Fraternities
Vote tonight
Students Invited
To Mass Meeting

Inter-fraternity Council members have asked all students to student mass meeting tonight at phi beta kappa hall and to decide the future of fraternities on this campus. Women are included in this invitation, according to frank davies, president of the council, because the question will affect them, too.

Speakers will bring the history of the fraternities up to date, to the present lodge, house problem. Each fraternity will be represented. "Red" wood (kappa alpha) and frank stevens (theta delta chi) are in charge of the program. The idea is to give a dis-sussion among the brothers and other campus organizations, ask to vote by ballot on the question.

"Should the fraternities abandon the lodge system, or disband permanently?"

On October 29, the council decided that this year there would have two choices, of accepting lodge or not becoming a fraternity member. They would accept the latter. Their reasons were, supposedly, by most of the campus people they had accepted the lodge system, fraternity members were not interested in the college's welfare. William and mary's publicity for tonight's meeting, and that this same policy of lodges would be "relinquishing a lodge system, or disband permanently." President john e.

Pan-Hel President Says Best Pastime Is Dancing

English Major, Donnie Lepper, Plunge Advertising Work After Graduation

Amid the last minute whirl of green and white streamers in preparation for the Mid-Winter Formal, petite, blond Donnie Lepper, in dancing gowns and plaid shirt, answered questions for her interviewer.

"Going to meetings is my chief pastime, but dancing is my favorite sport." Donnie is president of the Pan Hellenic Council, German Club, and member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. A native of New York state, Donnie has lived in many different places, from Akron to Singapore. Last year, as a senior, she was secretary-treasurer of her Student Council for 3 years and a member of the French Club and yearbook staff. An honor student, Donnie was also president of the Ushers Club and head cheerleader at Willamette and Mary. Donnie is secretary-treasurer of her freshman class, was Service Chairman of the War Council, and rose from secretary to president of the German Club. She is also a member of the General Cooperative Committee, International Relations Club, Student Dance Committee, and Interclub Council.

One of Donnie's greatest ambitions is to own a station wagon. "But I'll settle for a plain car; any old kind." Donnie confides that she's a bridge fand and always takes two for the living room of the Phi Psi house. Her favorite sports are tennis and swimming, and she loves shrimp and olives. However, ice cream doesn't appeal to her, and she's always looking for a "fourth" in her Chevy. Staying up late is another of her habits, and she's known to be wild. But, who disbelieve her for the purpose of studying. Donnie, who graduated in June, plans to go to New York City to go into the advertising field. "Of course, if I don't get into advertising, I'd like to be an airline stewardess," Donnie remarked. "And then, too, I want to get married some day, but—who knows?"

College Poetry Includes June Lechonou's 'Work of the Future'

In June Lechonour's 'Work of the Future,' the College Poetry will go into the advertising field. "Of course, if I don't get into advertising, I'd like to be an airline stewardess," Donnie remarked. "And then, too, I want to get married some day, but—who knows?"

Ryan Desires To Spread Hellenic Manner Of Life

Scholar Translates Four Greek Books

Ever since his boyhood days, Dr. George J. Ryan, associate professor of Ancient Languages, has been dominated by an ambition "to spread the Greek way of life" for Greek philosophy, "developing one's taste and sense of values," he feels, is the primary purpose of higher education.

This book-loving professor took his A.B. and M.A. at St. Louis University, and then studied abroad in Barcelona and Rome. When he returned from Europe, he completed his Ph.D. requirements at the University of Michigan.

He claims his most interesting experience was being appointed by the U. S. Navy to translate from Mediterranean sailing directions, compiled by the Greek government. For months afterwards, "I was scared stiff of hearing about some ship that had gone aground on some undescribed rock."

Recently Dr. Ryan published "Manuscripts of Athanasius," a fifth century writer. Losing the original manuscript on the Atlantic, he had to rewrite it entirely from his notes, a most provoking experience. As faculty advisor of the New Club and of Sigma Phi, he comes in close contact with the students. His sympathetic understanding and his boundless enthusiasm have popularized Greek civilization in the class room, and in the book room.

For once in the life of the character of his Lordship, there'll be no beginning paragraph. You're welcomed.

