Students Elect Cartwright As Government President

Bob Cartwright was elected president of the student body last Thursday, February 10, replacing C. Warren Smith, who graduated the previous month. George Fricke was chosen chairman of the Men’s Honor Council by its members.

Also elected were Don Davis and Joe Parker, senior assembly members; Bob Hendrich, sophomore; and Joe Parker, senior assembly member and George Haasscher, vice-president of the senior class.

Cartwright, who hailed from Norfolk, is a member of Robin-ama Fraternity, president of the Inter-Collegiate Chess Club, chairman of the junior representative to the Student Assembly, a member of the special events committee and the Inter-Fraternity Council.

“A strong student government depends on the backing from the student body,” said Cartwright. Cartwright further declared that he was working hard to present to the Student Assembly for a regular poll to be conducted among the students the specific opinions, gripes and aspirations of the student body.

“Another way to get a stronger student government is to get the backing of the student body by more cooperation,” I intended to give. “But that all they do is the best way he added. He has received many suggestions from various people. See ELECTIONS, Page II

Pomfret Suggests Band Receive $1500; Homecoming Parade To Be Voted On

In a report to the General Co- operate meeting last Thursday, Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, declared that he was recommending to the Board of Visitors that a maximum of $1500 be awarded to the band for capital improvements. The recommendation was passed by the committee. By this means, the committee hopes to encourage the student body is by their suggestions from various people.

At the request of McCurry, a discussion was held on the Homecoming parade. Organizations sponsoring floats in the parade last year were recognized. A request was made to allow students to vote on the participating groups. See CO-OP, Page 12

Antonio Stosa, noted Spanish violinist, and Kathleen Long, British pianist, will be the featured performers on Wednesday, February 22, at 8 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall as the third guest artists in the concert series.

This concert is open to all holders of season tickets, and general admission tickets may be obtained at the box office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the day of the concert. See CONCERT, Page 11

Knox College To Receive Dean Of College, July 1

Dr. Sharvey G. Umbeck, dean of the college, has resigned his position, which he assumed in 1938, to accept the presidency of Knox College, effective July 1.

“Dr. Umbeck joined the faculty in 1929 as assistant professor and rose rapidly to full professor and chairman of the department of modern languages during the period before he planned a work study to finance the education of young men to work their way through college. During the war Dr. Umbeck was in the Navy and administrative duties placed upon him. More recently, he has served as chairman and faculty personnel. In the position of Knox Umbeck with untiring energy has devoted himself to the rehabilitation of faculty personnel. This important work, under his leadership, is almost complete.”

Andre Michalopoulos Will Address College Audience On February 24

Andre Michalopoulos, consul member of the Greek War Cabinet in London and recently Greek Minister Plenipotentiary on a special mission to the United States, will discuss the Mediterranean: Battlefield of the Peace on Thursday, February 24, at 8 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Educated in his native Greece, at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales in Paris where he studied political economy, banking and finance, and at Oxford University where he received his Master’s degree, Michalopoulos was a civil governor in Greece at the age of 31. He left this post to become private secretary to Prime Minister Eleftherios Venizelos and accompanied him on an extensive tour of the United States, Canada and South America.

He then became a member of the Greek War Cabinet in London and recently served primarily as a director of various banking houses in London and recently Greek Minister Plenipotentiary on a special mission to the United States, will discuss the Mediterranean: Battlefield of the Peace on Thursday, February 24, at 8 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Top Theatre Roles

At the conclusion of the final try-outs last week end for Shakespeare’s Taming of the Shrew, Albin Hutt, director, announced a cast which will once again enable the William and Mary Theatre to put on four of their long list of successful productions.

This farce-comedy will be presented four nights in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium, March 18, 19, 20 and 21. Two nights will be reserved primarily for elementary and secondary schools in the vicinity of Williamsburg. Twenty dollars earned from the selling of the Shrew was produced when the theater opened. The cast features the college in their long list of successful productions.

