First appearance:

Appropriations are made in a William and Mary theatre production are McCall Richey, Sallie Costar, Freddy Ann Bailey, and Ann Buckles, the talented young actors who recently transferred from Mary Washington College, where she is recognized as such. Following the recent performance of the play, Colonel Miller now resides at Richmond. He was featured in The Shrew, which closed recently.

The proposed amendments would abolish the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. Opponents of the amendments are invited to attend this meeting.

According to the Student Assembly by-laws, to ascertain the eligibility for all candidates must be turned into the office of the dean no later than November 5. A list of all candidates will be announced this week by John E. Houcutt, dean of men.

School Requests

Longer Vacation

Request for an extension of Christmas holidays has been received by Dr. Scholl, president of the college, according to a recent announcement made by John E. Houcutt, dean of men.

The classes, held each Thursday from 8:30 to 10 p.m. in the Great Hall, will end weomendays and teach all steps through the reels.

By Bob Hedelt

When asked, Dr. Marshall said the schedule is subject to the Syllabus of the Student Association, which prepares the college calendar for long periods of time in advance. Even consideration, Dr. Marshall emphasized, of the problems would be based on whether a change is even possible under the present rules.

The request originated at the first meeting of the General Cooperative Committee when Elgin Scottfield, president of the senior class, called attention to the vacation schedule.

The opposition to the hour of return varies when out-of-state students, and some state students expected that the 11 a.m. resump- tion of classes would necessitate their traveling on New Year’s Day.

One alternative advanced as possible is that of granting additional time to the Christmas holiday and having it made up later in the year.

Students at KIP recently were given a request for an additional two days off.

Freshmen Will Decide Class Leaders After Active Battle By Eight Parties

Campaigning for freshmen elections got into full swing this week with posters and signs plastered on every piece of available vegetation and structure from College Corner to the shelter in the college woods and from advertisements to the student room. Voting will take place between the hours of 12 noon and 6 p.m. on Wednesday, November 1, 1949.

Approximately eight parties have begun to campaign; however, only three parties have admitted the number of candidates they are running to the office of the dean of men. A list of all candidates must be turned into the office of the dean no later than November 5. A list of all candidates will be announced this week by John E. Houcutt, dean of men.

As a grand finale to a week of activity, a meeting of the entire freshman class will be held Tuesday, November 8, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 8 p.m. This meeting will take the form of a political rally, at which time speeches for all candidates will be given by their respective supporters.

Square Dancing Classes Held Thursday Evenings

Classes in square dancing are now being taught on campus by Bob Smith, a William and Mary student.

Smith, who conducted square dances at Matthew-Whiley High School last year, opened a four-week series of instruction periods last Thursday evening.

The classes, held each Thursday from 8:30 to 10 p.m. in the Great Hall, are free and weomendays and teach all steps through the reels. Admission per person is 10 cents for men and 10 cents for women.

1950 Graduates

If you desire the aid of the Placement Bureau in securing employment after graduation, you should register immediately in the Placement Bureau at the University of Richmond. Registration for the graduating class must be made by December 1.
Too Many Schools?

Last Sunday's Richmond TIMES-DISPATCH carried another of Dr. William H. Stauffer's articles on the Virginia system of higher education. One of the points made by Dr. Stauffer is that "a state controls, in this case, we do not know of it."

The college apparently gets nothing; the students business if students were allowed freedom of choice.

The college receives about 25 per cent of its appropriation, providing limited services which are themselves responsible to the Board of Visitors who are appointed by the governor.

The college apparently gets nothing; the students must be more or less dependent on alumni support.

William And Mary Go Round

By Galey Garrison and Bruce Crowell

(SCENE ONE: OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF WOMEN. THE COLLEGE COMPUTER IN CHARGE OF THE IBM MACHINE.)

DEAN: Dean, something terrible has gone wrong with the computer. It's making a horrid noise. It's breaking!

DEAN: What do you mean?

CLERK: It's running amok—doing the most impossible thing! First it gave all the freshmen in biology.

DEAN: Incredible!

CLERK: Then it put Dr. Porkett on probation. Then it assigned a freshman girl to the Hootch to the Cotton Crew.

DEAN: A ridiculous Frankensteiner!

CLERK: And it transferred the Crotty Brothers to Siberia—

DEAN: Don't! That makes war with Russia—a certainty—quick, call Dr. Lambert! He'll know what to do.

DEAN: Oh, dean, it's horrible— the machine has swallowed up Dr. Lambert and pumped him full of holes 1/16 of an inch.

DEAN: Well, he would stand too close.