Virginia Assembly Acts Define Powers Of Board

Ten Visitors Govern Appointments, Hold Jurisdiction Over College Rules

"The grass hasn't been mowed in weeks. Why, the bell was ten minutes late today! The coke machine doesn't work anymore. I wonder if the students are feeling the same way," commented a student.

If most students were informed, Section 935 in the Assembly Acts defined the role of the ten Visitors. As specified by the 19th Amendment of the national Constitution, Section 935 in the Assembly Acts stating, "The Board shall control and expend the funds of the College and any appropriation hereinafter provided, and shall make all needful rules and regulations concerning the College. They shall appoint all other officers, teachers, and agents, and fix their salaries, and generally direct the affairs of the College." This last clause is the "power" clause, the simple bare hand clause that gives the board the greatest extendable powers over the affairs of the College. This clause actually permits changing affairs on campus, such as the judge's divorce protocol.

Inquiring Reporter

William and Mary will long revere the first post-war Mid-Winter Dance. Everyone agreed as its success, and had a ready answer to the Inquiring Reporter asked, "What incident about the dance is outstanding in your mind?"

Mary Ann Hook: All the people who seemed to be sitting on the floor.

Bobby Hughes: And he couldn't dance. Also, well, all that band music.

Lucy Joans: That nice long train.

Shane Magda: The photographs, or trying to take pictures from the top of the balcony.

Chet Mastikowh: The bright lights and the girls.

Jake Stevens: I can't remember.

Harry Wembly: Intermission, and Elia Kazan adapté on his big screen.

G. L. Gendelman: My date got in and out, and I couldn't get her. Pete Quynn: When Dick Baker jumped to pump the fake story balcony - he was just kidding. I think, I hope.

Evelyn Price: I met one of my old flames, stationed at Camp Peary.

Phyllis Stone: The Navy and Army, taking over.

Peter Jennings: I'll just remember the next morning.

At Webb Vacherhuubing for the first time in my life and got a buzz and run to the cool room.

Peter Jennings: All the dreamers coming down.

Charlotte Selden: Dedication of football court, and "Check-Off" was at that time. Member of Miss Hunt’s class, who will cast and direct the two plays.

Four Indians Gain All-State Honors

Mills and Chevinni Lead Mythical Virginia Squad

 Led by Denver Mills, a virtually unanimous choice of the Old Dominion coaches, William and Mary placed four men on the 1945 AP poll, tying the Virginia Cavaliers for the most All-Tourney positions.

Sharing honors with the Indians' ace end are Doc Holloway, guard, Knee Korczowski at one of the halfback slots, Mills, a likely candidate for the all-Conference eleven, and Lynn Chevinni, sparkling on the V. M. I. Keysides, were named co-captains of the AP teams for having polled the highest number of votes.

With the exception of Hank Walker, crack Virginia receiver, the Indians were the only ones on the teams to fight hard to any end in the State. Besides his pass-catching ability he was an outstanding backfielder, breaking through to stop opponents before they reached the line of scrimmage.

The high school recognition went to another of the bulwarks of the Tribe's forward wall, Doc Holloway. After serving with distinction in the armed forces, he has come back to his school and done a fine job of breaking through to stop opponents before they reach the line of scrimmage.

The Indians weren't overlooked in view of their achievements of his all-American backfielder, which game he has done an excellent job of breaking through to stop opponents before they reach the line of scrimmage.

Four Indians Gain All-State Honors

Mills and Chevinni Lead Mythical Virginia Squad

 Led by Denver Mills, a virtually unanimous choice of the Old Dominion coaches, William and Mary placed four men on the 1945 AP poll, tying the Virginia Cavaliers for the most All-Tourney positions.

Sharing honors with the Indians' ace end are Doc Holloway, guard, Knee Korczowski at one of the halfback slots, Mills, a likely candidate for the all-Conference eleven, and Lynn Chevinni, sparkling on the V. M. I. Keysides, were named co-captains of the AP teams for having polled the highest number of votes.

With the exception of Hank Walker, crack Virginia receiver, the Indians were the only ones on the teams to fight hard to any end in the State. Besides his pass-catch

The party was held on Friday evening, December 7, and was attended by a number of the college students. When the college crowd arrived, they were greeted with a “Ho Ho Ho” from the band and a “Thank You” from the band leader. The party lasted until late, and everyone had a good time. The band leader, Mr. Jones, was very pleased with the crowd and said he hoped they would come again.