Sammy Banks Offers Constructive Criticism

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

This letter is written to you and your staff with all due respect to your personalities and very cordially to your individualism. As far as I know everyone of you is a very nice person and very probable that you are all full of family and faithful American minds. I have no doubt that each other you all probably have a strong belief in the press and the production of our weekly campus publication. But, as so many things have happened in this school that end's accomplishments, it is my opinion that you all do (sic) the job. It is necessary (sic) that a little talent be combined for the job.

After last week's issue many of your columnists have sent into the world, certainly, a lot of their ideas are not worthwhile to the extensive public of the school. They must be combined, and if not, the others will be discarded. You may do the job and are among the few who will ultimately be able to tackle (sic) the job. That alone is a fault of the pressman and you are then to blame for not spotting these columns at the first glance. It is true that the individual's mind should be preserved at all times, but the students have a right to enjoy these things.

The error of omission in last week's publisher is that the staff did not take stock of who was responsible for the columns that appeared in the front page of the Flat Hat. It is only logical that the student government must have been responsible for the columns that appeared there. The students have no right to write columns which are of most interest to their school. The student government has this responsibility and should be held fully responsible for the columns that appeared there.

Time To Care

The stock of letters which we have received in answer to last week's editorial indicates that a large number of students do care, in one way or another, about the current condition of our college. We are well aware of the fact that there are many students who have led very sheltered lives, and have no knowledge of the conditions which exist around them. We disagree with Mr. Finkler's view that we can get along without student government. We cannot picture an unorganized group of some 1900 students toorging in and out of administrative offices, or attending meetings of the student government. This is not a way to run a college. Student government was not instituted at Williams and Mary to train its members in democracy or to enable a privileged few to make matters right. Student government is for the general good of all the students of the college. It is a body which the administration would have to consider before taking any action. An efficient and aggressive student body, would be a power which the administration could hardly afford to neglect.

We disagree with Mr. Finkler's view that student government is an ineffective playing that and real power is held firmly in the hands of the administrative officers and the faculty. We do not believe that the majority of the students of the college have been overlooked, as, for example, in the case of the nonsmoking regulation. We do feel, however, that a well-educated, efficient officer body, combined with an active and aggressive student body, would be a power which the administration would have to consider. The administrative action is taken arbitrarily only if no one cares enough to pursue through the channels of student government.

We are of the opinion that the students seek to utilize it and its officers stay on the job. If the majority of the students agree with Henry Finkler, the time has come to go for a little more. If they disagree, the time has come for them to come up with a better plan.

J. L. F.

What Is This Thing Called King?

Every week I get an average of eight to ten letters from readers of this paper. There are so few cards or envelopes for the mail which contains the most cards or envelopes that I am sure the mail is not being delivered. This is probably due to the fact that many students probably do not care what your paper looks like, but rather what your paper says. We have a vested interest in how this college is run. We, the students of this college, hold firmly in our hands the administrative officers and the faculty. It is their responsibility to bring them to the attention of the administrative officers and the faculty.

To the Editor:

"Who Cares?" could not have been more appropriately titled. The answer is, obviously, "nobody." By all means Mr. Rudisill; but since I haven't, I must adopt the garb of importance? I don't know. My guess is that since most every other college has a "self-governing" set-up we, too, must have one, if only to prevent embarrassment for the lack of it. If at other colleges the students actually do some significant governing, they don't like it and fire professors or elect the board of Trustees and in the process certain credits which the reviewer had previously seen fit to bellow were omitted. Since it is an ignoble fate to become merely a face on the cutting-room floor, I resolved hence to make amends and rescue from that undeserved oblivion Roger Bloomer (whose beautifully stylized Bob-balineau set contributed greatly to the success of the production), David Friedman, Fred Ecketts, and Dick Richials (all thoroughly competent in large supporting roles) and that harry quaintly composed of Messrs. Richards, Pinckan, De en snw Plano, Hall, and Neil Wannace whose performance of several 18th century drinking songs was an event in itself. The reviewer has been informed by an anonymous member of the crew that he owns an apology to Allen Bensei, stage manager. By all means Mr. Rudisill, please don't be angry with the reviewer. We don't know any better. You've done it and I'm glad I've don't it! Sincerely,