CLERK: One more thing—it assigned a freshman girl to the Aepplike Hall.

DEAN: Ah? Why?

CLERK: But that derogatory won't be part of the campus until the College takes over the buildings of Eastern State—may be years from now.

(DEAN TWO: EASTERN STATE, THE OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF WOMEN.)

CLERK: Have you heard, Dr. Faustus? He is seated at his desk looking through a file. A long, long file!

DEAN: Heh! Heh!—Heh!—Heh!—Heh!—Heh!—Heh!

FASHTUS: Hans—Evelyn Amsm, attended last month. Case of persistent delusion; thinks she is the President of the United States.

NURSE: A sad case, Dr. Faustus—the girl is hopelessly mad.

FAUSTUS: Well, bring her in and I'll have a talk with her.

DEAN: Good. You and Reavers with, Evelyn, who is wearing a duc cap and carrying a mortarboard.

FASHTUS: How are you, my dear?

EVELYN: I can't seem to understand my pro- gram. I have a football team, which was being transported, and the pred kept telling me about the battle of Waterloo.

FAUSTUS: Well, isn't that historical?

EVELYN: Yes, but the professor claims he was in it. And he wore the funniest hat and kept one arm tucked in his coat all the time.

FAUSTUS: Well, my roommate is a little odd. She wears peculiar clothes—that like tweed sports wear to me.

EVELYN: Isn't it pretty?

FAUSTUS: It's pretty enough, but it lacks down.

DEAN: I think you have a good style.

FAUSTUS: College, stuff, you know.

EVELYN: And then the other night some people came to a party and they gave me a party and they kept me awake all night.

FAUSTUS: That was a joyous occasion—our football team went to Boston to play the Terriers. The State and we were signing the coach to a lifetime contract.

EVELYN: Of course. It is, but with the student body behind us, that order isn't impossible. Wm. and Mary beat us after four losses. Can we do it and get the student body behind us too?

FAUSTUS: You have heard the social rules were tough, but they won't let us out of the gate. We come to the next party in another building.

FAUSTUS: Mom—have you?

EVELYN: Well, you can take your chances in the elevator.

FAUSTUS: Do you think I'm crazy?

EVELYN: That's the Spirit, my dear. I'm sure you're right.

( Scene Three: Office of the Dean of Women.)

DEAN: Do you remember that ghastly occasion 20 years ago when the IBM ran amok?

DEAN: Too well! Thank goodness nothing has happened again.

EVELYN: Yes, the freshmen are all blankingBin.

DEAN: And I heard the social rules were tough, but they won't let us out of the gate. We come to the next party in another building.

EVELYN: Hunts—yes. Well, you can take your chances in the elevator.

FAUSTUS: Do you think I'm crazy?

EVELYN: That's the Spirit, my dear. I'm sure you're right.

McGrath Advocates Scholarship Program

Federally supported scholarships to the amount of $360 million dollars for nonveteran college students was proposed by Earl J. McGrath of the United States Office of Education last Thursday.

McGrath advocated the scholarship program as a counterpart to the present veterans' administration plan of providing educational aid for veterans. At the same time, he urged a system of guaranteed loans for all college students similar to those now granted to veterans.

McGrath stated that the proposed scholarships would be a start in allowing two million students who have the ability but not the means to attend college.

"A civilizes hill of rights comparable to the GI Bill of Rights was how McGrath termed his move.

Prominent Politician Aston Dovell Dies At Medical College Hospital

Former House Speaker Ashton Dovell, 64, died in the Medical College of Virginia Hospital on Friday, October 30. Funeral services were held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Bruton Parish Church.

Dovell had been prominent in democratic circles almost from the time he began practice as an attorney in Williamsburg in 1914. He received his bachelor of arts degree from the College of William and Mary and was graduated from the University of Virginia Law School.

He represented Williamsburg and the counties of James City, York, New Kent and Charles City from 1924 until 1946 when he retired from the House of Delegates.

While at William and Mary, Dovell was a member of the football team, playing three years as end, as well as being captain of the 2907 team. He was also captain of the track team and a member of the basketball team. Dovell was editor of the Colonial Echo, member of Kappa Alpha social fraternity and valientiorian of his class. He was a member of the Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa and a member of Omicron Delta Kappa.

In 1916, he delivered the address at the alumni annual meeting of the college, and in 1946 he was chosen to deliver the alumni oration in tribute to the late President J. A. C. Chandler. In 1949, the Society of Alumni presented him with an alumni medal in and in 1934, the college conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon him.

Dovell is survived by his widow, the former Miss Martha Lane of Williamsburg. They had no children.