Anne's enthusiasm for the field

The campus of the University of Michigan is the setting for a Christmas party.

In addition to actual experience, she believes that courses in statistics and the study of the field are very good right now for the students who have just completed their college requirements.

Work experience is necessary as a sound foundation for those expecting advancement.

She has a course in personnel management at William and Mary in her junior year. She believes that courses in statistics and the study of the field are very good right now for the students who have just completed their college requirements.

She stated that the future of Europe depends to a great extent upon whether or not sixteen students were initiated, and it is probable that the course will consist of liturgical music and popular music.

Enthusiasm vs. Vandalism

This editorial was written by the editor of the University of Richmond newspaper as a step towards better relations between the two institutions. It argued that the best way to deal with problems is to discuss and formulate certain recommendations concerning the matter. It pointed out that the best solution for the problem is to consider the possibilities and realize the seriousness of the matter and work together in successfully staging such a program. A group of student leaders from the campuses has been asked to consider the problem and discuss and formulate certain recommendations concerning the matter. Sunday Night Blues ‘Get’ Students After Week End

By BUDDY CANOLES and HARRY STINSON

We stated at the beginning of the year that we would attempt in our writing to deal with problems that confront the students here. Many of the problems are not confined to the student body of William and Mary alone. They confronted students of all creeds, nationalities, and color.

William & Mary Go-Round

By FRED FRECHETTE

Did you ever hear or read what an alumno has to say about his own days at college? You might well have done so, and then you might have begun to wonder why college life is such a contrast to the life you had before you came here. You might have wondered why things that never happen to you in school.

I'll bet that in a very few years, when you are "old grad," you will indulge in the same kind of talk with undergraduates. You will undoubtedly have to see the same students you have seen, and their fellow students. You know how they remain idle, and probably won't believe that things like that never happen to you in school.

Students Alter Week End

As a member of the administration and the privileged professor of more than two score of people, I wish you a happy holiday.

The holiday of Thanksgiving comes at the time for your return to the college. The Dean of the Faculty gives instructions to all of us that class hours are to be held till the bell rings, that no extension of the holiday at either end are granted except by direct permission of the dean of men or dean of women, that no exchanges of sections and class hours are permitted. Excuses for genuine emergencies, and no others will be accepted, and will be attended to individually. In case of illnesses attended to by a physician, bring a statement on your return.

So far this new system of absence probation instead of a fine has served well. May it continue.

"AN EX-JOE COLLEGE"

We stated at the beginning of the year that we would attempt in our writing to deal with problems that confront the students here. Many of the problems are not confined to the student body of William and Mary alone. They confronted students of all creeds, nationalities, and color.

WHY AM I HERE?

At this time we are especially aware of one of these problems, and we have yet to see any solution to it. We are speaking of that inevitable melancholy and why-it-here bitter feeling that grips everybody on Sunday night.

Abou last Thursday these same people were feeling first-rate and ready to go and have the big week end. Saturday night was glorious except for the vague, ominous feeling that the next night would be Sunday night. Why is it that one night in the week should bring such pain and suffering?

SUNDAY NIGHT SUDDIES

The password for Sunday goes something like this, "Have you done anything for tomorrow?" The almost certain answer is, "No, I haven't done a damn thing, but wasn't it a glorious week end?" That's our old situation, same old宝贝—same old college life, it was a nice week end, but we have the blues! We wake up Sunday morning, and consequently the Sunday night blues rate higher in their degree of somberness than the conventional Monday blues. If a poll were taken it probably would show that more students contemplate suicide on Sunday night than on any other night in the week.

The chief symptoms of the Sunday night blues is a guilty conscience. On this night the student begins to realize college was instituted primarily as a means for obtaining an education. Thoughts go back to his college days, "Did I ever study any? Did I ever do anything for tomorrow?" The almost certain answer is, "No, I didn't do anything for tomorrow..." But when you see how many who have studied and have done their work have met once and plan to meet again next week to discuss and formulate certain recommendations concerning the matter. The best solution for the problem is to consider the possibilities and realize the seriousness of the matter and work together in successfully staging such a program.
