Flu Epidemic Fills Infirmary

"Danger from the influenza epidemic has definitely passed," stated Grace J. Blank, College librarian. The last recorded case was last Wednesday, when the influenza was in its last capacity. A maximum of 150 cases were reported at one time. The library was closed during one day; approximately 150 library cards were processed and treated. Miss Blank estimated that about one out of every seven students had been affected. Since there is no known cure for the flu, the best treatment is rest and a liquid diet.

The library is grateful for the services rendered by volunteer librarians in the infirmary. The names of some of those who worked are: L. W. Wilson, Betty Bonesteel, Barbara Friend, E. E. Satterfield, Donald Davis, Keith Gamble, Dorothy Grove, Betty Green, Willa Lambert, Joan Mylander, Harriett Irvin, L. B. Moore, Jean Gibbs, Lillian Cohen, Mae Black, Penny Allen, Barbara Huggins, Romalee Asmus, and Elizabeth Peckham.

"Housemothers deserve much credit for the work they did in the infirmary. The library is grateful to the four and 36 who worked and helped during the dormitory cases."

Men's Glee Club members are Virginia Wright and C. C. Vaught, volunteer helpers in the infirmary.

Junior, Robert DeForest, acting dean of men. They were unanimously opposed to the lodge system. According to the minutes of the meeting, the new lodge plan was initiated by the board of directors of 15 citizens.

Missourian Ann Vineyard Enjoys Travel and Music

Attractive Monogram Club President Entertains With Stories Of Ozarks

"While everyone entertains by singing and dancing, all I can do is tell stories about the Ozarks," revealed Ann Vineyard, treasurer of the Monogram Club, and recently selected member of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

"I was born in Joplin, Mo., but later moved to Crane, Mo., where I attended Crane High School," related the attractive brown-eyed. While she was in high school, Ann was an honor student, maintaining an A average her last two years and finally being selected valedictorian of her graduating class. She held the position of head librarian, and was captain of the girl's basketball team for four years. Ann also sang in the chorus and mixed quartet, was editor of her school paper, and participated in all the plays.

Ann has spent most of her summers playing golf and fishing, but two years ago she worked in the office of an Aircraft factory. "I didn't like it—had to work on the swing shift," she said, "but I would have had to go to college anyway if I had stayed in school. Now, I don't like the work, but I like that."

At William and Mary, Ann has been just as active in school functions as she was in high school. She has been on the JHonor Council for two years, and manager of the varsity basketball team for three years. Ann has been the only woman to hold the office of an Aircraft factory. "I didn't like it—had to work on the swing shift," she said, "but I would have had to go to college anyway if I had stayed in school. Now, I don't like the work, but I like that."

Charly Bright: "I think it's wonderful! I'm thrilled to death."

Carl Pickle: "It's great."

Jean Sturtevart: "Democracy—wonders!"

"I would like to be a teacher of psychology," said Al Puth, a junior, "but it's hard. Vocational guidance interests me particularly in this field of work.

Al has had experience with problem children at different summer camps. His children were between the ages of five and eighteen. His duty was to straighten them out by helping them to adjust themselves, to become interested in games, and to enjoy mixing with other people.

He has spent a year at study New York University. When asked what kind of group he preferred teaching, Al said, "Just a group small enough to get to know the students individually."

"Patience, sensitivity, and understanding," said Al, "are the three necessary fundamentals in this line of work." He doesn't feel that some people are good and some bad, but that their environment and opportunities determining people is useless; they should be given the opportunity to seek education and other enlightenment, he declares.

"All I've ever become interested in this field," he stated, "I've learned, is that people do enjoy listening to you. If they are interested, Al and Al thinks he knows an answer, he gives it. Otherwise he simply listens. "Most people never want advice, but just some confirmation of what they believe in the first place."

In the laboratory he has experimented with hypnosis, which he thinks is over-rated. "There is nothing mysterious about it; and anyone can do it, but it takes practice."

He has tried these experiments to test people's reflexes and responses.

On the side Al reads autobiographies, and is analyzing them. He has an interest in reading and watching the changing change about propaganda.