Women To Honor Community Day

World Community Day, with a theme of "Peace is Possible," will be observed in Williamsburg this Saturday in the assembly room of the Methodist Church.

The purpose of the World Community Day is to rally American women to consider ways of developing a Christian world community and to learn to pay the price of peace. Not only does it provide women with the voices of Christian women for peace, but it also educates them to work for human values, freedom, and justice throughout the world.

Women of Williamsburg have been asked to bring materials, notions, thread, yarn, thimbles, etc., to be sent overseas, when they attend the service Friday at the Methodist Church.

Reconstruction Started On King's Arms Tavern

The celebrated King's Arms Tavern, frequented by George Washington and William Byrd II during their stays in this colonial capital, is being reconstructed to serve its 18th century function for modern visitors here.

In one of the largest projects of Colonial Williamsburg's post-war building program the famed tavern and the 18th century Porch's adjoining adjacent are being rebuilt on their original sites on Duke of Gloucester Street. When completed late in 1950, they will be operated as an 18th century "ordinary" serving meals in the manner of two centuries ago and supplanting the present Travis House operation.

Advancement Of Management Society Announces Start Of Student Chapter

Organization of a student chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management was announced today by Al Evans and John Watson, charter members of the society and temporary chairman of the organizing committee.

The first meeting has been called for Wednesday, November 9, in Room 202 Marshall-Wythe.

The Society for Advancement of Management is a nationally recognized organization of leaders in the fields of industry, commerce, government and education. The society represents no special interest and is motivated solely for the purpose of spreading benefits derived from scientific management, spokesmen said.

The society was formed in 1936 by a merger of the Taylor Society and the Society of Industrial Engineers, with a third, the Industrial Methods Society, joining in 1946.

Purpose of the organization are as follows:
- To forward elimination of waste and develop efficiency by the study and application of the scientific methods of management.
- To provide means whereby executors, engineers, teachers, public officials and others concerned who apply scientific methods to management problems may promote this common interest.
- To inspire in employees and manager a constant adherence to the highest ethical conception of individual and collective social responsibility.

Advantages of membership, according to Evans and Watson, include being presented with the opportunity for well rounded development in the field of management, personal contact with other members and indoctrination through the media of publications and meetings that will enable the member to acquire newest information concerning techniques, procedures and methods.

It is planned to have outstanding figures from the business world address the organization at its regular meetings, now tentatively scheduled as bi-weekly. Other activities will include round-table discussions, movies and field trips to observe scientific management.

Membership in, SAM is restricted to juniors and seniors concentrating in business administration. All interested have been invited to attend the society's first meeting.

Dr. Marshall, Dr. Wagener Attend Hampton Inaugural Exercises

Dr. N. Marshall, dean of the college, and Dr. A. F. Seiber Wagener, professor of ancient languages, represented the college of William and Mary at the inaugural exercises of neighboring Hampton Institute Saturday.

Dr. Alton Graunsam Moran, the first Negro to hold such an office in the 81 year history of the school, was inaugurated as president of Hampton Institute before an audience that included representatives from more than 190 colleges and universities.

Dr. Katharine B. Jeffers, dean of women, last week attended the inauguration of Dr. Arthur Huber's Rice as president of Duke University as the official representative of William and Mary.

UNC Hopes To Avenge 7-7 Deadlock
Sprung By Redmen In Last Fall’s Tilt

By Hugh DeSamper

The William and Mary Redmen, who came from a running 24-0 victory over the hapless Spiders from Richmond, plan a varied afternoon when the visiting firemen from Chapel Hill roll into town next Saturday. Coach Rube McCray, now that he has the Redmen back on their own stamping ground, Kenan Stadium, the tie knocked the Tarheels from the nation’s list of teams with unblemished records, and dropped them a notch or two in the national standings. That did not sit well with the mighty men from Carolina.

Graduation Loops

Last June, over a score of Carl Sneary’s prize gridders went the way of all who have completed four years of competition, taking their diplomas and going to work. The Tarheels of 1949 are somewhat weaker than last year’s aggregation, relying on several sophomores in some key spots. But the power is there if given half a chance, and the Redmen are capable of cocking off many a fine team.

Another factor in the game will be that the White Phantoms will definitely be on the scoreboard after two straight defeats, the last being the humiliating 35-6 smashing at the hands of the Tennessee Vols. The men from Chapel Hill will be out to erase the memory of that rout, and a crushing victory over the Redmen would be mighty fine fuel.

