W&M Sets April 29, 30 For Debate Tournament

The third annual Marshall-Wythe debate tournament will be held April 29 and 30.

The college will be represented by Donald F. Allen, professor of English, and Thaddeus H. W. Mathews, assistant professor of English, as chairman of the Upper Peninsula, at the University of Detroit. The debate will be held in the university's University Hall.

W&M Receives Grant From W&M. Cromwell

In July, 1948, an announcement was made that William Nelson Cromwell, partner in the law firm of Bacon, Burton and Company of New York City, had bequeathed to the College of William and Mary one share in one hundred of his estate.

The bequest was made payable to the executor at ten million dollars. Among the other securities that make up the estate are some five million dollars in bonds and twenty million dollars in stock, all of which will be bequeathed to charitable and educational institutions. The executors had power over the sale of the estate to the college, and the bequest ever received by the college was the one million dollar bequests received by the college.

W&M will be represented in the tournament by the following students: for the affirmative team, Douglas Minor, a senior in the School of Business Administration; and for the negative team, William R. Robinson, a sophomore in the School of Engineering.

Jockey Corner

Among the many things revived by spring is the popularity of "jockey corner." Technically known as College Corner, the vastly more descriptive name of "jockey corner" is apparently a reflection of the post-war influx of students to the University of Virginia, April 14, all existing records were broken as the "jockeys" covered the corner like a vast swarm of bees.

We have come to understand that we think "jockeying" is one of the finest attractions that Williamsburg offers. It is not only pleasant during the rush hours and as a place to hang around, but the deli serving there is the finest in the world.

But like so many things, "jockeying" can be carried to excess. Many of us remember the time the Williamsburg police asked the students to please stop the activity at the corner. When "jockeying" becomes a safety hazard then it is time for us to stop and consider our conduct. Instead of forcing the police or college authorities to draw the line, let us draw it ourselves. We want it understood that we think "jockeying" is one of the finest attractions that Williamsburg offers. It is not only pleasant during the rush hours and as a place to hang around, but the deli serving there is the finest in the world.

"Jockey Corner" was first reported successful in New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Washington and other areas. With the discount card, which is sponsored by the National Student Association for the purpose of lowering living expenses for the college student, has gone into effect.

Everytime I think of the fact that the College of William and Mary has been in business since 1693, I pause with amazement and beam to reflect on student life in colonial days.

The Dean of Men to post a restraining word about activity on "jockey corner." Technically known as College Corner, the vastly more descriptive name of "jockey corner" is apparently a reflection of the post-war influx of students to the University of Virginia, April 14, all existing records were broken as the "jockeys" covered the corner like a vast swarm of bees. The term "jockeying" is oblivion of the weather, and he may be found there in rain or cold as well as in fair weather.

We must also bear in mind that "jockey corner" can make a vivid impression on visitors to the city or college. Whether the impression is pleasant or unpleasant depends largely on our conduct. To keep the privilege of "jockeying," let's keep it sane.

The students will merely look up from their studies, open their eyes, and hear the movie; they will also smell them. No appreciable difference is evident. In cases where special permission is granted, the student must leave the landing gear in the College except by special permission.

I've often wondered what the college students of 2116, say a hundred years from now. Of course, I have no way of knowing, but here is my conception of the shape of things to come—William and Mary in the year 2066.

The cafeteria of 2049 will serve Cereals with atomic energy shot to the future, I'm sure will be the double-dose of Budweiser.

Indian Diamond Nine Downs W-L, VPI On Road Trip; Loses To VMI

Coach Lefty Rogers’ William and Mary baseball team continued its fine season last week by dropping two out of three Southern Conference games and winning three out of four games in the overall picture.

After having a five game winning streak snapped by VMI on Thursday, the Braves came rallying back to take VPI on Friday and W&L Saturday.

The VMI loss was the third of the year to league opposition. The overall Indian total now stands at eight wins and four defeats.

Although outpitching the Keydets, 6-4, W&L trailed all the way to drop the first game of the four, 9-5. Eddie Lutes hurled the route aboard to wrap the game up.

