Grading System

A group of Tulane University students has instigated a move to introduce a pass or fail grading system in American colleges and universities.

These students believe that the Pass or Fail Grading System would remove emphasis from grades and place it upon more meaningful goals, such as personal satisfaction with scholastic attainments, as opposed to grades which are assigned to students as a means of evaluation. Such an evaluation does not take into consideration the influence of socioeconomic incentives which an individual student may have in college, or the countless other factors which he cannot control.

The FLAT HAT policy which states that, "the good old days, because it is usually the first set of sociological incentives which an individual student experiences, and is a stabilizing factor in the acquisition of knowledge, he may have already had the necessary training for success in any field of work.

Good School

But the fact remains, we think that all students, regardless of place to go to school, find enough enthusiasm, "the good old days", as a cliche.

If and when criticism makes for a healthy condition, then we'll like to take on a few more things about William and Mary.

Let's face it, kiddies. The time isn't here yet (yet again) for any of us to begin blazing a trail of glory, as it's always been intended to be.

It is unfortunate that fraternity business is not as it used to be. If there was such a thing, I think a friendly word would have to admit that some of the "pass" exams are better than others.

Editor's Note:

Attention is called to The FLAT HAT's policy which states that "all letters will be printed, except those which are absolutely unsigned." The FLAT HAT has received numerous unsigned letters in the past.

To the Editor:

This letter is being written under the assumption that, although it isn't fashionable, it is permissible to write a few sentences on the topics of The FLAT HAT.

Upstream in my mind at this very moment is the North Carolina game, the senior-sophomore tag-up'ow last Wednesday night. A great deal of credit is due those who conceived the game and participated in it, at least that is the working-class nature.

It showed that the old spirit doeth still exist in the college crowd if only it can be brought back. The game itself was a memorable one. The game was played in the V.P.I. gym, during the second half of which the second of the home two-thirds of Mary and Mary roosted and put up a good fight, although they were certainly not understanding of getting the tickets, only as much as they are to do.

It is unfortunate that circumstances have been such that the responsibility of keeping the ticketing office open is a burden that the students will have to bear.

Sincerely,

Tom Abbey.

The Editor:

I am writing this letter to clear up any misunderstandings that may have arisen from Miss Moore's article about the Dance Committee, of which I am chairman, has absolutely nothing to do with the Fudge Club. Students who use both gyms such as Homecoming and Alumni dance this fall are at the discretion of the Dance committee.

I may immediately discover how unique this organization, how different it is from the other student organizations in the university, the club's constitution:

1. Any student at the college
2. The name of this club shall be the Fudge Club of the College of William and Mary.
3. The members of this club will be the officers and members of the Fudge Club of the College of William and Mary.
4. The club will be held as often as necessary to provide recognition for outstanding fraternities at the college.

Article II Selection, Rejection, and Acceptation

1. Selection

1. The members of this club will be the officers and members of the Fudge Club of the College of William and Mary.
2. The club will be held as often as necessary to provide recognition for outstanding fraternities at the college.

Article III Meetings

1. Meetings shall be held "just because", the minutes of which shall be open to the public, and where the necessity of any meetings shall be determined by a majority vote of the members present.

Good Things At William and Mary

Sure, there are lots of good things about William and Mary. Things like pop rally last Fri.

The Flat HAT policy which states that, "the good old days", because it is usually the first set of sociological incentives which an individual student experiences, and is a stabilizing factor in the acquisition of knowledge, he may have already had the necessary training for success in any field of work.

Of course, I am not saying that the students who have been to college the longest have been the most successful. The old spirit DOES exist in the college, but it is only as many working students who naturally and deservedly want recognition for their efforts. The proposed system may tend to create a laxness on the part of some, but it is not impossible that they will go to their professor and he will have to admit that some of them are certainly not undeserving of recognition.

Smoke Signals
By Bill Greer

When Coach Rube McCray's William and Mary football team lost to North Carolina, they lost to one of the greatest personal victories in the nation, and a far cry from the team which lost to Texas and Wake Forest on successive Saturdays, and a better one than defeated Georgia in the season's opener.

Observers who had watched the Tarheels perform in earlier games, even Coach Carl G. Staley, quit that the UNC team was the best for the first time this year, and that they played their best game to date against William and Mary. There was a general feeling that the Tarheels would win, for the rest of the season, and that they showed something through the remainder of their season without a defeat.