Ragazzo Cracks Touchdown Pass Mark
As Tribesmen Roll Over Spiders, 34-0

By Dick Kostyal

William and Mary’s football team bounced back into the win-at-all-costs orbit after two discon- tent Saturdays by blanking the outclass- ed Fowlers of the University of Richmond 34-0 for the Tribe’s tenth consecutive victory over Richmond. The win entered the long series at 27-all. The Indians came right back to the battle seldom left Richmond since early in the season. No serious injuries were incurred, and the long list of ailing Indians has decreased to only Randy Davis, and he will see action in Saturday’s contest. The Tribe tailback, who will see action in Saturday’s contest, will be working to improve his totals. His punting is also well up among the leaders. Justice, leading punting in the nation last year, is close to the top again this year, with a near 50-yard average.

But what brought more encouragement to the Tribe followers Saturday was the return to action of Jack Cloud. Cloud gave no evidence of his knee injury, as he ran like the Cloud of old. The Big Chief played only defensively till the fourth quarter when Coach Trice McCray allowed him to stay in on offense. Cloud not only went 87 yards for a touchdown, but all his running was with that same speed and power that gained him All-American recognition two years ago.

Lex to Ragazzo

After being stopped on the Spider’s 12 with the opening kick-off drive, the Tribesmen marched 69 yards for the first score, with the contest only eight minutes old. In three running plays, Lex and Majidchuk covered 20 yards. Lex then took to the air and pitched a ten-yarder to Ragazzo on the 41. On the next play, the likes of a touchdown. The Indian’s lanky-end, had quite a day through the Richmond line for 20 yards. He split the crowded Njprights with Harry (Book) Hilling holding outstretched arms, and Vito sped to score. Lex split the Njprights to make it 21-0.

For the second and third periods the battle seldom left Richmond territory, but the Tribe was unable to score. However, on the first play of the fourth quarter, Lex passed 20 yards into Ragazzo’s unguarded area, and Vito sped past the two men assigned to guard him for the record breaking touchdown. Lex and Hilling made the conversion and the Indians led 28-0.

Cloud Runs 87 Yards

Jack (the Flying) Cloud’s power drives set up the Tribe’s fourth touchdown. The Big Chief came to life again as the game combina kicked again as Ragazzo glided by the safety man to score. Lex split the width with Harry (Book) Hilling holding to make it 34-0.

The Indians came right back to the flight another minute later when the Newport News flash, Buddy Lex, scooted 12 yards around right end to pay off. The running of Lex and Majidchuk had moved the ball 23 yards in four plays to set up Lex’s scoring run. The conversion win of Lex and Hilling made the extra point 66 put the Big Green out 14-0.

Standing room only is the word from the athletic-office concerning ticket situations. A capacity crowd will be on hand as the Indians attempt to keep the Carolina point decrease on the move. In the passing game, the Tribe may be able to be at its most complete strength since early in the season. No serious injuries were incurred, and the long list of ailing Indians has decreased to only Randy Davis, and he is expected to be ready to go when next Saturday’s game at Williamsburg.

Tribesmen Buddy Lex, high in the nation in pass completions, will be working to improve his totals. His passing is also well up among the leaders. Justice, leading punting in the nation last year, is close to the top again this year, with a near 50-yard average. The line of Marvin Bass will be on hand—a line coached by one of the top young coaches in the business today, and a man who has a decided advantage on the Tarheel side of the ledger.

Cloud Returns to Form

With Flying Jack Cloud playing in the cracks-tend-down road, as he proved last Saturday against Richmond, there should be plenty of bull-like charges into the line. The presence of the popular co-captain in the lineup is a shot in the arm to the Indians, and a threat to the opposition. The senior varsity as a passer and a receiver makes it necessary for defenders to watch him even more closely.

UNC Hopes To Avenge 7-7 Deadlock
Sprung By Redmen In Last Fall’s Tilt

By Hugh DeSamper

The William and Mary Redmen, who came from a running 24-0 victory over the hapless Spiders from Richmond, plan a varied afternoon when the visiting firemen from Chapel Hill roll into town next Saturday. Coach Rube McCray, now that he has the Redmen back on their own stamping ground, Kenan Stadium, the tie knocked the Tarheels from the nation’s list of teams with unblemished records, and dropped them a notch or two in the national standings. That did not sit well with the mighty men from Carolina.

Graduation Loops

Last June, over a score of Carl Sneary’s prize gridders went the way of all who have completed four years of competition, taking their diplomas and going to work. The Tarheels of 1949 are somewhat weaker than last year’s aggregation, relying on several sophomores in some key spots. But the power is there if given half a chance, and the Redmen are capable of cocking off many a fine team.

