Class Of 1952 Will Attend Rally In Phi Beta Kappa Hall Tomorrow

Freshman Political Parties Will Reveal Platforms Before November 18 Election

Five political parties, which include 48 freshman men and women, will present their platforms for class office tomorrow night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall preceding election day, Thursday, November 18, which is the last day for voting.

Those running for the presidency are Thomas Lambert Boys, Bruce F. Henderson, Richard R. J. Hutchinson, Richard H. Lewis, and Sonnie Averett.

Dr. C. C. Haigh, chairman of the political science department, announced, "The purpose of the platform is to provide an opportunity for students to express their views on the political questions that are of concern to them."

Competing for the office of vice-president are George Washington Boll, Peter Francis Capibianco, Bruce F. Henderson, Richard R. J. Hutchinson, and Sonnie Averett.

Mortar Board Reveals Date For Semi-Final

On Saturday, November 20, Mortar Board will sponsor a concert of both music and poetry as the first concert of the season.

Tickets may be purchased at the box office on December 6, 7, and 8 from 2 to 5 p.m. and on Friday, November 26 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the ticket office in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

At this time everyone may select the seat or seats that are desired according to the time that they are obtained.

Tickets for the first concert and also season tickets will be on sale at the box office on December 6, 7, and 8 at 2 to 5 p.m. and on the night of the concert, Wednesday, December 8.

Marina Del Fuci, a young Spanish coloratura, will appear as the first guest artist.

Sutton Addresses Wythe Law Club's Banquet; Japanese Accused Of Militaried And Political Plot

Dr. Sutton, addresses the Wythe Law Club's annual banquet as the first guest artist.

Japanese accused of military and political plot in reference to the last phase of the trial were 17 years ago.

The purpose of the trial was to counter the intrigues that were perpetuated in the successful effort to substantiate this stand of the tribunal that is in its closing stages. Sutton, who is now president of the International Tribunal, before the tribunal that is in its closing stages.

The first play written by a Virginia woman in 1770, is a rollicking comedy, written in Virginia. The cast will have its first night on Sunday, November 21, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. at Kappa Hall.

Those running for the office of the president are Bevery Bridges, Bruce F. Henderson, Richard R. J. Hutchinson, and Sonnie Averett.

Individual Responsibility

The lecture will be given on November 25, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Dr. George J. Oliver, professor of military science and tactics, will deliver a address on "A True American Citizen," and will be a member of the state department of education for the North Virginia and Neurice counties.

Fireworks Display Will Highlight Rally

Elaborate fireworks displays, tary formation, and a blue line of lights will go to make the pep rally for the N.C. State game Saturday.

At present the only obstacle which stands in the way of the final execution of the project is the weather condition of the necessary color and size. Because of the expected cold and rain, it is difficult to secure delivery.

Bob Hendrick, Ronnie King, and Herb Solomon, who are responsible for the project, request all students to cooperate to make the performance a success. It may prove necessary for a relay to go to the game of the students sitting in the first two reserved sections of the stadium.

Just why Kings is back may puzzle the reader, but anyway, it's a story of Kings and Kolb. It has to do with the fact.

Last Thursday, the Echo newspaper, a paper which does not use the name of a student, published an article which stated that the school had "died". It was not until the next day that the school ran a story which corrected this statement.

It is the first time in his school career that this has been done. Not only the echoes of colleague's territory, but last week, the Echo front page and posted one day previous to the newsprint.

Dissatisfaction, or what? The Echo has been havin' a hard time getting into the game; the paper is poorly written, the content is poorly chosen, and the design is poorly executed. Yet precedents have been broken successfully and often to great advantage.

Tradition... asset or burden?

The choir, like the band, is not one of the organizations supported by the Student Activities Fee Committee. Mr. Fehr, the director, has already heard the common cry of protest. A careful examination of the facts will show that the choir's art is justified.

The choir, which is a part of the fine arts registration, is a part of the Memorial Plaques for War on earth and in the nation,—try to find a better name. In the opinion of the students, it is a wonderful organization.