An Indignant Reviewer

The Flatsman's Review of The Candidates appeared in somewhat altered form. Limited space or one of the exigencies of getting a newspaper together required the editors to delete a final portion of that review, and it is in the process of certain credits which the reviewer had previously seen fit to bellow were omitted. Since it is an ignoble fate to become merely a face on the cutting-room floor, I resolved hence to make amends and rescue from that undeserved oblivion Roger Bloomer (whose beautifully stylized Bob-balineau set contributed greatly to the success of the production), David Friedman, Fred Ecketts, and Dick Richials (all thoroughly competent in large supporting roles) and that harry quaintly composed of Messrs. The editorial entitled "Who Cares?" has drawn much comment pro and con. I think that it may interest all of our readers to see how the treatment was received by several individuals both in student government offices and out. I think that perhaps they do care and regret having let their interest slide. The editorial was not merely an attack on certain individuals only but, rather, an attack on each and every individual enrolled in this institution. That Miss Felix had the courage to use individuals to awaken that "apathy" and open herself to attack should be commended. The very fact that the article has caused much comment is proof enough of its success. I think that it will prove to be a great stimulus in a revived interest and vitality among the new and old, student government offices and, what is more important among the student body as a whole.

Sincerely,
Robert R. Cartwright,
President of the Student Body

To the Editor:

I was happy to read in the latest issue of the Flatsman that William and Mary is to have a new victory statue. Indeed, it was only after careful scrutiny of the paper that I found the announcement to that effect buried in an obscure corner. This, of course, is of vital importance to the student's heart as a new song should be more than casually introduced into the midst of the distinguished speaker.

Sincerely,
Robert W. Conkary

U W F Members Hear Drs. Guy Fowler Speak

By Bruce Robinson

Dr. William G. Guy, chancellor of the university, and Dr. Harold Leo Fowler, professor of history, addressed an overflow audience of student union members Thursday night under the sponsorship of the U W F and Delta Chi chapter of United World Federa-tors.

Dr. Guy, in his opening remark, explained that the purpose of his lecture was to give the way in which a future war would be different from those in the past. Calling July 16, 1945, the hour of the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima, he compared the German war fatalities with the number of casualties at Hiroshima.

Garrett Sager

Explanations of the scientific workings of the bomb, one of which is equal to 20,000 tons of TNT, and the way in which different rays were used to build the bomb, the word has operated on a hands of the unscrupulous, atomic problems never before will give to mankind advantages this atomic problem, however, will fall to the eon enormously.

For 300 years, Dr. Fowler noted, this period in man's history, was a Utopia at present, is not out of the realm of possibility, bring his address to a close.

The next war will probably come before the job is done. Nevertheless it is essential that we keep the ideal before us.

Chapel Audience
To Hear Address
By Norfolk Rabbi

Tomorrow's visiting chapel speaker will be Rabbi Leib K. Helff, from Norfolk. His topic, "We Must Create a Super Organization," will be discussed in the Dodge Room immediately following the services, to be held at 2:36 in Wren Chapel.

Dr. Andrew C. Hulpf, associate professor of fine arts, advised that few of us really believe in the Lord's Supper, and that His holiness is distorted toward an end, but to be fulfilled must be directed toward the right end.

There are many who believe in a false god, who believe that one who is truly humble will offend, but with humble gratitude for the fruits which he has given to us.

As Subject For Programs

club selected 15th Century American Life as its theme for this year. According to Saunders, he feels that does what he likes.

Williams and Mary, became a part of Saunders' life in January, 1943, since he had no definite problems. "It is a short-lived career in football," he said.

The topic of the club's last gathering was "The Architecture of the 18th Century." In keeping with the theme of the presentation, the program was brought to a close with music and refreshments which would have been found in that period of history.

An effort is being made to be a part of the National Home Economics Association, the students of Saunders' group, he said.

Tribe Courtmen Trip Richmond, