St. Helena To Conclude Existence After Two Years

Extension Serves Educational Needs Of More Than 2,000 Veteran Students

By Dave Elsdenbrecht

With the termination of all military activity in the Norfolk Division this June, the St. Helena Extension in Norfolk, which has supplied adult education for more than 2,000 Virginia veterans in the past two years, will conclude its short career.

Dr. John E. Pownell, president of the college, in a statement to the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch said that the peak of veteran enrollment has passed and that continued operation of the extension would not be justified in view of the expected decline in veteran applications.

Fees Veterans Coming

"I am convinced," he said, "that the war has brought in the interest of education and the desire to operate this work to transfer the division to the other campuses.

Students now attending the extension will be transferred to the campuses of their choosing. Of the students who have completed two years or more, 150 will continue their education here next fall. It is expected that the remaining 150, after graduation, will transfer to Virginia Polytechnic Institute or the Virginia State College to complete their studies. The remainder, while the remainders are still in the polls tomorrow from 4-6 P.M. for the presidency or the WAA, announced the new slate of officers.

Women students will again go to the polls tomorrow to elect students to the local campus government. The ballot will consist of 26 positions, ten representatives-at-large, four senators, two senators-at-large, two representatives in each college, and one senator for each college. The elections will be held on April 1 in the reserved section on the floor or to Blay Ginz, in case of rain. The polls must be open by 11:00 A.M.

The tickets will be given out up to the number available and will be issued one to a student, with one extra for quarantined students upon personal application. The tickets will admit the bearers to the reserved section on the floor or to Blay Ginz, in case of rain. For the election, all rooms will be unlocked, with no unwatched rooms available as standing room available.

Federico Rey and Lolita Gomez will present their new review, Rhythms of Spain. Tomorrow night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Rey has prepared a new program featuring authentic dances of his native Spain, and, whatever he has prepared, the tour de force will be a dance or a special arrangement of the captured Devils. Under this arrangement, veterans will be shifted from one location to another, continuing their studies, it was stated.

The St. Helena Extension was organized after it became apparent, in June 1946, that the facilities at Williamsburg would be utterly inadequate to care for the veterans applying for admission. Despite the rapid adjustments the college was made within his allotment.

Activities Building

One of the most essential single elements to a residence college such as William and Mary appeared as something more than a hope last Saturday with the appropriation of money for the construction of a new building program. Mrs. Perry Thompson, attempting a mild verbal reform. Hence, we are not the most experienced, some bad—alleging the most vocal. Anyway, this will enable Dick Flood (who privately informed us that he never can quite "wade" through it) to get a little time at some convenient point and still not have a support uninflected. Always try to please the reader, that's us.

Some Spiritual Redemption

We are often surprised to find students who are totally unaware of the services of the student athletic departments held every Wednesday in Wren Chapel at 5:30. Not only are the services a convenient habit, but they are only half an hour long which makes the exercise of leisure time or effort to attend in the chapel is full of almost every activity for the student. Mr. Moore, unfortunately that it would mean an hour and a half to the city's needs. A survey Sunday afternoon that makes us yearn for an early spring—walk in the woods is an exercise in quiet contemplation, but it is not a problem.

To the Editor:

The undersigned begs to inform Mr. Thompson that he is right in his criticism of our college community. I have the highest admiration for Mr. Thompson and his work, but I am concerned about the current administration's handling of student affairs. It is my belief that Mr. Thompson is facing a situation that is intolerable and that he is right in advocating for change.

Very truly yours,

To the Editor:

Who is this Arthur P. Thompson, anyway, who is allowed to editorialize about our daily affairs every week in our student paper? And since when does even Mr. Thompson have permission to "take one last shot at that phallic little figure in the White House," who is, after all, our president and future house-guest?

Referring to Mr. Thompson's last glowing editorial, how does he manage to hold up the highest standards of the "Blue Goose"? How can he be so highly critical of the administration, yet so complacent about his own role in the college community? Is it possible that Mr. Thompson is biased or prejudiced in his writing? It would not be surprising, given his past behavior, to assume that Mr. Thompson's goals are not aligned with the best interests of the students.

Miscasting Dims 'Macbeth's' Brilliance

By George Walter Knapp

With a single set framed in massive dank green stone, symmetrically flanked with blood red at once emotionally appropriate and thoroughly functional in supplying several levels and stages—the great rounded arch, within served as the equivalent of Shakespeare's inner stage—the local production of Macbeth got off to a good start, thanks to Mr. Roger Sherman, who designed the set, and Mr. Albert Hask, who collaborated as technician. Against this admirable background the actors appeared in costumes that had the look of animated drawings from some medieval manuscript, however, wore their worst.

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT STRENGTHENS NET SCHEDULES

Cornell and Cincinnati

Cornell and the University of Cincinnati were added to William and Mary's spring schedule during the past week and strengthened the slate considerably. The Big Red will come here for two matches on March 29 and 31, while the Bearcats were in Cincinnati, another home contest, will take place on April 7.

Cornell's squad is probably the strongest in the East. Dick Stavik, No. 26 in the national ratings, and Leonard Steiner, former high-school junior, head the roster.

To make room for the Cincinnati engagement, the match with North Carolina has been shifted to May 1; and the University of Richmond, originally scheduled for March 30, will be played at another time. Seton Hall will be played on April 7, instead of three days earlier, as originally planned.

CCVA Match Definite

The match with the Country Club of Virginia is in the works and will take place in Richmond on May 8. Arrangements are now being made with Williams College, for a meeting which is tentatively slated for Williamsburg on April 3.

The records compiled by his teams were the best that they had in 19 years. Starting last September on the coaching staff of William and Mary, his judgements included assistant touch for varsity football, junior varsity coach, and cross-country coach.

