Women Campus Leaders To Join President's Aides
Organization Revises Membership
To Have Leaders in All Activities

Complete revision of the membership of the group known as President's Aides, which was established by the president of the college, John Stuart Bryan in 1939, has been ascertained through the cooperation of the student senate with Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, to form the group of student leaders who will serve as aides.

The new personnel of the President's Aides relies heavily upon the membership of the student senate and upon other representative student leaders. It was maintained by the Student Assembly that the recognition should be given from time to time to leaders in other activities such as, athletics, dramatic work, debating and public speaking. Therefore, provision was included for two members at large which will be selected by the President, beginning in the fall of 1949, from a panel of four names submitted by the incoming Aides. The present appointed President's Aides are as follows: C. Warren Smith, Jr., president of the student body; David Saunders, president of the senior class; John W. Dayton, president of the junior class; Warren Sprouse, president of the junior honor council; Edith Thedieck, president of the women's honor council; Joan Cahill, chairman of the judicial council; Joan Felix, editor of the school newspaper; and Mary Beverly Wilson, president of WSCGA; Carol Achenbach, chairman of the senior class; vice-president, a secretar-y; Robert Bateman, Austin Wright, Robert Bateman, treasurer, historian, who holds the capacity of Chief Aide.

In previous years the principal duty of the Aides was the administration of the large dances. With the organization of the council committee, this function of the Aides has been delegated. They now serve as the President's personal aides in receiving and entering guests of the college, occupying positions in the academic processions and assisting in all public affairs.

Parker Discusses Labor Party Program, Predicts Los Of Seats In Parliament

John Parker, a member of the British Parliament and Labor member for the constituency of West Ham, South- east, has been defeated, Novem- ber 3, at 8 p.m., in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Parker, who was brought to America by the League for Industrial Democracy, is a member of the Labor Party which is now in power in Britain, and which he is associated.

He discussed the conflicting philosophies in the election of last June when a socialist government which wanted to organize the economic life of the community, and the Conservatives who advocated a return to free enterprise. Parker gave two reasons for the election of the Labor Party in 1945. He attributed it to the fact that the British people had grown tired of the Conservative Party and wanted a change, and also to the unpopularity of Winston Churchill as a peace-time leader. After touching briefly on the similarity between the Labor Party and the Interfraternity Council in the United States, Par- ker proceeded to tell what the Labor Party did to carry out its platform on which it had been elected. He spoke of public ownership and how private industry benefited from the achievement of the three spheres of socialism, an attempt to create a Social Security Act, automation, and the housing program. Parker indi- cated that these have created a mixed economy and that Britain is not entirely socialistic.

He concluded by predicting that the Conservatives are not likely to win the next election, although they will probably gain seats in Parliament.
As an older student it is my observation that the university is often perceived as a place of "things". One student calls out to another: "What's he talking about? I don't understand a word he's saying." In the eyes of many, the university is seen as a place where knowledge is taught rather than lived. This is a point of contention among members of the student body. While some believe that the university should be a place of exploration and discovery, others feel that it should be a place of practical application. This conflict is evident in the way that students interact with their professors. While some professors are open and welcoming, others can be distant and unapproachable. This is a concern among students who feel that they are not receiving the support they need to succeed. The university's role in shaping the future of society is an important issue, and it is clear that there is a great deal of debate among members of the student body on this matter. It is up to us to ensure that the university remains a place of learning and growth, where students can explore their passions and develop the skills they need to succeed in the world.
Alumni Society Moves Into Braferton

The 225-year-old Braferton, second oldest educational building in America, second only to the Wren Building, has been, since the 12th of August of this year, the new home of the 106-year-old Alumni Society of the College of William and Mary.

The Society formerly had its office in the Brooksfield Kitchen, which is directly adjacent to the building. Through the years the Society grew to such proportions that serious discussions soon began, based on the need for a larger business office and a campus home where alumni could gather together with their friends to visit and relax.

Aided By College

The College, in authorizing the transfer, has gone far out of its way in aiding the Society to materialize its plans. In addition to providing office space on the first floor of the building, it also agreed to have the large lounge, also on the floor of the building, it also agreed and talk, or just to sit down and home where alumni could gather together with their friends to visit good nick, or just to sit down and relax.