Another factor in the game will be that the White Phantoms will definitely be on the scoreboard after two straight defeats, the last being the humiliating 35-6 smashing at the hands of the Tennessee Vols. The men from Chapel Hill will be out to erase the memory of that rout, and a crushing victory over the Redmen would be mighty fine fuel.

As Tribesmen Roll Over Spiders, 34-0

By Dick Kostyal

William and Mary’s football team bounced back into the win-at-all-costs orbit after two discon- tent Saturdays by blanking the outclass- ed Fowlers of the University of Richmond 34-0 for the Tribe’s tenth consecutive victory over Richmond. The win entered the long series at 27-all. The Indians came right back to the battle seldom left Richmond since early in the season. No serious injuries were incurred, and the long list of ailing Indians has decreased to only Randy Davis, and he is expected to be ready to go when next Saturday’s game at Williamsburg.

INJUN SIGNS

The big green shield that suddenly appeared on various parts of the campus certainly revived the old spirit between the two schools. We know that if John Wayland wasn't in the other night, when he stated the Williams and Mary-Hammond game is always the most important game of the year—assuming that Davidson is not in the running. However, the green paint isn't too becoming to our campus, and we hope that the Tamrind will be so in a similar manner. There has been an effect at W&M to take up a collection to buy several gross of rattles for their own campus, the Richmond campus.

The subject of distributing things around the Richmond campus has come to our attention, so we will assume that some benefit has been derived in an orderly and systematic manner. It seems that during the weekend, an excursion to Richmond was planned by students of W&M, in which pamphlets were distributed, and a dummy would be placed in prominent places on the U. C. campus, probably the post office. This phase of distribution was explained by Professor Eubie Hendrick, who is as active a man as has graced W&M in many years, who was to have spent his last year in the sand at Fort Monroe. Hendrick apparently was the motivating force behind the trip. Jim Lamont said he has been to Point Comfort for a dollar and change, and shouted words to the effect that if he took these pamphlets, they would be effective. Hendrick, he will be held responsible for any subsequent damages that might occur. At any rate, we are happy to note that there will be no misrepresentation. It was made clear that such an excursion would probably result in a riot happening somewhere in the neighborhood, but we're glad to learn that this assertion is rather far-fetched. At most, a slight mutiny may result, and we hope that the students will now take the initiative and carry home their pamphlets complete with pictures.

Having such a large number of students, as well as in residence, is not as safe as we have been before. But eyes may come in at any time—breakfast, lunch, dinner, or for that evening snack. So we hope that the students will leave the pamphlets around, and be as active a man as has graced W&M in many years, who was to have spent his last year in the sand at Fort Monroe. Hendrick apparently was the motivating force behind the trip. Jim Lamont said he has been to Point Comfort for a dollar and change, and shouted words to the effect that if he took these pamphlets, they would be effective. Fourth Saturday night, the complete program of the Big Green was ready to issue to the lanky flankman when the All-American selections were announced. Those three scores Saturday ran his season point total up to 28, as he snared 'em, W&M could well have one of the top three backs in the nation this year. He is the knowledge that the students are willing for his return, and they are thinking that this year may mean a big game—and the Carolina game is just such a game—real big game.

The Indians had not just one man to finish first, but the Tribe's "Three Musketeers," Lindsey Lawson, and Baker walked over together for a terrific tie finish. The results of the event, the course being a quite a shakedown, but it was one of an advantage to Lawson, a rigid mudler who came from far back to help gain the tie. Then came the dash, the finish, which Coach Ralph Burkhardt always says, the wait for the second. In the meantime the State's Lautner, Vernon and Klemath delivered in for posterity four, the Virginia team, and the Illini bringing up the rear. "Slamming Minns" was chased in by his galloping associate, Clyde Baker, for the one-two punch, Jordan and Reins of Richmond tied third and fourth places in that order with Bob Lawton repeating, in for fifth place. Then it was Richard Winch's, White's and C. White taking positions seven, eight and ninth, while Bob Carter, impressing to 20:20 and finding the middle part of the field, gained the ninth place. Spider Lawson made the number ten spot followed by Bill Hendrick, of the Big Green, in 11th, State's Wadworth was 12th, and Indian Bob Carter brought in the faying points in 13th place. William and Mary's determined cross country team finally let pass with four seconds remaining. The key event was the 30-30 deadlock with the over-confident Indians of the North Carolina State, on the course, and one and one-half mile course of the Indians.

