time when women’s sports were limited to croquet or a said game of lawn tennis. On a hot August day in 1901 women’s field hockey was played for the first time in the U.S. on a concrete slab near the Harvard gymnasium.

Miss Applebee cherished her memories of a lifetime in women’s athletics, including: Jefferson cups imprinted with the William and Mary coat of arms; a gift; an open letter from the field hockey team which visited her several years ago.

She taught hockey at William and Mary with her dear friend, Martha Barksdale. She remained active into her nineties, chasing players along the sidelines and shouting her own particular brand of encouragement. “Put both claws on your stick, you one-legged tunep,” was a typical epithet flung at a hapless student.”
College Receives ‘Apple’ Portrait

A special ceremony was held Saturday in Adair Gymnasium which recalled the warm affection that the First Lady of American Field Hockey felt for the College.

A portrait of the late Constance M.K. Applebee, which she bequeathed to the College, was formally hung in Adair gymnasium. The portrait, by Bern Schwarz, pictures Miss Applebee holding a silver cup presented to her by a group of American women’s colleges commemorating the 50th anniversary of her introduction of field hockey to the United States.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burger Jackson ’34, a member of the W&M Hall of Fame; Nancy Porter-Engman, field hockey coach 1974-80, and James S. Kelly, assistant to the president gave remarks at the ceremony, tracing Miss Applebee’s association with the College.

The address of welcome was made by Mildred B. West, director of women’s athletics. The invocation and benediction were offered by the Rev. Thorn Blair of Bruton Parish Church.

The late Miss Applebee, known to her friends as “The Apple,” was an Englishwoman who spent her energies in women’s sports on both sides of the Atlantic. In 1901, when hockey was considered by many to be too violent an exercise for young ladies, she organized a demonstration of the game for students and faculty of the Summer School at Harvard. That was the beginning of field hockey in the United States.

Dr. Sargent, director of the Harvard gym, praised her as “A young lady of unusual physical vigor and energy who excels in various forms of athletic sports.” That was indeed praise for a woman athlete in 1901, and was the first of a parade of accolades that would follow her through her long career.

At 83, Miss Applebee was described by a Christian Science Monitor reporter as still spry and contributing her own special type of talent and youthfulness to the sport of hockey. She died in 1981 at the age of 107.

Miss Applebee first became acquainted with William and Mary when she met Martha Bartksdale, Marguerite Wynne-Roberts, and her sister, Edna Clements at the hockey camp she ran in 1925. She was then Director of Outdoor Sports at Bryn Mawr, retiring in 1929.

Miss Applebee spent considerable time in Williamsburg helping Miss Bartksdale develop the hockey program at the College, and following her retirement from Bryn Mawr she continued to spend most of her winters in Williamsburg.

During World War II, Miss Applebee was a valued worker and contributor to the Red Cross, U.S.O. and local church projects. Even after her retirement in 1967 at age 90 to her home in Bury, England, she stayed in touch with her American friends.

Mary Jo Tillerry

Miss Tillerry, an economics and music concentrator, is secretary of the William and Mary Choir, chair director for the Baptist Student Union and second vice president of Delta Omicron, the women’s professional music fraternity. She has been a recipient of the Aurelia B. Walford Music Scholarship for music study.

Stevens Recital

Claudia Stevens, lecturer in music at the College of William and Mary, will present a piano recital at 3 p.m., Sunday, April 18, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Stevens is especially noted for her performance of contemporary American music. She has given premiere performances of works by such leading American composers as Samuel Adler, David Diamond, Vivian Fiske, and Hugo Weisgall, a number of them written for her.

The program of Sunday’s recital will include “Variations on an Original Theme,” by Brahms; Schumann’s Kreisleriana”; the Elliott Carter piano sonata; and Chopin’s fourth “Ballade.”

Hanning to Talk On Sir Gawain Friday in Tucker

Robert W. Hanning, professor of English and comparative literature at Columbia University, will lecture on “Sir Gawain and the Red Knight” at 3:30 p.m., Monday, April 19, in St. George Tucker Hall, room 114.

Hanning is the author of “The Vision of History in Early Britain,” “The Individual in 12th Century Romance,” and has translated and edited “The Lais of Marie de France.”

The lecture is open to the public without charge. It is sponsored by the English department and the College Committee on Lectures.

Nominations Sought for College Honors

The Committee on Prizes and Awards will meet shortly to select the recipients of the major College awards, the Carr Cup and the Sullivan Awards. Nominations for the Carr Cup and the Sullivan Awards may be made by any member of the College Community. Criteria for the awards are as follows:

The Carr Cup - “awarded (to a graduating senior) on the basis of character, scholarship, and leadership. The aim is to find a well-rounded student, having a good standing in all three of these respects, and with carrying within the spirit of willingness to sacrifice and give oneself to a cause . . .”

The Sullivan Awards - awarded annually “to not more than one man and one woman in the graduating class, and to one other person who has a close relationship to the College. In the selection of the recipients, nothing is considered except the possession of characteristics of heart, mind and conduct as evince a spirit of love for and helpfulness to other men and women.”

Please submit all nominations and supporting materials to the Office of the Dean of Students (James Blair Hall, Room 211, Ext. 4387) by April 23.