Accidents will happen, we know, but the accidents that happen inside the college are usually of little consequence. The only exception is the Memorial Plaques for War on earth and in the nation—who knows what will happen to these plaques in the future?

Band Committee Reports To Co-Op
On List Of Needed Improvements

Further discussion was held on the band problem at a meeting of the General Cooperative Committee last Thursday.

The committee adopted the report of the band committee, which was presented by Dr. Wayne P. Kendall, chairman. A list of necessary and immediate improvements, such as hats and instrument repairs, and of long-range needs was included in the report. A survey of 48 colleges, conducted by Alan C. Stewart, band director, revealed that most band needs were included in the improvements, such as hats and instrument repairs, and of long-range activities fee and the athletic scholarships.

Dr. Kendall declared that the argument was circular in character. The band needs funds before it can become active, and it needs to be more active before it will be granted funds.

"I want to see some evidence of performance," Dr. Kendall declared and moved that the band committee meet with the officers and director of the band to discuss the viewpoint of the General Cooperative Committee.

After passing the motion, the committee adjourned to discuss the problem. John Dayton, declared that it was not the function of the committee to solve the band problem. Dr. Hibbert D. Corey, secretary of the committee, felt that the band could develop morale only if it were assured of an annual budget.

Summarizing the opinions of the committee, Dr. Dayton stated that the college needs a good band, and that the committee wants to support it but feels the band must accomplish something on its own initiative. The committee moved to have all reports of the band committee forwarded to the president of the college.

Charles H. Anderson, chairman of the cafeteria committee, reported on the activities of that committee. Recommended changes in the regular menu had been adopted by the dietitian. A motion passed by General Cooperative Committee directed that the cafeteria committee make a definite plan for the financing of the cafeteria. Anderson pointed to look into the possibility of installing a large central bulletin board for all campus organizations and offices.

Wren Building Outlasts Seven Wars

By Ed Whisler

The corresponding wing to the Great Hall is the home of the Wren Chapel, which has been in continuous use since 1712. The hand-carved oak woodwork, so typical of the developing colonial style common in 17th century England, is typical of Wren architecture. When the circular window was found in the Great Hall and the Chapel, the Wren Chapel, according to all available sources, is the design of Sir Christopher Wren, Chief Architect among the 17th century. The committee moved to have all reports of the band committee forwarded to the president of the college.

John Dayton quoted Charles P. McCurdy, secretary of the Society of the Alumni, as saying that the band members should show more interest before expecting certain support. J. Wilfred Lambert, dean of students, reported that the band, in spite of repeated warnings, held up the formation of the Homecoming parade.

The famous three-story building holds valuable collections of minutes, ledger, records of the church, and history. The second floor attraction is the small collection of church items used by the Board of Visitors. The building is still used for the curiosity of many strange and historic building to a disgraceful degree. The cellar of the building holds, in the upper portion of the old Wren, the remains of the foundations. In the lower floor old its origin, is offset by the tattered remains of a four-volume set of chemistry books related to the Wren Chapel. The author and once owner of these volumes, teacher Robert Boyle, popularly known as one of the pathfinders in the field of chemistry.

The first floor of the Wren building has been balanced at one wing of the Great Hall, finished off in 1760, and consumed the building. In spite of the fire, the original college seal was rescued along with the ornaments which were hanging in the Blue Room. In 1862, near the end of the Civil War, Williamsburg was the balance point of a continuous sea battle between the troops which successfully occupied the town as well as the British commanders and troops. The famous building suffered a second fire during the Civil War. In 1869, when the alumni were assembled on their 100th anniversary, a second fire broke out and consumed the building. In spite of the fire, the original college seal was rescued along with the ornaments which were hanging in the Blue Room.

The Delaware, the stage road to Yorktown, was brought closer to the college, as the Wren Building was then called, their handsome college buildings. At this time the men of Connecticut were housed in the Wren Building, later to be used as a hospital for his men. As the battle shifted back and forth, the gates gave reluctant admittance to the Red Coats until the patriots finally drove them out.