The JV football team had a mediocre season, winning six and losing three. The cross-country team handled somewhat better, winning two out of three dual meets, and placing eighth in the Southern Conference meet. W&M Women Represented In Sports Day

The playoff between the W&M women's basketball champions and the masculinists will be carried on in that order during this week, the women's program and the masculinists program. This game was both fun for the players and provided entertainment for the spectators. This year it is to be carried over to the basketball tournament.

For the girls it given added boost to the sports program, which is aimed after on this campus, and for the man it is an event to get his hard to the championship.

Need For Women's Gym

The game will be played as a benefit to raise funds for the sorely needed women's gym. It is really true that something being done about this horrible situation. The women do need a gym that has the facilities that are necessary to a successful physical education program. Now with that being said, a small group of women are hampered in any attempt to do anything about the existing gym of any sort.

This doesn't even take into account the hard problem of trying to work in all the classes that have to take place in that small space. A whole building is necessary so that all the activities could be carried on with ease and sufficient space. Now the dancing classes and Orchesis have to dance in Grill Hall where they can not sit on the tables, wear shoes or relax in general. They should have a studio.

Tennis Hamppered

There should also be a permanent badminton and tennis court. The women's tennis team, which is the only woman's sport which truly represents W&M, is at a great disadvantage because of lack of indoor practice space. And the swimming team had to disband finally because of the limited time allowed for practice in Blow Gym, and no one could be expected to swim in that bath tub in Jefferson.

Every sport could dwelt on in great length and space and company. This is only hoped that the women's teams will put in good time at their respective Several more games are due to be played in the coming week. There are didn't the men's tennis league and the basketball league that will to be followed up and added to so that essentially the college will not only that the women are serious about wanting an adequate gym.

Skirts in Sports

The following is a list of advantages that can be listed in a skirt as compared to a dress. The skirt is a much easier and more comfortable garment to wear.

1. It is less likely to catch fire.
2. It is easier to wash.
3. It is easier to mix and match.
4. It is more comfortable to wear.

Dr. Rome To Talk At Chapel Service
In Wren Tomorrow

Speaker at the chapel service in Wren tomorrow at 6:30 will be Dr. Sidney D. Rome, assistant professor of philosophy.

In the 20th century the service to mankind practiced by the ministry, medicine and law must be broadcast to include the learned citizen of any career. This train of thought was elaborated upon by Richard D. Newman, instructor of fine arts, at the chapel service Wednesday night.

Following up his topic, The Ideals of a Learned Citizen, he declared it to be an academic freedom to practice literature and science as the professions of the learned man; it is not an inside track to success; but it is a foundation for service to mankind.

Newman brought in the citizen who in wartime is willing to sacrifice his life and property for his country. In a like manner, the "learned citizen" should realize his duties and responsibilities to the public and should have the same feeling of duty and service which he is to feel toward his country and toward the public.

Newman stated that he hoped the students would have this sense of responsibility and privilege which is inherited as they enter the learned profession, so that they would go forth to use their education advantageously for the betterment of mankind.

The Classroom of Barrett Hall was completed and opened to the public in February of 1946.

With the provision that teachers must be transferred, the decision to disrupt Whitley High School property to the jurisdiction of William and Mary was made.

It helps keep my teeth white and strong—helps keep me healthy whether I am April 20, when the 13th character will complete its plan in time to arrive. It is to be shipped to New York City from Williamsburg, N. Y., according to Dr. John B. Pomfret.
Language Students May Improve Skill By Phonetic Drills

By Ethyl Pollock

An experiment in assisting modern language students in more perfect pronunciation is being undertaken by the modern language department, by means of phonetic drill exercises held every weekday afternoon from 1-6 P. M.

Sessions are conducted in half-hour periods. Attendance is optional, but Dr. Pierre Macy, head of the department, emphasized that the program is for the students' own good. A schedule of classes is posted on the modern language bulletin board on the third floor of Washington Hall.

Conceived In 1941

The present program is the culmination of a plan conceived by Dr. Macy when he arrived at the college in 1941. The war hindered progress by making it impossible to obtain the necessary mechanical recording equipment.

Recordings made by instructors in the modern language department are the mainspring of the program. On one side of the record is a specific drill in sounds. The reading at a slow rate of speech of a given classroom text comprises the other side. Each week a different recording is used with progressive exercises in articulation, syllabication and intonation.

Recordings which reproduce literary excerpts in prose and poetry are read first at a slow rate of speed, and a second time at a normal speed. Several different persons make the records in order to acquaint the students to different voices.

Order Of Events

The student first listens to the record, then reads silently from his text to the accompaniment of the record. As the third step, the student reads aloud with the record and finally hears the record with his book closed.

Students assisting with the operation of the recording machine are Richard Lechaud in French and German and R. A. Sabe in Spanish.

Macbeth

his external energy, savage and terrible. The dauntless Miss Hunt cast Macbeth when Heaven meant him for Richard II. To the almost insuperable challenge of Lady Macbeth, Mary McCarthy responded with unfailing intelligence and courage. She achieved some moments of pathos and power, most notably in her final exit. The designer, moreover, had given her a succession of lovely costumes, and she wore them like a Queen.

Battle Scenes Difficult

The closing battle scenes are always difficult. Here they were managed with ingenuity and gusto but incomplete realization otherwise. Too many of the military gentlemen looked like supers hauled on in Aida at a dollar a head. And the comic nose-guards on their ersatz helmets helped not at all.

Honors of the evening go to Roger Sherman for his efficient and atmospheric scenery and to William Shakespeare for his deathless lines: these no mistakes in casting can ever wholly vanquish.