The courses related to this subject which he thinks helpful are psychology, sociological, philosophy, and ethics. Today Al says that educational institutions build the individual, not the practical work they teach more about facts than life."

He expects first to get a job and after he gets married, go on to a university for graduate work. "The field is comparatively new, but must have already been accomplished," Al feels that for those who are good men there will be no trouble getting to the top. He believes that there is too much guest work and support, but much has already been accomplished over this fault will be overcome and it will be more of a science than an art. Al wants to promote the idea that an individual is dynamic, and he must be judged by standards, but must be respected for his individuality.

Knox Ramsey Receives All-Southern Nomination

One would think that the Civil War was still raging, the way the big city papers rave about several of the stars of the All-Southern Conference first team being southerners. That's hoofting about .458, but what they didn't add was the percentage of southerners on the team. If the preponderance of Southerners is as great as it is hoofted to be, then .458 is rather, shall we say, lousy. But don't get too, Doc, I'm from Virginia.

Rule Changes Are Proposed

Several proposed rule changes, which would largely restore eligibility restrictions to the prewar standard, will be considered by Southern Conference members at their annual meeting in Richmond on Friday and Saturday.

The list of proposed changes was released by Colonel William Coup- per, conference secretary. The two major amendments suggested by the committee would restore varsity athletics after January 1, 1948, and end immediately the suspension of eligibility rules for members of the armed forces who were assigned as students to conference schools.

Another suggestion would disqualify a student from intercollegiate competition if he was enrolled before entering the service. The second provides that students who have participated in conference competitions prior to December 1, 1945, shall not be redesignated until by subsequent rule changes.

The authors of the proposed amendments are not known.

Crush Opponent

One triumph is the return to many of last year's varsity. Another hopeful point lies in the fact that the coeds have received the use of Blow gym. This means that they can develop stamina, which is the main thing they lack in swimming.

With such a height advantage, they do not seem unassailable to suggest that the slender body support the girl's varsity team a little. No one doubts that the boys' sports should, and do take precedence, but surely a little of the enthusiasm might be saved for the Squaws. Now that the girls are playing other schools, the next step is giving them a little support.

RUBE'S FIGHTING MEN

Basketball is now taking the lime-light and once again an extensive varsity schedule is being planned. Coach Martha Barkdiale and Manager Jackie Armbruster have been recruiting various colleges in the endeavor to get some really good results for the coed cages to play. The schedule is by no means complete, but the excitement it shows that good things are in the making.

As things stand now, the Squaws will play several home games with Virginia schools. Besides these matches, they will probably make one in-state trip and jaunt up to Baltimore and Philadelphia again.

It seems as though these two towns have captured the hearts of the girls, for one reason or another. Anyway, it sounds good and it's about time such things started popping.

Miss Barkdiale is pleased with this year's prospects of the team.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT

Those of you who want a treat this Sunday night will find it profitable to be in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at eight o'clock. Carlin Field, director of the chorus group, has prepared a concert which will, if not exceed, the brilliant pre-war Christmas festivals.

In a program of our own making, the music groups will present a program each year prior to the Christmas holidays. This year through Mr. Fehr's painstaking work, the chorus has prepared a selection for each student to hear a part of about 50 students (more or less, depending upon the size of each group). Numbers which you have bound to enjoy are the "Are 'Maris" sung by the Girls' Chorus, "Holy Night" and "Ave Maria" by the Men's Glee Club, the boys' four to one by the girls, will also attempt a high spot of the program.

No Favors Asked

As I was served in the cafeteria line breakfast last week, I was able to have Dr. Spender's usual favor, chocolate milk. New and old friends couldn't resist the temptation and failed to notice I was the first victim. I hope I will not be asked for a favor again.

I must say that I am not going to tell you anything about the performance of the chorus, the opera, or any other part of the program. All I can say is that it lived up to its reputation of being one of the best concerts that the College has ever had.

In the second and third parts of the program, the Don Cossacks thrilled their capacity audience.