It was on Wednesday prior to Saturday's meet that the "Running Bravos" were held to a 28-28 tie by their hosts, the Spiders of Richmond, on a slim-splitting three-and-one-half mile pay Cheats left out to be the biggest Chief, in Sam Lindsey, who took the course of 19:45 down to a new 18:27 mark. Pictured above, to right are the three seniors, Sam Lindsey, Chris Baker and Bob (Bill) Lawson. The team recently finished second in the East Coast Conference cross-country meet, in New York, and expects to enter the national meet at St. Louis in December. The Wolfpack's Wadsworth was the only top five finisher in the region, and hopes to place high in the nationals. The team expects to win the regionals and finish in the top five at nationals.

Hopefuls Number 18
As Practices Begin

If you watch closely next football game you see, the chances are extremely good that you'll notice the stellar play of a hard driving, speed-stirred fullback whose William and Mary jersey bears the number ten. Checking with your book, you'll see that this back to Ed Magdziak and you'll more than likely put him down in your book as a man destined for great things on the gridiron.

It has been no easy assignment for Ed to fill the shoes of The Rube's pride and joy, Jack Cloud, sidelined by injuries, but Ed has done a admirable job at this post and has left very little to be despired. An offensive specialist, Ed gave a worthy account of himself in both the Michigan State and Wake Forest games following Cloud's injury in the former game.

A good looking, friendly chap, Ed is a physical qualification which fits him ideally for the backslot back. He stands six feet two inches tall and tips the scales at 200 pounds. In addition to dealing with enemy tacklers, Ed also passes and punts. As a freshman he played at wingback as well as in his present position, and earned his varsity letter.

Magdziak will almost certainly be one of the foundations around which Coach McCray will build his 1950 team. It is doubtful if a man could be found more ideally suited for the job. This year has been Ed's big year and he has proved that he definitely has what it takes.

A native of Passaic, New Jersey, the 21-year-old junior was All- Conference fullback in high school. His brother, Stan, played halfback both at basketball and football. Ed holds down the hot corner as a fullback. His speed and ability to get the ball down to the 1-yard line is a decided asset.

Squaws Felled By Westhampton, 8-1

The William and Mary sticklers were overpowered 3-1 Saturday morning by a well-coordinated Westhampton eleven on the gridiron. The Indians faced a steady joltle, the slow-moving center of contention, and the undefeated Big Reds who completely pressured the Squaws with their speed and shifty stick-work. Westhampton's counters were always aimed at, and William and Mary's center forwarded and right wing, both drivers without mercy, cut off the headless tricks in each half. The only interruption to the Big Red tally was made by high-scoring Squaw Jean Allinson with a successful push-pull attempt from right inner position in the second period.

Preventing many additional points were William and Mary's entire defensive alignment, whose agile Miles Warfield, whose agile Miles Warfield, whose alertness and quickness to the pass and to the tackle, put many difficulties on the men in the wrong place.

After a previous 1-0 loss and 1-1 tie to Mrs. Whaley, William and Mary finally scored a 3-1 Wednesday at home. Both winning goals were raked in by Jean Allinson at right inner, while Pat Ovus rushed in by Whaley's only player on the left.

Novly elected captain is Betty Jane Runnals, a transfer from the University of Delaware.

Frisco Flops Edge Cybernauts, 7-6, In Independent Loop’s Top Game

Of the five games played in the Independent Touchball League last week, the feature game was the clash between two of the best teams, the Frisco Flops and the Cyburnets, both of which are members of the Frisco Flops, 7-6. Both teams scored in the first half. Nick Burke passed to Bennett for the Flops TD. On the extra point play, Burke tumbled complete on a fake run for the point. At the time this touchdown occurred, the game was very close, but it proved to be the margin of victory. The Cyburnets’ Bob Thurston intercepted a Flop pass and ran 20 yards for the score. The pass for the extra point was no good and that was the difference in the half.

The Chicken Chippers and the Flying 8 battled to a 6-6 tie. The Chicken Chippewas scored for the Chippers when he intercepted a Flying 8 pass and went all the way. Most Linebackers tagged team Muddos for the Flying 8 TD.

The Hen-Pecked Husbands, paced by Charlie Unrue, whipped the Cavaliers 28-12. Unrue scored a TD on an end run. For the extra point, Unrue snared a pass from Burke for the tally, and to Lefty Wright, who had intercepted the Husbands’ scoring with a TD. The second he passed to Duke Stevens, who was scored by Unrue on a dash through center. Leo Williams on a leap over the Cavaliers TD. The receivers were Norm Knox and Horace Mahers. Williams tossed to Joe Burke for an extra point.

