C. J. Duke Reveals Plans For Installing Dial Phones

Dormitories To Have Floor Service; College Estimates Cost At $6,000

Installation of dial telephones in dormitories with the main switchboard located on the first floor of Marshall-West hall should be completed by next September, according to Charles J. Duke, bursar. Recent investigation by college officials revealed that the telephone equipment which is being used will be available in the near future. "Dial phones will be placed on each floor of all dormitories and the calls will be placed directly to the residence," stated Mr. Duke.

Aid To Students

Yearly expense for the project will amount to over $6,000. "If we go as planned, those students," Mr. Duke concluded, "I'm sure this added convenience will be of great assistance to our students.

Provisions for long-distance phone calls and calls made after the dormitory hours (7:00 pm to 9:00 pm) will be provided for by the college. The dormitories will probably be used for outside and incoming long-distance calls.

Investigation by Laurie Pritchett, head of "FLAT HAT" columnist, propagated the WSCGA vote. "Local" dormitories, such as Old Dominion and the women's dormitories are listed below.

College To Raise Dorm Rent Rates

In accordance with the action of the Board of Visitors of the college at a meeting on Feb. 9, higher rates on dormitory rooms will be established on March 1st.

The rates will be changed because of an increased demand for housing on campus and will apply to both dormitories and rooming houses. The new rates will be effective March 1st, as announced by Charles P. Jacobs and Howie Hyle are co-chairs of the Alumni association and editor of the Alumni magazine.

The Alumni Gazette for March, which includes an editorial, "What's Wrong With William and Mary," has been sent out and will be available at the college's debate council, will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 13 and 14, and according to Charles Summer, Jr., chairman of the debate council, will be held on Friday afternoon. Twelve schools will participate in the tournament and six divisions will be held. The ten schools are: the University of Virginia, the University of Richmond, the University of Maryland, the College of William and Mary, the University of Delaware, the University of Pennsylvania, the College of William and Mary, and the United States Military Academy.

The question for debate will be: "Resolved: That labor should not be considered as capital inasmuch as labor is not an article of commerce, and therefore labor should be considered as capital inasmuch as labor is not an article of commerce, and therefore labor should be paid for its full value." No less a source than the erudite New York Herald Tribune has gone after the band, and the music their claim to fame is that they are doing a magnificent job of running the music department, and at the same time are involved with the theatre department. The band, which includes not only the regular members but also some of the theatre students, is usually heard in the theatre, and occasionally in the music building. The band has been a source of pride for the students and the faculty, and has won many awards and accolades for its performances. They are a true representation of the spirit of Yale, and their contributions to the community are immeasurable. The band is a true example of what it means to be part of a community, and their dedication to their craft is truly inspiring. I urge everyone to support the band and their efforts to continue to bring music and joy to the Yale community.

Woolley Points Out Republican Lack Of Leadership

To: The Editor

One of the most important aspects of the Republican Party is the lack of leadership. The party has been sleepwalking through the past year, and it is time for a change. The Republican Party must take a hard look at itself and decide what it stands for. The party needs to be more inclusive and to reach out to the average American. The Republican Party must also address the issues that are important to the American people, such as healthcare, education, and the economy. If the party does not take these issues seriously, it will lose the support of the electorate.

The band is not a recognized part of the music department and any time they do have in the band room is out of the kindness of that department's heart. ALAN C. STEWART has been involved in the project of a place for the dance band to practice. At this time the most logical and convenient place to have the band practice would be in the music building. In most cases, the music building has all the facilities needed for practice, such as soundproof rooms, rehearsal areas, and practice space. The music building also has a well-equipped stage area, which is ideal for rehearsals.

The band has been clamoring for official recognition from the music department, but according to Mr. STEWART that would involve a lot of paperwork. This college has cooperated to the extent of a two-hour-a-week period in the music department band room, which, incidentally, must suffice, for most of the other musical activities at the college are in a two-week a month available for the band to get together for practices. This is true that members would like to have.

Atkinson Adapts Stevenson Story

Clint Atkinson has adapted Robert Louis Stevenson's classic short story, "Markheim," for radio presentation, and will direct and produce his adaptation for Radio Club's weekly broadcast over Station WRNL, on Friday, Mar. 7.

"Markheim," a powerful treatment of man's internal struggle, is especially suited for radio performance. Clift assisted by Laurie Fritchard, has not yet selected the six members of the cast, or the announcer. Music for the broadcast will be directed by Helen Fisher.

Last Friday night, the Radio Club presented the Four Braves, local vocal quartet, in a program of popular songs. The Braves, who are Joe Brinkley, Allen Amon, Bill Bush, and Bill Williams, sang eight numbers. Art Lively announced the show, with Ronald King in charge of production. John Daly flipped the dials in the engineer's booth.

Auditions were held last week for students who are interested in participating in the weekly broadcast. The additions committee of the Radio Club has announced that it will hold another such audition in the near future for those who were unable to attend last week's try-outs.

Indians To Meet Wake Forest Here

Official Schedule Lists Five Home Encounters

William and Mary will face Wake Forest in Williamsburg next Fall, late December, according to the 1947-48 schedule announced Wednesday by R. N. McCray. The schedule, released the official 1947 football schedule.

The Brave program is scheduled to be bolstered by the Wake Forest games and the rivalry will be a key feature of the schedule. The home schedule will be divided into three sections: the first five home games, the second five, and the final five.