Coach Lefty Rogers’ William and Mary freshmen and sophomores, led the Indian gutterball 3-1 to 1-1 victory over the Richmond Spiders last Thursday.

Shottenkirk (W&M) opened the William and Mary barrage, a clean-bobbing 1-0 lead in the opening inning.

In the field of excellent performance, Chip Ramsey and Caughron concur in the opinion that the boys will put a break in the string, but it is doubtful that any college team can come up as time goes on. Jim Nolan was the starting VPI hurler, a former Virginia amateur holder, a former Virginia amateur holder.

The Indian baseball team has shown up as one of the best in the Eastern Conference, and one of the best Indian teams in a number of years. Good pitching and hitting, along with some timely hitting, have been the winning combination.

With several plans beginning to show considerable promise and with new talent coming in, there is much optimism among the freshman tracksters, under the tutelage of Jack Ramsey and Bob Carew, that they will travel to Newport News Saturday.

Mrs. Wightman Aids Women Netters; Boasts Of Many Top-Flight Pupils

Hazel Hohokum Wightman, one of the all-time greats in the world of women's tennis, spent two days last week at William and Mary as visiting coach for the varsity women's tennis team.

Mrs. Wightman started winning National Championships more than 30 years ago, and her record includes 36 national titles, which is equaled only by Sarah Palfrey Coolea, one of her protégées.

In 1916, after winning the Outdoor National Singles title, staging a comeback after ten years, she was the only American woman to win the Olympic gold medal in the sport, as well as taking the doubles title at the Olympic matches in Paris. In 1924, teaming with Helen Wills, she won the International Trophy for women. In 1919, after winning the Outstanding Women of America's Capitol, she won the Wightman Cup for a number of years. Mrs. Wightman has always had an almost all-consuming interest in women's tennis and has done much to start some of the more outstanding players of today on their respective roads to success. During her stay on campus this year, Mrs. Wightman gave invaluable help to the members of the varsity tennis team.

The varsity team has only played one of the five matches this year against a group from William and Mary. However, on the afternoon of April 28, the squad will journey to Swarthmore, Pennsylvania to participate in the annual trip to Swarthmore. The varsity team is expected to have only five hold-overs from last year's competition. Playing in the line-up are Ruth Barner, with Jane Tuley, Ide, Shiloh Lyons, Jane Copeland and Dolores Houston down the line. Kinner Hamilton, Betty Graves, and Laura Lowe are three of the newcomers to the team, from which much is expected this year.

The last scheduled match of the relatively short season will be played here with Washington College on Saturday, May 14.

At Smith to encounter the classrooms knitting problem and to combat it a brace of masculine pupils. He knits anything, and can even read at the same time.

Plans For Financial Success Fade

Survey Depicts Graduate's Future Life

A feature writer for the Daily Texan summarizes a recent survey made by a national magazine among college graduates when 9,065 degree-holders considered representatives were questioned. If you get a degree and go to work, according to the survey, here is what you can expect.

You will become a professional man or an executive with a salary of about $4,500 a year.

Home Life
You will own your own home which will have six rooms and a monthly rental value of $84. You will marry only once and will not become divorced. You will plan to have three children but will probably have only two.

You will read most of the best sellers, both fiction and non-fiction. You will also read from one to four magazines. Concentrating on the Reader's Digest, Life, Time and the Saturday Evening Post.

Political Interests
You will engage in about five political activities which include reading about politics in newspapers and magazines and discussing it with your friends. You will keep up with local civic activities and take an active part in the civic affairs of your community. You will also keep up with national and international developments, but your active status in politics will probably be confined to voting.

Interestingly enough, you will not arbitrarily identify yourself with any political party but will vote according to the issue in any given election.

You will have only slightly less than four hours a day to spend in spare time activities. Most of that time will be taken up by reading or visiting friends. You will rarely go to a night club for entertainment.

In the matter of attitudes, you will believe that personal integrity of conduct and continuous searching for truth are the most important goals in life, and you will believe that the greatest satisfaction in life comes from financial success, influence or prestige.
