DAVE LYNES

It is in receipt with reports that we appreciate the clever side of Dulles.

There were two, the one from Guilford. The other team was to be the first regular meeting. Despite the loss of such men as Walker and Kreuger, the reports are true? Are you

War ner is in the headlines today, and in these days of extreme caution, we must keep it on the line. For example, there is the note of the Roosevelt-French non-aggression pact which has aroused much excitement and controversy. The premise is that the two powers, through this treaty, hope to establish a feeling of security and peace.

This is the first time, the Flat Hat would like to ask the student body: do you believe that this type of pact will lead to world peace? The Flat Hat would like to ask the student body: do you believe that this type of pact will lead to world peace? The Flat Hat would like to ask the student body: do you believe that this type of pact will lead to world peace?

It is true that this pact has given rise to much discussion and speculation. Some believe it will lead to a lasting peace, while others fear it is only a temporary arrangement. However, the Flat Hat believes that the real test of this pact will be how it is implemented.

In other news, the stadium will be open for the first time this semester on Friday night. The Flat Hat would like to remind all students to dress appropriately for the weather and to arrive early to secure their seats.

In conclusion, the Flat Hat would like to say that it is important for us to remain vigilant and cautious in the current political climate. We must continue to support and advocate for peace, but we must also be prepared to act if necessary.

FALL FLATTERY IN Dressmaker Tailleurs
by L'Higlon.

Although the organizers of the program have been somewhat altered from the originals of previous years, the year's fall events still will be in keeping with student fashion, and together. Many new students have already joined the club and many older members pledge to be better than ever this fall.

At the opening of the fall season, L'Higlon will present its annual Black and Silver opening.
Accordingly, the entire collection will explore the intimate and efflery of the modern dressmaker. The innovative design has been given different interpretations by Paul and the new collection. The suits will be produced at Harvard University and by Armand-Jacques in England and Australia. Boxes, dress, and costume will be used in a production which promises to keep the audience in excitement.
