Dr. Douglass Adair Claims An Uneventful, Quiet Life

Former Princeton Professor Dislikes Exercise; Prefers Mozart, Louis Armstrong As Diversion

By PATTY LOU YOUNG

“My life has been very quiet and uneventful,” said Dr. Douglass G. Adair, Assistant Professor of History, when questioned about the events of his life.

Born in New York City, but raised in Birmingham and Mobile, Alabama, Dr. Adair began his college career at an Episcopal school, the University School of Birmingham. During his four years there, he did graduate work at Harvard Law School for a year. In 1935, in order to have enough money to get married, he went to Washington where he worked on the Constituency of the Social Security Law. While he was working there he became involved in the Supreme Court fight of 1936. After his marriage in 1937 he finished his graduate work as Yale and obtained his Doctorate. Dr. Adair taught for two years at Princetoma before coming to Williams and Mary in the summer of 1945 to help set up the A. S. T. F. Program in American History.

At the present time he is trying to complete his book on the political and economic problems confronting the American in the designing of the Constitution. A small part of his work was published last year.

Dr. Adair’s chief form of diversion is music. He and his wife have attended concerts at least once a month. Music mainly Mozart and Louis Armstrong concertos. Before their three children were born they used to enjoy painting and drawing. Mrs. Adair still has some of her original work, and some of her poetry has already been published. She did graduate work in English at Radcliffe and the Summer School of Duke University. There she met her husband.

When asked about his future plans he said, “The Adairs are a very amiable couple except for the commoncold which always destroys them.”

Teaching career is complete he hopes to work with Felix Gilbert on a definite edition of the Federalist Papers.

Macklin, History Major, Plans Jaunt To Mexico

Practical Joking “Mac” Likes Sports, Widespread Activities, Even Classes

by GINNY TOWNE

Martha Macklin, retiring president of the Women’s Monogram Club and vice-president of the Senior Class, has become so fond of William and Mary during four years there, she can hardly bear the thought of graduating and leaving her friends. All college activities, and even classes, are so much enjoyed by “Mac,” a major in history and government, that she has given little thought to her post-graduation plans.

So far, the only plan she has for the future is to travel from her home at Suffolk, Virginia, to Mexico, for the summer.

A member of the German, Setzab, and International Relations clubs, and 1944-45 vice-president of Chi Omega sorority, Mac has been active in intercollegiate basketball, tennis, last base, plugging, badminton, and bridge. She was manager of the cheers team for two years.

A girl of widespread interests and talents, Mac likes painting, classical and popular music, singing, tennis, and the Navy. Her favorite hobby is reading, with stamp collecting as a close runner-up.

Most admit that she is constantly teased by her friends for being giggly and believing every long and fabulous tale. She is a practical joker of the finest degree, and often finds herself the object of prankish tricks. Once the girls on the third floor of the Chi Omegas house were in the midst of changing the sheets, but had a much more difficult time discovering that their master was hanging检察机关 on the fire escape.

Retail School Representative Speaks To Business Students

H. LEDGER TOWLE, acting head of the Placement Bureau, has announced that the business community has a representative of the New York University School of Retailing come to Williams and Mary in the near future to speak to business students about the opportunities in the retail field and the special advantages of the cooperative training provided by the School of Business.

The School offers a cooperative training program in conjunction with department stores and chain stores of the metropolitan area. The program combines classroom training with practical experience.

Graduate students taking the course receive 400 hour for the time they spend in the store, making a minimum of $620 per week. This amounts to about $100 during the school year, more than covering tuition and fees, which average $75.

The students attend classes during the morning and work in stores during the afternoon. While working, students are under the supervision of store executives who, under the terms of the cooperative agreement, assist the student workers whenever they are needed.

Summer courses offered by the School of Retailing include Cost and

Baby Face Nelson, Jimmy Hamilton, Bozo Like Fruits, Grain, Vegetables

Bozo, Baby Face Nelson, and Jimmy Hamilton are not gangsters, but three rhesus monkeys that are owned by the Biology Department. In 1938 they were acquired along with Billy, Buzzy, and Machine Gun Kelly, because Dr. Davis, head of the department, felt that the students needed educational material to study as well as "joked" out of the room. Bozo is now twenty-eight years old, but the ages of the others are not definitely known. Since they are named after gangsters, Dr. Davis assured the students that they were born around the time when those men were front page news.

Once a day the animals are fed other fruits, grain, or vegetables but never meat, as they are all strictly vegetarians. A trick that has never failed to have a monkey into another cage is to tempt him with bananas.

None of the animals are tempted a little sign on the cage warns "Danger—Monkeys Bit." A boy came last Tuesday without shoes and Bozo grabbed his foot, necessitating a quick jerk from the boy before the monkey would release his hold. However, they put out their hands for food and will drink prune juice out of a can, with the aid of a rubber tube.

Bozo, leader of the troop, keeps the other animals, especially Baby Face, from eating until he has finished. Baby Face has learned to sneak food from Dr. Davis when the others are not looking.

Drama Group Gives Program

Members of the Virginia Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, the university drama fraternity, sponsored a program on Thursday night, April 3, at the Catholic U. S. O. hosts, formerly the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house.

Anneke Ke Honig and Betty Dejoul gave readings for the students; Marilyn Woodberry and Joan Le Fevre presented several songs, accompanied by Betty Dejoul at the piano; and a Hawaiian dance was rendered by Virginia Till.

Present Theta Alpha Phi members include: Bob Wayne, Joan Le Fevre, Anneke Ke Honig, Betty Dejoul, Bill Greene, Joan W ontz, and Ginny Graham.

New candidates for membership were chosen at the last meeting of the Dramatic Club and are to be initiated this month. The club is Under Wykoff, Joan B ayeer, Eleanor Hayne, Joan Forbes, Charles Hopkins, Rachel Lynie, Judy Sullivan, and Sally Greaves. Student Government... A Deplorable Deficiency

At a time when our fighting men all over the world are fighting for us, the College with whom they are in close connection with it in various ways. Yet probably the best move they could make, which seems to have been overlooked, would be that of establishing some place at the Inn or Lodge, in close connection with it in various ways.

The Restoration officials have been doing a lot of talking, about the College; in the minds of a great many boys, will always be synonymous with school. They are the boys with whom the students of the College and the big part which College officials could probably name a great many of its students are to be used again, then we can name them. But above and beyond all this, the Restoration has its Deplorable Deficiency... Why is it so objectionable?

We repeat, why is this so objectionable? Why, pant the powers that be take some action?

The surest way is an X-ray picture of the chest. The X-ray finds tuberculosis early. One cannot tell by merely looking at a person that he has tuberculosis. This is up to civilians to carry the job through to a finish. Between the ages of 15 and 35, tuberculosis kills more persons than any other disease. This is one of the chief reasons why so many medical doctors are fighting tuberculosis, for no other disease responds more readily to treatment than Tuberculosis.

In order to become infected a person must be in contact with another person who has tuberculosis in the "open" stage. The "open" case, the one who has tuberculosis in the "open" stage, is the one who has tuberculosis in the "open" stage. The military powers have at present about twelve million X-ray camera, and the result is that the person has tuberculosis in the "open" stage, and the person who has tuberculosis in the "open" stage, is the one who has tuberculosis in the "open" stage. But above and beyond all this, the Restoration has its Deplorable Deficiency... Why is it so objectionable?

We repeat, why is this so objectionable? Why, pant the powers that be take some action?

The surest way is an X-ray picture of the chest. The X-ray finds tuberculosis early. One cannot tell by merely looking at a person that he has tuberculosis.