By Ed Wisbauer

To House Guests

The two upper floors of the Braferton are now in the process of renovation for bedrooms which will be for the use of official college guests and Board members who might be required to remain overnight while attending meetings. In the next two years, the college intends to enlarge on this idea and add a wing to the building.

The old Braferton, which is one of the most valued possessions of the college, was started a quarter of a century after the erection of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. It was erected with funds secured from the Braferton estates in Yorkshire, England, made available by the bequest of the Honorable Robert Boyle, the great English scientist. This was the first endowment received by the college.

Originally Indio School

The building was originally the Indian School of the college when, according to the endowment, the Indians were to be educated and taught the gospel. At one time there were nearly twenty Indian boys attending the school, where they were taught and quartered. Later all the Braferton was used to house the faculty and students.

Under the administration of Dr. Chandler, the building was converted to the use of offices and classrooms. For a short period Dr. Chandler held his office in it, and several of the deans and the law school offices were located there.

In the late thirties the first floor of the building was given over to the faculty for their use as a club house.

Today the Alumni Society, which is historic in its own right, is coupled with another link in the famous history of the College of William and Mary.

Veterans who have received benefits from Veterans Administration and have been assigned "C" (elusive) numbers should place certain public records in their case folders if they think their beneficiaries might be entitled to compensation and pension benefits after they die, recent VA announcement states.

Library Appoints Margie Oak To Staff As Manager Of Audio-Visual Section

Margie Oak, an ex-editor of the College Echo who graduated in 1947, has been appointed the audio-visual assistant on the staff of the college library.

This year when the audio-visual program was closed at the end of the summer session, plans were made for the coming fall term which included the program's transfer from the library section.

Robert Cook Will Direct State "C" Organization

Robert Cook, president of the William and Mary chapter of the "C," was elected president of the Virginia Organization of Intercollegiate Relations Clubs during its first conference which was held here October 23 and 24.

Cook appointed another William and Mary student, Diane Stetson, to be secretary during the coming year. Other officers elected were Marvin Menks of the University of Richmond, vice-president and A.D. of the University of Virginia, treasurer. Representatives from colleges all over the state attended.

The local club held an election party last Tuesday night at Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Anyone interested in joining the "C" is invited to do so at the next meeting, November 14 at 8:30 p.m., in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, Cook announced.

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA
Like so many Republicans last Wednesday, followers of the Blue-clad Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina spent the week and asked the obvious question “Why?” to the reason their team failed to win. The answer, while rehearsed and understood by the uppercasing connoisseurs, left bowled-over in both camps.

William and Mary team members, somewhat disappointed because they failed to win the important clash, were nevertheless happy at playing more than the teams they were advertised as several months ago than they have all season.

The two big reasons for the Indian performance which led to the 7-7 deadlock with the previously undefeated and untied Carolinians were a fire-dwung, constituent spirit and a defensive ambush which thwarted every Tar Heel drive but one. The Braves were a fired-up, contagious spirit and a defensive ambush which thwarted every Tar Heel drive but one. And this great spirit with which the team had been instilled coupled with a price edge on the Carolina defense was a marooned boost in record and to crudely shatter the invincibility myth which had been built up around Justice and the rest of Carl.

Great Punting by Lex

The kicking of Lex in the first half was little short of glorious and as he averaged about 46 yards per try, mostly on his specialty, quick kicks. Conditions were not quite as good and his punting was considerably shorter, although long enough to keep him well over the average of 40 yards. Lex used his whole line square in the game, reserving his regulars as defensive eleven men much fewer. He was thwarted rather com-

Korczowski-To-Hoitsma Pass Yields Touchdown

The College of William and Mary will embark on its second football season in the fall, beginning Saturday afternoon scrimmage with Boston College.

William and Mary, after producing its best ball game of the year this season, will find its work cut out in an attempt to score in the win column. The Indian performance which led to the 7-7 deadlock with the previously undefeated and untied Carolinians was a product of a long, sustained drive and it appeared as if it had been stalled when the Indians were just two plays away from driving a field goal. But then their hopes were higher.

In the waning minutes of the game, North Carolinas tried desperately to score and maintain their slim lead, but it was on the final play of the contest almost proved the undoing of the favored Scowh

The gentlemen with the smart money took quite a beating after giving the Indians 27 points. A second reason for the tie against heavy odds was the defense Coach McGwen and his staff spend last week tailer-making for the NC attack.

by overtaking to meet the lethal end-run game of the Carolina eleven. William and Mary allowed Hones Rodges to punch through center to pick up short gains with greater ease, but stopped the long runs by Justice and others by forcing the offense to cut back down the field or he run out of bounds.

As a consequence, Justice made only one long gain all afternoon and was consistently caught behind on good trends. And the Braves were fortunate in getting a couple of breaks to stop touchdown drives, cashing in on Carolina fumbles, interceptions and penalties.

Buddy Lex's punting, especially during the first half when he averaged 54 yards per try, was nothing short of sensational, and he was brought down by Justice. Before Lex could go in the try for a field goal, the ball landed in a 1-7 tie.

Six Teams Fight For Laurels As Play In Touch Football Leagues Near End

As intramural football goes into its final week of scheduled play, the championships of both leagues are far from settled. In the fraternity league, SAE and Pi RA seem to have the inside edge, while last year’s champions, Sigma Rho, could be a dark horse winner. The independent league is just as wide open with the Moaners, OD A, and Flying 8 all contenders for the championship.

The crucial game of the fraternity league will be the SAE versus Sigma Rho contest on Tuesday, November 9. The independent league’s deciding games are far from settled. In the semi-finals, the teams have met, and the following have advanced to the championship round: SAE, Pi RA, and Flying 8 for the fraternity league, and Moaners, Sigma Rho, and Flying 8 for the independent league.

The Moaners meet the Flying 8 today, and on Wednesday, November 10, the Moaners will meet Pi KA. The independent league is just as close with the Moaners, Sigma Rho, and Flying 8 all in contention.

The game featured SAE’s Joe Giordano tossing the ball again, it marched to its goal line and Watson took the extra point. The game’s outstanding players, for a touchdown. Joe Giordano then intercepted a Sigma Rho pass and went ten yards for his fourth touchdown pass, and the last tally of the day. One of the most exciting games of the week saw Lewis Hall’s Flying 8 defeat the Moaners 26-13.

Joe Giordano put his final touch on the game by passing to Bill Lucas for his fourth touchdown pass, and the last tally of the day. One of the most exciting games of the week saw Lewis Hall’s Flying 8 defeat the Moaners 26-13.

There will be two post-season games this year. One will have the champions of both leagues meeting, and the other will be an all-star game.

In the tennis intramurals Anthony Gannon has reached the semi-final round, and the following have advanced to the championship round: Giordano, Deierhoi, Helhcock, and Ross.

Women’s Wiles

By Delores Hueste

Women's sports always bring forth a derivia laugh from the stronger sex. At the leisurely pace at which William and Mary are much longer and louder than anywhere else. It wouldn't be quite as bad if they were ignored, but they are so there is every social custom, look down their collective noses. If the social and small-minded attitude had any disastrous effect on the Alzheimer of the participants, the situation would be even worse than it is. But it is discouraging.

The fact remains that women's intramurals, especially swimming and basketball, are most exciting and thrive and chills in store for the spectator. Of course, there must be reasons for a few chuckles, but not enough so as to say the least.

To be a little more specific for a moment, we'll take the subject of the swimming meet last Thursday night. Chi Omega Captures First Session Of Virginia's Intramural Swimming

The Chi O's, led by Jane Oblenbach Alwaster, Jimmie Murphy and Joan Carpenter, captured the Virginia Women's League A intramural swimming meet last Thursday night at Blow Pool. Barrett and Pi Phi placed second and third respectively.

Either winning or placing in every event, the winners were never in danger of dropping the meet, as they touched up 46 points to Barrett's 29 and Pi Phi's 28.

Dancing Class Will Organize

Do you feel unpopular at dances? Are you a wallflower? It's not your oversized feet that is the root of your trouble, you just can't dance.

There is a solution to your dilemma and it may be had tomorrow at 4 p.m. in room 1 of Jefferson.