Although the walls of the Wren Building served as a retreat by the colonists at times of war, the building was dedicated between its walls with the cannon at Yorktown or the triumphant shouts of the patriots, they have always stayed as a remembrance of the glory of Virginia.

James Madison, Sir John Randolph, Peyton Randolph, and Thomas Jefferson lived in the Wren Chapel, as it was extension in its final design in 1712. This crypt, which lies beneath the Chapel, is quite extensive in floor space but compels the story-teller to crawl on hands and knees in order to move about. This crypt was to be used by the faculty and students in times of emergency, which were quite frequent during the Indian scare of the late 18th century. This tunnel was discovered only during the construction of the Smithton Gardens, where it was found to lead to Meliksita Lane.

Big Green To Clash With Wolfpack In Home Finale

Tribe Favored To Break Frustration Held By State

The green-clad Indians of William and Mary and the red-garbed Wolfpack of North Carolina State clash Saturday at 2 p.m. on Carter-Finley Stadium's home field in a showdown of football headlines of the day.

Both clubs will be back in their home areas for the Thanksgiving weekend. The Tribe, after a timely victory in their last meeting with Virginia Military Institute Saturday, appears to be ready to take on the Wolfpack.

On the other hand, the local Radicals, back on their own hallowed grounds for the soul-stirring autumn, will rule the favorable sides in this battle of past performances.

In addition to the Thanksgiving tilt, the two former Virginia rivals from Raleigh and Milledgeville will be so fortunate as to top the Red and Gold hostesses in the Saturday contest. Some time during the fall, the Wolfpack has paraded out of the Shadows of the Two Dominions, but at the time they noted the skill and speed of the Virginia Techs in the football season.

Twice in recent years has State yielded a good William and Mary defense to the Redmen of the Carolinas. On the other hand, the Tribe has not been so fortunate as to top the Redmen of the Carolinas.

In 1944, State won, 19-2, while in 1945, the last meet between the tie and a William and Mary victory.

William and Mary's ground attack showed some of its most potent possibilities of the year in their Boston Saturday, but the Boston College aerial attack was powerful enough, and the Eagles battled the Indians to a 14-14 standstill before the home team was able to score the winner. The week before, Coach Rube McCray's burglars tackled the Tribe.

Of Court Games

Preparing for a 30-game season, Coach Barney Wilson's 148-18 basketball squad has been going through a great deal of work on fundamentals after a poor showing against a Navy team in an informal scrimmage held recently. Hoping to profit by these mistakes, individual defense, shooting, and ball handling have been stressed in the most recent practices.

Though handicapped by the loss of two first rate ball players, Charlie Tsach, see forward, and Johnny Green, starting pivot guard, the squad still has seven holdovers from last year's team. Chet Giermak, 6' 5" Conference high scoring ace, Charlie Sokol, high scoring center to his right and Bob Benjamin, who have returned. If Giermak can turn in defensive performances similar to his offensive showings, he may very well be the outstanding center in the Conference. Newcomers Jim Lewis, and Beard, give the team a chance to show good ball not only on offense, but defense as well.

Joe came within eight yards of getting himself elected mayor of Williamsburg when, with seconds left to go, he intercepted a pass in the North Carolina game and ran it back 25 yards through half of the Tarheels before the other half could gang up to stop him on the eight-yard line.

Playing both halfback and blocking back in high school, Joe built up quite a reputation for himself. He was voted the most outstanding football player in 1946 and was co-captain for the Crabbers in 1947. Students price for all film is $1 to $2.50.

Chi Omega Tops Jefferson For Swimming Championship

Chi O and Jefferson staged the battle of the century last Thursday night in Brow Pool for the intramural swimming crown, with Atwater and company coming out on top by a margin of four points.

