CLAY BANK WHIL.

I, a native of the spot, am a native of the spot, and have long been a resident of the vicinity. The district, consisting of the town of Clay Bank and the adjoining villages, is a land of beauty and fertility. The climate is mild and healthful, the soil is fertile, and the people are hardy and enterprising. The town is situated on the banks of a beautiful stream, which flows through a fertile valley, and is surrounded by picturesque hills and mountains. The town is noted for its fine weather, and the inhabitants are proud of their home.