The Hen-Pecked Husbands outscored the Chicken Chippewas 21-6. The final contest of the week was the unequaled Frisco Flops last night. The Flops tallied once in the first half. A Nick Burke pass to Phil Durner was good for 1 TD, and Burke scored the extra point. The Frisco footballer opened up in the second half, as the Flops hauled a high scoring gain. Tommy Smith, education, put the Flops on top in the TD.

Jean Cutler Reorganizes Children's Dramatic Club

Jean Cutler, who finished school last June, announced today an organization of the William and Mary Children's Theatre, discontinued last year, as a two-productor effort because of the success of the William and Mary Miller's "Piper of Hamelin," based on Robert Browning's poem of the same title. The Theatre will present the Pled Piper, on December 3, 4, and 5, and the British-Whitney High School auditorium.

Cutter emphasized that the productions, staged by children aged 14 to 18, will be by children about children and for children. "But being the actors, the children will engage in other dramatic activities, such as scenery construction and painting, costumes making, make-up and sound effects production in the future Cutter plans to take advantage of children's off-campus talents and abilities, and also to encourage their own.

On Sunday night, children and adult actors, Cutter stated that the children are usually superior, because they have no trouble in transporting the atmospheres of their own highly imaginative world.

Anyone may become a member of the William and Mary Children Theatre. Cutter said, by paying a few of dollars and 50 cents, which enables him to help in the productions as well as reserves him a seat.

To stir interest in the Theatre using the Matthew-Whitney child stars, Cutter decided to have a two-dollar and 50 cents, which enables him to help in the productions as well as reserves him a seat.

Already a number of local citizens are serving as chairman of committees to assist in the production.

Two Commentaries of Caesar

In 1888 increasing financial support from the state required that fifths are required to be alumni of the College. No member may serve without the prior approval of the senate. All must be residents of Virginia and three-years are required to be alumnus of the College. No member may serve more than five consecutive terms of years each; half coming up for reappointment every two years.

Let us now return to the largest drop leaf table in the United States. Seated at the head is the present Rector of the Board of Visit­ ers, Mr. C. E. Lane (Newman). Mr. Newman is a former member of the faculty, and was appointed in 1919. Reappointed in 1940, he has served as rector since then. The largest change to the membership of the Board of Visitors since that time has been in the student representatives. In the past the students had two representatives, now there are none. The Board of Visitors takes its tasks very seriously. They exercise complete control over college finances; have control over college policies; have the final say in selecting the principal, the deans, and the professors. They also have the responsibility of selecting the Board of Visitors themselves. They must please everybody.

Dr. Nelson To Speak
At Chapel Tomorrow

Building on Yourself will be the topic of Dr. Nelson Marshall's chapel address.

Dr. Marshall, newly appointed dean of the college, has been an able ac­ dvisor to the students. He has been an assistant professor at the University of Connecticut and an associate professor at the University of North

Backdrop Club Calls Prospective Workers

"The Backdrop Club will begin preparations for its spring production soon after Thanksgiving, but individual committees must be organized before that time."

With this topic, Tom Foreman, business manager of the club, spoke about his interests favor business and publicity, as well as production. He also mentioned that the performance will be presented the last week of February.

Two other groups are searching for prospective workers. Harry Kashouty, moderator of the university's debate club, and Louis
McKenzie, a member of the faculty, are looking for enthusiastic workers.

Because of the success of last year's musical revue, CCMY Back, the Backdrop Club has reduced dates for the series of events from one dollar and 25 cents to one dollar. Treasurer Ralph Chien has requested each member to pay the fee before the club's next meeting.

Debate Club Heats
Chairmen Appointed
To Head Committees

Bruce Robinson, president of the Inter-collegiate Debate Council, appointed chairmen for the various council committees at the last meeting of the group. These chairmen will be appointed to head the reception committee, where duties are to welcome visiting delegates to the campus. Heading the Inter-Collegiate Debate Committee is Robert Boeder. His group was asked to develop a procedure to determine campus debates and discuss group meetings at an intramural activity for the campus. Jack Buchheit, chairman of the debating committee, will secure campus judges for inter-collegiate debates held at William and Mary.

Added Courses In Home Economics Focus On Problems Of Every Day Life; Reorganization Copies National Trend

By Jean Stewart

Home economics at William and Mary is inaugurating, this year, a new contribution to the college curriculum. Courses are now being recognized as a phase of general education in accordance with a trend that is becoming acceptance throughout the land.

The report of Mr. Truman's Presidential Commission on Higher Education published in 1947 devoted attention to the need of college curricula focused upon the everyday life and those of family life. It calls for the reorganization of former offerings with the needs of the average person in mind.

The committee of the report elaborates as follows:

Such a general course would include, as a minimum, child care and training; the planning of the home, of the physical environment of the family; consumer education in buying and family income, in wise buying and personal savings, and the principles of nutrition. The courses may focus particularly upon the family. None of these matters are new to the College curriculum; only bringing them together to cope with complicated problems of family life is new.

President's Commission

Each member of the distinguished group of educators who made up the President's Commission on College and University Women presented a few outstanding accomplishments in the field of American culture. Among these were Francis J. Brown, consultant for the American Council for Education of Women, and John E. Bewley, former president of the Woman's University of Delaware, and a significant number of others.

The change to this type of offerings at the College is timely and necessary, as Mary is timely. Thirty thousand college and university women graduates between 25 and 30, who have recently expressed themselves on the question as to what they think of the college education that they have received. Any student or faculty member would find the first report of this study most instructive in its current and insight. Margaret Mead, the noted anthropologist, has emphasized the thinking of the above group and of many of them in the current issues of the Journal of the American Association of University Women. She said that this study, when completed, may prove to be one of the outstanding studies of the century in the field of education for women. Details cannot be given here but a quotation from this report will give something of its findings.

Survey

"The most outstanding characteristic of these two needs is that (1) a college education broad enough to meet the needs of home life is not now a part of education and, (2) that a college education should focus upon general life skills, more practice in doing things, better understanding of human relationships and a larger understanding of human nature of the study, when completed, may prove to be one of the outstanding study of the century in the field of education for women. Details cannot be given here but a quotation from this report will give something of its findings.

Home Economics

The home economics department at William and Mary was established in 1915, in the form of a "Ladies' Club," and in 1919, when the Home Economics Board was formed. As a part of the William and Mary college education, the Home Economics Board was formed in 1919.

Professional courses in home economics at William and Mary were initiated in 1919. The objective of this department is to provide a part of general education. Professional courses in home economics were offered at the University of Chicago in 1946, President of the University Women.

Confident, Soft-Spoken Dr. Keppel Serves College From Past Experience

By Bill Nary

Those unfortunate students who have had to see the doctor this year have been fortunate to find such an ideal one ready to help them. If they have had to wait for him, which was probably so, they have received the impression made on a patient when he steps through the doorway—an impression which tells the troubled person to immediately place all faith in his hands. For tall, lean Gordon Keppel comes with easy but confident motions and immediately assures his patient that behind his calmly spoken words are knowledge and experience and a sincere desire to cure.

President Pomfret persuaded Dr. Keppel to come to William and Mary last February. They had known each other while at Princeton, Dr. Keppel's collegiate alma mater. In coming to Williamsburg, our doctor connects us in a way with his interesting family. His father was once dean of Columbia College and president of the Carnegie Corporation. During World War I he served as Assistant Secretary of War and was again working with the government, this time in the State Department, when he died in 1940. Gordon Keppel's brothers seem to be continuing this father's tradition, for one is now dean of Harvard's graduate school of education and another is an R. C. A. accountant. Dr. Keppel says that he leaves this week for Paris.

Attended Five Schools

Dr. Keppel's education encompassed five schools: Groton (Mass.), Exeter (N. H.), Princeton, Cambridge, and Columbia. In addition to studying medicine at Cambridge and Columbia, he did postgraduate work in Rochester, N. Y. If one observes his tremendous, sinewy hands and imagines the physique which must go with them, it is not hard to understand why he was on both Princeton's and Cambridge's rowing team; and from a consideration of his poise and confidence, why he was Princeton's captain. When he talked about his crew experience, he was really ebullient. "Isn't it a grueling sport?" "It gets in your blood," he answered, with evident enthusiasm. "I wish I could do some rowing even now."

After serving four years in the army as a medical officer, a year and a half of which as a prisoner in a German camp near Munich, he returned home and married the widow of one of his best friends, killed in the war. She had spent much of her life in New Zealand, and gone to Stanford University, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Gordon Keppel is now the father of a son, two, and twin girls, one. Is it any wonder, then, that he says, "My interests are entirely my family!? Right now he is busy building a house for his wife and their growing progeny.

Mountain Climber

Dr. Keppel likes to do something that is not generally in John Doe's "extra-curriculum"—he likes to climb mountains. But since he has few opportunities to go to them, and since they don't often come to him, he usually exercises by playing handball with Dean Marshall.

As we were concluding our interview, I realized that the man across from me behind the Edgeworth-filled pipe and the deeply set, light blue eyes had continued to confirm my first impression: that Gordon Keppel is a splendid doctor that William and Mary can well be proud of him.