Chi O netted a total of 48 points and Jefferson was right behind with 39. Jane Atwater, displaying the same form which enabled the Chi O's to capture the League A meet last week, took two firsts, the 20-yard free style and diving. Another outstanding star for the Chi O's was Jo Ann Carpenter, who won the 40-yard free style and was also a member of the relay team which tied for first in the 80-yard event.

A trio of swimmers garnered most of the points for the Jeffersonians, Nancy Russell who placed third in the 40-yard breast stroke, Nancy Jackson who took second honors in the 40-yard free style, and Jeanne Gouldman who put in a top notch performance for the Thetas, taking third place in the 20-yard back stroke events. The Jefferson team placed third in this meet with 27 points.

Nancy Goodmann put in a top notch performance for the Thetas, netting 33 points for fourth place honors. Nancy swam third in both the 40-yard free style and the 80-yard breast stroke events and placed second in diving.

Winners Of Each Event
40-yard free style: Carpenter, Chi O; Jackson, Jefferson; and Goodmann, Theta.
60-yard medley: Chi O (Atwater, Carpenter, Black and Murphy); Jefferson (Leavitt, Watson, Long and Jackson); Barrett (Roos, Green, Gray and Houston).
20-yard free style: Atwater, Chi O; Leavitt, Jefferson; Watson, Barrett; and Barrett, tied for third.
60-yard medley: Chi O (Murphy, Carpenter and Litt); Jefferson (Lowe, Russell and Leavitt); and Theta (Lynch, Graves and Hopkins).

From House of Barrett swam true to form and once again was the victor in the breast and back stroke events. The Barrett team placed third in this meet with 37 points.

The Reservation is well represented in the pro football ranks, as a sizable group of the Sunday morning fans will show. No less than seven ex-Indians are playing regularly in the pros, most of them playing in the minors, while several more are doing time in the minors.

The men who are now in the top drawer are predominantly those who either came here with the Carl Voyles rebuilding program, or took part in it later. All-American Guard "Ike" Ramsey, who started the Indians on the 1949 championship team at guard, is playing with another championship squad, the Chicago, Cardinals, who expect to capture the National Football League title last fall. Otto Douglass, a real old-timer who captains the Chicago, Cardinals, was also a member of the relay team which tied for first in the 80-yard event.

Stoll Has 65
Barber "Stoll" Johnson, a team­mate of Ramsey's, is playing with the New York Yankees. His pinch­-hit ability and sacrifice abilities are utilized by the Indians. He recently accepted a position on the coaching staff at Drexel Tech in Philadelphia.

Dance Class Meeting Set For Thursday

Here's the latest on the Ballroom class! The first meeting will be held this Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Pagoda Room (small cafe) for those who signed up for the intermediate class. Although there was much more interest in this class than was anticipated, Sophia Saunders, dance instructor and sponsor for this group, announced that there are more openings for men students.

At present, plans include a beginner's class on Monday nights at 7 p.m. and the intermediate class on Thursday at the same hour. All classes will be held in the Pagoda Room.

Another intermediate group may be scheduled for Monday evenings at 8 p.m., if this proves to be necessary," said Miss Saunders.

The list of women who are eligible to participate in this activity will be posted in the Athletic Office in Jefferson.

There is a need for student instructors to assist in handling these classes. Preliminary try-outs were held last week. However, additional try-outs will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Benton College led in the statistic department, however, did not prove to be a good yardstick as to caliber of teams. The Indians showed what was necessary to win the game, but a couple of breaks hurt greatly.

The opening touchdown came in the first period when the home team had the ball on its own 35 after several drives had failed to materialize. Ed Chisholm lost a yard to Joe Dinwiddie on the 40, but Henry Blunt at defensive halfback gathered in the oval and scooped out the ball from the 42 to the 5, where George Hughes threw the tear block to enable him to go all the way and score. Buddy Lex kicked the extra point.

In the second period, the Indians had been thrown back to their own 10 by a fumble and a five-yard penalty. The Eagles had the ball 10 yards, then 20 after a run by Farris of the Spiders, and started the 9-yard drive for their second score. Ed Waler went over for the marker, but the placement attempt by Bill Stevens failed.