Five Home Games

The decision means that five of the Indians' engagements will be played by the end of the Fall semester. Williams and Mary should produce a strong, competitive team for their first five games.

The first five home games are expected to draw large crowds as the Indians host three teams known for their football prowess: Wake Forest, University of Virginia, and the University of Maryland.

The long-delayed 1947 football schedule has finally appeared and is the best prepared by Williams and Mary athletic officials in quite some time.

There have been changes and improvements, and these include two which promise to be the best of the season, the meetings with North Carolina and Wake Forest. Both are high-caliber outings and can hold their own with some of the nation's best.

This year's slate, like the 1946 card, lists eight Southern Conference foes but the 4-7 group is stronger. Wake Forest and Davidson replace Maryland and George Washington. The Deacons are much superior to Maryland, while Davidson, though not very strong, should at least be better than the impotent Colonels.

The College of Charleston is scheduled to receive its first home game in 1947, when the Tribe and the Deacons battle to a conclusion. Three other games have been played between the two teams.

Notre Dame Ekes Out Victory Over Squaws

A last minute lay-up goal by Natasha Hromadka gave the Notre Dame sextet a close 18-16 victory over the William and Mary Squaws last Saturday afternoon in Jefferson gym.

Holding the lead until the last four minutes of the game, the Tri-Color combined a strong defense with a surprising forward thrust. Hromadka scored the halftime 4-0 lead with a set shot followed by a seat lay-up goal. Rose Monaghan added an overarm two-pointer for Notre Dame, which was promptly nullified by another lay-up shot by Billie Riddle.

Fascino and Jimmie Murphy each contributed two more points in the first quarter as Monaghan worked her way through the home team's defense and tied up the game at 1-1. Hromadka scored her first goal of the day on a long shot. Tight guarding on the part of Chet Giermak, Notre Dame's center, caused Monaghan to settle for eight points at the end of the first quarter.

Monaghan led the scoring for Notre Dame, scoring in three goals in succession, good for six points. She scored her last goal of the first half in the final frame, but the last minute lay-up shot by Riddle gave the visitors their 18-16 victory. The last of these tallies came in the second half, the Balti-more's 21-7, sending in three goals in succession, good for six points. Notre Dame, winning 21-7 at Richmond.

Aspiring Amateur Jockeys

by Fletcher Cox

Throughout the winter months the only outdoor sport carried on by a few of the old school of Prussian die-hards has been jockeying. To the more frivolous element on the continent, this may seem to be a waste of time during the winter months when women make such a point of concealing all but face, arms and legs under coats of all colors, shapes and sizes. There is more truth than poetry in such an observation — what, then, has encouraged such an activity?

From one of the jockeys, it was ascertained that the only ones who were to be found on the corner those cold days were the professionals, as opposed to the amateurs who merely made frivolous attempts at picturing when the weather permitted. It was from one of the professionals that it was learned that there is a science to almost everything.

Aspirants Discouraged

Not all who aspire to the heights may be jockeys. The first stipulation is that the jockey be proficient in his admittance of the fair sex. That is to say, his whiskies must be cultivated to the point where it will not offend the object; secondly, the eyes must be trained accordingly.

Aspiring Amateur Jockeys

by Fletcher Cox

There lies the secret of the apparent futurity of the professionals adhering to College Corner in spite of the winter with whipping up and down the Duke of Gloucester Street. The eye must be kept trim. Placing objects must be aged throughout the year, so that, when the spring comes, the retinal of the eye will be in a receptive state, and valuable time will not be lost in the attempts to re-train the muscles which control the eyes. Side vision must be superfluous, a situation which may easily slip out of the eyes of the initiates that are constantly during the periods of active jockeying. Some professionals keep their "side vision" dormant for several hours at a time — the see Jockeys, Page 8.

Raymond Massey Visits Restoration

Recent visitors to the Colonial Capital, were the famed "Lincoln Visits Restoration" star Raymond Massey and his wife.

The news of their arrival at the Inn caused considerable confusion. After several unsuccessful attempts to corner the stage and interview the notable, reporters were sent scurrying up to Williamsburg.

It is reported that the famous star, together with his wife, were looking for a suitable lodging where they might stay for a time. Their daughter, who is now attending a student academy, is kept at home.

Josephine, Ray Massey's daughter, is attending a school in Concord, Mass. According to Owen Elliot, president of the college, Raymond Massey will be the guest of the college and will stay for some time.

The college plans to hold a special event for the actor, and will have a special luncheon for him and his wife.

It was reported that Ray Massey and his wife will stay in one of the historic town's finest hotels. However, it was later revealed that they had decided to stay at the Travis House, a renowned hotel in the area.

Recent visitors to the Colonial Capital, were the famed "Lincoln Visits Restoration" star Raymond Massey and his wife.

The news of their arrival at the Inn caused considerable confusion. After several unsuccessful attempts to corner the stage and interview the notable, reporters were sent scurrying up to Williamsburg.

It is reported that the famous star, together with his wife, were looking for a suitable lodging where they might stay for a time. Their daughter, who is now attending a student academy, is kept at home.

Josephine, Ray Massey's daughter, is attending a school in Concord, Mass. According to Owen Elliot, president of the college, Raymond Massey will be the guest of the college and will stay for some time.

The college plans to hold a special event for the actor, and will have a special luncheon for him and his wife.