At that time, there will be an organizational meeting to form a club for the purpose of learning how to dance. This offer is open to both sexes, male and female.

In the beginning class, the waltz and the fox-trot will be taught, while the intermediate group will concern themselves with the intricacies of the Latin American dances, such as the Rumba, the Tanga and the Samba.

"However, it must be emphasized," said Miss Saunders, dance instructor, "that there will be classes held in the evenings. Tentatively, there will be either a beginning or intermediate class, whichever proves to be the most popular.

Student Assembly Gives Approval To Publications Regulations Change

The proposed amendments, which must be passed by the General Cooperative Committee before they go into effect, were designed to give the editors of the three student publications greater freedom in the selection of their staff members. As the article now stands, editors, editorial assistants and staff members are chosen more on the basis of their college class and their service on the publications here than on the basis of their actual ability. The proposed amendments will allow transfer students to obtain higher staff positions.

Under Section 5, which refers to the related positions on the Pi Hat, Colonial Echo and Royalist, persons, in order to be eligible for these posts, must have completed at least one and one-half the prescribed hours of college credit for the winter semester under the proposed rules.

Kent To Give Plane Data

Robert R. Kent, a representative of Eastern Airlines, will visit the Flat Hat, Colonial Echo and Royalist offices on November 15, to give air travel information to students and to take reservations for air travel on any air line from those students planning to travel by air during the Christmas vacation period.

Kent will be stationed in the second floor corridor of the Wren Building from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on this date.

Student Assembly members gave unanimous approval to amendments to Article XIII of the Student Government Constitution, presented by Nicki Dillard, chairman of the Publications Committee, at a meeting of the Assembly last Tuesday.

Kathy Gray Describes Mutual Audition

By Evelyn Moore

"When it comes to music, Wakefield is always there on tap" proudly declared Kathryn Gray, speaking of her home town. Kathy was also in a trio which was often called upon to entertain Wakefield organizations and those of other Virginia towns. The Rutland Club sponsored two programs for them over station WVBA.

Last December after her car and train broke down, the trio finally arrived in Roanoke in time to perform at the formal Christmas dinner. While they were there, they first sang a few songs for their own pleasure. At the close of this private concert, the trio received a bouquet from members of the men's dormitory. Kathy left William and Mary and flew to New York. The girls decided to audition for Arthur Godfrey's program in addition. Their talent scout was Mrs. Gilbert, F. Allen, an accomplished piano teacher and choral worker whom Wakefield presented with a silver cup for her outstanding work in the community. The trio also contributed in order to make the trip a success.

One who is interested in photography is invited to enter the exhibit. The prize forms will be published during the last week in November. It was also disclosed that this year's first issue of the Royalist will be limited to 500 copies. Roy­

Philosophy Professor Delivers Address Before Art Students in Scarab Society

At a Scarab Society meeting held last Wednesday night, Sydney C. Davis, associate professor of philosophy, addressed the members on Art and Freedom. In this talk Dr. Rome showed how the education of the artist must include study of philosophy, and yet must stimulate him to see the "world in a new light and to re­

Good Housekeeping Magazine Offers Six-Months Course In Home Economics

A program for six months post-graduate course in home economics in which the students will be paid while learning was announced today by Good Housekeeping magazine.

“Beginning February 1, 1949, Good Housekeeping, in collaboration with The American Home Economics Association will offer a six-months training course in the laboratories of Good Housekeeping Institute to a limited group of home economics graduates,” the announcement states.

“This training is being offered to home economics graduates as a public service. The object is to make available to industry more trained home economists. At the present time, there is a marked lack of young home economists who are trained for home economics in business. Good Housekeeping is taking this lead in attempting to overcome this lack,” the announcement continues.

Those who may apply include home economics graduates and seniors who expect to be graduated in January, 1949, may apply in anticipation of receiving a diploma.

Application may be made on application blanks provided by Good Housekeeping Institute. Personal interviews will not be granted. Students may obtain application blanks by writing to Katharine Fisher, Director, Good Housekeeping Institute, 58th Street, New York 10, N. Y.

High School Homecoming

A special section of Foreman Field has been reserved for the annual homecoming parade to take place between Granby and Main.