The Indian victory was the third in four starts for the Little Saints and the fourth in a row for the vaunted Baby Spiders.

William and Mary's attack was diversified and effective, with the point total setting on all three plays and the ground game eating up plenty of yardage.

Wilford Leach announces final try-outs for production of coming year

Wilford Leach, director of the 1949 Variety Show, announced final try-outs for this year's musical presentation for today, tomorrow, and Thursday. "Try-outs are open to anyone wishing to dance, sing or act in this year's show," Leach declared. "People desiring to sing in the staging chorus only, need not try out at this time."

The authors of the script selected for this year's student-written and produced musical, have finished a first draft. Selections from this year's script for Glenn Garrison, Bill Harper and Wilford Leach, as well as compositions of the plot and songs, are available to members of the Backdrop Club to use for try-outs. Anyone wishing to secure material, or sign up for try-outs may do so at the Variety Show bulletin board in the center lobby of Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Even more surprising, the Backdrop Club is open to the entire student body; however, continued membership is through participation in putting on the show. Anyone wishing to try-out, although not yet a member, sign up for try-outs as a member, and pay his dues at the try-out time.

Today, try-outs were held from 1 to 6 in Wren Kitchen. On Wednesday, try-outs held 1 through 10 p.m. also in the Wren Kitchen, and on Thursday from Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium from 6:30 to 10 p.m. The cast will not be announced for at least two weeks following these try-outs and will at that time only tentative. An entire reading of the script with the tentative cast is planned for some time after Thanksgiving before a final draft of the script is microphotographed.

Technical directors and designer for the Backdrop Club presentation, Vann Robards, has announced that anyone interested in any phase of the technical work who has not already signed up should do so at once in order to see that the various groups may be formed before in both staging and dancing.

Leach stated, "The turnout for the preliminary try-outs was the largest of any we've ever had come out for these preliminary try-outs.

Newly-elected officers of the United World Federalists are Bruce M. Robinson, pres.; Vernon Johnston, vice-pres.; and Catherine Trask, corresponding secretary. These elections were held last Thursday night to fill vacancies which occurred recently.

Pink Clothes Reveal Beast and Best By Accentuating Man's Lustiness

By Mary Lou Hostetter

A news release from New York states that the college man should now have in his wardrobe at least one of the following: cloth-of-gold sport shirts with three-quarter length sleeves, brocade silk pajamas, Florentine ashtray baker with plunging necklines and polka-dotted suspenders.

This sudden turn to color, so Mary Thompson and Leith, the authors of the bulletin, intends to bring out the "beast and the "best" in man simultaneously, by accentuating what fashion authorities call his "lustiness." A rugged tan gloves threateningly under the challenges of pink. Muscles took twice as powerful off by a masculine polka dot, tux size.

Cigars For Robust Men

The new popularity of cigars is a style note that cropped up last summer. It was an outgrowth of the war, when men grew more robust needed a more robust air. They literally snarled at cigarettes.

Dr. Eugen Kahn, professor of psychiatry at Yale University, analyzed it this way. "The lusty are the people with strong appetites, who genuinely and thoroughly enjoy all the good things of the earth, and with them smoking. Lusty men need a more robust air. Clothing manufacturers have put into their lines a special cologne of suits, a new edition of the popular panty, designed especially for casual campus

Dr. Reboussin To Speak At French Club Meeting
Dr. Marcel Reboussin, associate professor of the French department of the university, is a member of the French Club on Thursday, November 18, 7-9 p.m. in room 2 of Jefferson Hall. He will conduct a discussion on existentialism, a religious philosophy that was originated by the French philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre. Through his work, Reboussin explores the fundamental questions of human existence and the nature of reality, as well as the role of faith and reason in understanding the world. His insights into existentialism have been influential in shaping modern thought and continue to be studied today.
Ann Mary K. Burke: Trains In Dietetics

Second Lieutenant, Ann Mary K. Burke, of LaHey, a graduate of the College of William and Mary, is one of 12 who began their one year’s dietetic internship at Brooks General Hospital, Brooks Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, on November 1. She received her B.S. degree in dietetics.