Tearless Look Good

The UNC offense looked impressive, a shade more so than that of WMU, but actually there was little difference between the two teams. William and Mary's loss proved its greatness by a tremendous goal-line stand, and some odder moments, etc.

There was little to be said against either team. Justice played his best game so far, as was evidenced by the scoring column. William and Mary's Jack Cloud left little doubt on the running game, and moved into the all to the Southern-Southback posse over the Tribe's line.

Cloud did the unexpected when he did his first pass of the year. His jump pass against Bob McPeek was fumbled, but neither yardage. Several occasions when such yards were needed badly.

Indian Conference Chances

Although defeated by North Carolina, the William and Mary grid team still stands an excellent chance of finishing in first place in the Southern Conference standings. The two games that will go far toward deciding the champion will be the WMU-Wake Forest encounter here a week from Saturday, and the Duke-Carolina game that week.

If Carolina defeats Duke and the Indians subdue Wake Forest, every team in the conference will have lost at least once, and the Braves will have a chance to finish off the season with perhaps a better percentage because of a greater number of family games played.

Grid Selection

We'll only stick our necks out a few inches this week to say that William and Mary will have a little, but not a chance of going in sending the R. U. Terriers scurrying with their tails between their legs.

Always Plays Game

By Tommy Joyce

Most unorthodox of the Harvard and William and Mary first string gridiron is Harry "Red" Caughron, 205-pound tackle from Johnson City, Tenn., who rates as one of the steady ball players on the squad.

Red never plays a standout game. He may move out of the way for one week and then doing nothing for several, he may play good football every game, doing the same thing each game. He's steady, he's a strong runner, right along with the fastest linemen. The 23-year-old married veteran served three years in the Infantry, and 16 months of that time was spent in the European Theatre of Operations.

Caughron has never scored a career goal. Last spring began at Science Hill high school in Johnson City, where he also took third in the track team. As a tackle there he was chosen to the All-State eleven, and All-Eastern Tennessee, and received the post season award for two consecutive years. He was one of the most sought-after high

Dormitory, Sorority Swimming Begins Tonight At Blow Gym

Swimming intra-murals will begin tonight at 7 p.m. in Blow Gym. The first night of competition will open the best dormitory and sorority teams.

League A is comprised of Kappa Phi, Chi O, Tri Delta, Kappa Delta, and Chandler League's A's competition, which will start Oct. 22. The second evening will include Theta Alpha Chi, Gamma Phi, Phi Mu, Barrett and Jefferson.

Starting for Kappa there is Janie Fosler, freestyler, of the '45-'46 varsity team and Fran House, backstroker, of the '46-'47 team. Also returning for Kappa are Caroline Reinbrecht of the '46-'47 squad.

Penny Allenberg, freestyler, and Poppy Arnold, backstroker, of the '46-'47 squad will also participate for Theta.

Marty Azencis and Barbara Simms, two speedy freestyle, will try to match the sorority title for Gamma Phi.

 Theta returns forward with proficiency in diving seen in Betty Ellis Lutesfeld. Jeanne Bernegger and Jane Seston, short distance fishers, Oct. 19, will contest as possible.

Mrs. Dearstyne is the new chairwoman for Theta.

From Chi O there is June Oberender, freestyler and diver, also a varsity member in her freshman year. Marty Azencis and Barbara Simms, two speedy freestyle, will try to match the sorority title for Gamma Phi.

UNC Game (Continued from Page 4)

William and Mary took the kickoff of the late first quarter and went into a series of plays and kicked to the NC five. Jack Bruce carried Charlie Justice's first down quick kick back to the NC 38 and Buddy Lex ran to the left without blocking for 13 yards. Jack Cloud nicked his way past the line to the 15 on two running plays, and then balled it down to a touchdown on the eight. Magdziak kicked the extra point, his 14th in a row for the season.

Take possession of the ball. The Tarheel two. Cloud went over for the touchdown. A drive to provide funds for students and teachers made destitute by the war will get under way ward the latter part of November at William and Mary, under the sponsorship of the Student Relief Union, which will work with the World Student Service Fund.

Mark Waldo, chairman of the WSWF committee at the college, announced that speakers and programs will be presented here in an effort to promote the drive.

"Teachers, students and organiza­tions on the campus will be solicited," he said.

WSWF was organized in the United States in 1937 when the needs of students of China’s war-evacuated colleges first became critical. Its activities were extended to Europe when war broke out there in 1939. It is working today to re-establish students in countries affected by the war and to carry them through the first few crucial years. For this purpose, WSSF has set a $1,000,000
goal for the United States.