The men of the regimental band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and later on "The Brown Flag," "The Glisha," and "The Polka," a very rapid song which the chorus sang with ease and assurance as an accomplished organist sounds the notes by tapping the keys. The great flexibility of the chorus was exhibited by their rapid changes of volume, tempo and tone.

In the opening part of the program, the chorus presented religious music including "The Rosary" and "Thy Mystical Supper." In these selections the singers showed their superb variety of voices which range from the lowest bass to the highest soprano. Director Kozatchek seemed to be able to draw each note from the chorus with as much ease as the soloists in the opera. The members of the chorus were kept in a state of breathless with expectancy and charm from start to finish.

The leading soloist, M. Dedovitch, thrilled his listeners by sang with ease and high notes in "The Lord's Prayer" and in "The Nightingale." He carried several other solos in later selections and was acclaimed by the audience as the outstanding personality and singer of the chorus.

Cossacks "Warm Up"

In the second and third parts of the program, the Don Cossacks seemed to be "warm up," shutting off the cloak of reverence which was pronounced in the opening selecting by the chorus. They entered the stage in "Stabilitas at Fides" and the thundering "Song of the Phain," by Knappens. The men of the regimental band kept the audience breathless with expectancy and charm from start to finish.

In the second part, G. Solodubin, executed the difficult solo on the "ginka" and exhibited many intricate dance steps.

In response to special requests the chorus sang the ever popular "Miller's Waltz" and "Alma Mater," "Evening Bells." Another extra number, "Laughing Polluck" was introduced by the chorus and danced the "Kozatchek." They seemed to enjoy themselves most in the role of native Cossack dancers and the audience shook with mirth and clapped with enthusiasm from its start to finish.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

The FLAT HAT this year is undoubtedly one of the best things in our campus life. How much more credit goes to the staff, but even the best staff is not lost without good leadership.

A paper is not necessarily abyssal; the features are interesting without being sophomoric; and the editorials face it. Furthermore, a spirit of liberty and freedom of expression is maintained in this volume of the FLAT HAT.

I'll be looking forward to seeing that "All-American" certificate you're earning!

Sincerely,

Marilyn Kaemmerle

Non-Fraternity Men Favor House System

By BUDDE CANOLES and HARRY STINSON

Last week a special meeting of the student body was called in order that the students could be informed of the fraternity situation as it now stands. We feel sure that those of you who did attend had many matters to consider. No longer will the student body have good reason to say that the students have been excluded in any consideration of the situation. It is certain that this special meeting has also gained some knowledge of the situation.

Our purpose is not to outline in detail the arguments that were presented by speakers on both sides. We should like, however, to express our views, as the views of non-fraternity men.

As a result of this, a remember college to us has always been associated with fraternities, and that some day in the future, when we entered college we would like to have the same sort of association, the same sort of companionship, and the same sort of comfort.

When we came to college our hopes were not realized, nor are they likely to be realized. We believe that the idea of fraternity life and fraternity houses is still associated with college in the minds of those who wish some day to attend college. Certainly, the vote at the meeting showed that 351 out of 354 of the students now enrolled here want fraternities and sometimes with houses.

What happens to the students who enter these colleges? He, of course, meets a lot of people. Before long he knows who he is and what he is doing. He will have a hobby, a woman and a dog and possibly a sewing machine. By this time he will have had his boys and girls and possibly his father and mother. He will have a world of friends, and he will have a new world of friends. This is a natural process and it goes on in every college every day, and every college every day, every fraternity house and society. The reason for this is that the men have been segregated into distinctive groups; those that have more chances in common tend to associate together.

This sort of division we believe is more unhealthy than living in fraternities, since it accentuates and exaggerates a personality. It makes it difficult for the boys to get together and develop a common personality, which is very necessary if they are to have good fellowship and be able to rise to the real purpose of a college education.

Why do we who do not belong to fraternities want to see fraternities survive? We belong to fraternities because we would like to have a full college life and to form the best kind of lasting friendships. We believe that by living in a fraternity house, you would come to have a finer appreciation of true friendship and would have found it easier to foster these friendships. Therefore, we believe that by living in a fraternity house, you would come to have a finer appreciation of true friendship and would have found it easier to foster these friendships.