This is the first class of dietetic interns to train as commissioned officers. All are second lieutenants in the Women's Medical Specialty Corps (Reserve), Dietetic Subsection.

The dietetic internship prepares students to accept the responsibilities of a dietician in the regular Army. Carefully coordinated classroom instruction and on-the-job training in the various hospital units furnish excellent professional training which more than meets the requirements of the American Dietetic Association for approved internship.

GI Students Will Notify VA Prior To Transferring

A G.I. student who wants to transfer to another school should notify the Veterans Administration at least 30 days before he intends to make the change. VA, said today.

To enroll at a new school, VA explained, the student-veteran will need a supplemental certificate of eligibility. He will also need a statement from his present school showing that his progress is satisfactory.

A student-veteran may obtain a supplemental certificate of eligibility by applying to the VA Regional Office which has his file.

Placement Bureau Offers Interviews On Occupational Data To Student

Students interested in the Placement Bureau interviews may make arrangements for them in Washington 213, according to John Bright, director of placements.

Beginning tomorrow James Yee of the J. C. Penney Company will interview students interested in retail merchandising. This will be followed Thursday by interviews from a representative of the Aetna Life Insurance Company for those who are interested in serving as field representatives. Only single men between the ages of 23 and 29 will be considered for this interview.

At some future date representatives of other companies will interview William and Mary students. These include such fields as advertising, accounting, chemical engineering, electrical engineering, manufacturing, mechanical engineering, merchandising, personnel physics, public relations, purchasing and sales. There are also positions open in psychology, sociology, chemistry, business administration and economics. In the teaching field there are opportunities in English, mathematics and physical education.

Bright urges students to turn in their four photographs to the Placement Bureau at once since registration is not complete without them. The deadline for registration of February and June graduates is November 29.

The play has never before been presented and only recently was assembled and reprinted in the Institute's William and Mary Quarterly as "a unique political document—one of the most revealing in early American history." The text of The Candidates used in the Quarterly was taken from a copy of Colonel Munford's book which was once the property of St. George Tucker and is now owned by Mrs. George F. Coleman of Williamsburg. There are only two known copies in existence of this rare volume published by Munford's son in 1798.

"Munford's obscure play contains the key to a paradox: it explains why Virginia's most dynamic statesmen could support a radical type of 18th century republicanism—later misnamed Jeffersonian democracy," Douglas Adair, editor of the Quarterly, asserted in the preface to the Quarterly reprint of the play.

Spanish students studying at U. S. universities observe, among other things, one outstanding feature that is non-existent in their own colleges. Again and again they voice their amazement and appreciation of the close and informal student-professor relationship they have found here. (Nor is this appreciation limited to students of Spanish extract, but it is echoed by students of all nationalities studying in this country.)

In Spain, we are told, a professor is something akin to a dictator. He talks, or rather commands, to the students only in classes, where he requires of them strictest discipline. To remind students of his sovereign power, he sits on a modified podium, which he leaves immediately upon the completion of the class. A hi-ho on the street—in fact any token of friendliness or association outside the classrooms—is unheard of. Thus it is small wonder that Spanish students are happily surprised when they find that in America they may chat about almost anything with their profs.

Before being appointed to assist the Republic of China in presenting its phase of the International Tribunal, Sutton had been engaged in the general practice of law at West Point and had acted as attorney for the Commonwealth of King William County. A graduate of Richmond College and the University of Virginia, and a veteran of World War I, Sutton's practice has included the trial of cases in the lower courts and the handling of appeals through the highest courts of Virginia, adjoining states and in the Federal courts including the United States Supreme Court.

Present at the banquet were the members of the law staff of the college and the members of the Wythe Law Club.