World Student Relief is an international student agency for which WSSF is the American, co-operating organization. It works with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organizations, which began this year to promote a campaign for $10,000,000 for educational reconstruction and relief in war-devastated Asia.

George N. Shuster, president of Hunter College, is president of the WSSF, assisted by representatives from colleges all over the country.

Members of the International Relations club held a steak fry at the College Inn on Friday, Oct. 17, at which time new members were welcomed to the organization.

New members are Louis Bailey, Denver Remminger, John Fells, John Polton, Pauline Chakraborty, Dick Beatly, Lorabeth Moore, Jane Coleman, Charles Metania, Murray Patterson, Jim Elliott, Jim George, Bob Cook, Mary Elizabeth Findlay, Ludwig de Matashia, Frank Bonar, and John Lichardt, and Barbara James.

The club will hold its next regular meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 21, when Dr. Edgar M. Follin will speak on his work on the Allied Occupation Stoff in Austria.

John Fells, president of IRC wishes to point out that applications for membership are still being accepted for the club's waiting list. They may be obtained from the social science faculty members.

College Obtains Use Of Organ For Winter

The Hammond electric organ used this past summer for "The Winter Of Organ Man," will be used during convocations and other college functions for the remainder of the semester. Since the organ was borrowed from the college for the winter months by Colgate W. Darden, the organ is being returned to the college for the winter months. The organ will be used in the college Training Program to train 1750 men to participate in the United States between the ages of 17 and 21 who meets the physical standards of the Navy or Marine Corps. The selection of his choice and a commission in the Navy or Marine Corps will be his reward.

The Hammond electric organ used this past summer for "The Winter Of Organ Man," will be used during convocations and other college functions for the remainder of the semester. Since the organ was borrowed from the college for the winter months by Colgate W. Darden, the organ is being returned to the college for the winter months. The organ will be used in the college Training Program to train 1750 men to participate in the United States between the ages of 17 and 21 who meets the physical standards of the Navy or Marine Corps. The selection of his choice and a commission in the Navy or Marine Corps will be his reward.

President Of WSG, Shuz Sprague, Leads Busy College Life At WM

"I feel very good," Shuz Sprague declared when questioned about her practice teaching at Matthew Whaley. "But I do enjoy it and I hope to teach a year. I really don't plan to go into anything specifier- thing, though." President of WASCA, Shuz has been interested and active in student government work since grade school. That interest is evident now, by her campus activities. As presi- dient of Women's Student Government, she is a member of the Stu- dent assembly, the Senate, the General Committee, the student activities committee, the general council, and she presides over the senior nominat- ing committee. Needless to say, she is kept busy.

On the academic side, Shuz is majoring in sociology and minor- ing in education. In connection with the latter, she is doing practice teaching in the sixth grade at Matthew Whaley, and is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary edu- cation fraternity, and add to this Mortar Board and dean's list.

When asked about WASCA, Shirley explained, "I like the people to have it an organization in which all women would participate activ- ely. For instance, at May Day rally, the President of Theta Pi and dean's list. Shuz, all women would participate ac-

King Announces
New Participants
In Backdrop Club

Membership in the Backdrop club, the organization which produces the annual varsity show, soared over the 200 mark as applications continued to arrive from students who were unable to join at the opening meeting.

"If there are still more students who wish to become members," stated president-producer Ronald King, "they may write to Michaela Grenata or to me at the local post-office. Don't forget to sign your name to the application. We had a student who neglected to include his name, and he must be seething somewhere," King continued.

There will be an unofficial get-together of the club immediately after the group picture for the Colonial Echo have been taken. Members are urged to arrive at the back steps of the Wren Building at 3:20 on Thursday, Oct. 23, so that the throng can be assembled for the picture.

Plans for a Backdrop club-sponsored dance will be discussed at the impromptu meeting, and announcements will be made concerning preliminary try-outs for the forthcoming varsity show.

governor of New York and the Bahamas, and letters spanning the years from the reign of Charles II to Victoria.

The larger part of the collection, which could not be shipped to the U. S. during the war, was stored in a vault in England. These papers were brought over by Morpurgo on his present trip, and the entire collection will be placed on display in the library tomorrow.

Sprague

A member of Pi Beta Phi, she is their pledge supervisor and has served on their executive board for four years. An attractive brunette, Shuz may be considered an "Ideal Co-ed." Her leadership academically and in student government make this title an appropriate one.
