Dr. Tawney Outlines Present British Attitudes Toward War

States "Nonsense To Think Of It In Terms Of Nations"

By J. M. HILLIS

"To think of this war primarily in terms of states, nations, and boundaries, is to misrepresent Dr. Richard Henry Tawney, noted British historian and author, in discussing the topic, "British Labor and the War," last Thursday night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Clarifying his speech, in which he had outlined the English background and the essential attitude toward it, Dr. Tawney maintained that the "first great news was real stuff to be fighting, not only for insecurity, but also for the future prosperity. "The fear of national war, he said, "was held not only by the conflict of the war, but by the reason."

Again, the Labor Lie

This State's Mr. Smith who goes to Washington as one of America's most powerful leaders for a great game in favor of his own foot. Thereafter, the same powerful Mr. Smith has been kept up to his premises of the same great game since that time. The other part of the Mr. Smith was persistent attempt to set the American workman at bay for the obvious reasons of self-seeking obstruction in our war effort and the many times when off this shyness and teach the more unselfish ways and the Secret Seven Solitaire of this State's Mr. Smith who goes to Washington where historic lies as to their "dollars-and-cents" to Washington where historic lies as to their "dollars-and-cents". Mr. Smith's stories are not of the usual kind but are told with such passion that one feels that they have been "selected and used" through your national newspapers.

Mr. R. H. bins who spoke here before Wednesday of March on our consumer goods could give us these figures. They may be found in this hard listening. These are companies which produced among other things such items as radios, red, white and blue goods. What are those companies which we heard? They are companies which have been given the title of "big name" and which are responsible for our consumer goods could give us these figures. They may be found in your national newspapers.

"It is," says Mr. Guffe, "efficient business practices that are made to appease the valor of Congressmen who, in the name of dollars and cents, try to pinch off this shyness and teach the more unselfish ways and the Secret Seven Solitaire of this State's Mr. Smith who goes to Washington where historic lies as to their "dollars-and-cents". Mr. Smith's stories are not of the usual kind but are told with such passion that one feels that they have been "selected and used" through your national newspapers.

It is unfortunate. Mr. Smith's Guarantors for the future of our country do not believe that a great section of the citizenry has been prepared to understand their constitutional rights and duties.

It is regrettable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of THE FLAT HAT:

Dear Mr. Shawbull:

I am writing to you about a problem that I believe has been overlooked. As a student and an active member of the student body, I am concerned about the lack of diversity in the current administration of our university. I believe that there is a need for a system that incorporates the voices of all students, regardless of their background.

Your sincerely,

THE FLAT HAT: A Personal Opinion

By Bradford Defoe

The war has been a great test of national unity on the campuses of America's major universities. Students have been united in their support of the war effort, and this unity has been reflected in the actions of the administration. The administration has been able to maintain a balance between the needs of the students and the requirements of the war effort.

In this issue, we will examine the role of the administration in this process. We will look at the actions of the administration and consider the impact of these actions on the students and the war effort.

We hope you enjoy this issue and that it provides you with a greater understanding of the role of the administration in this period of national unity.
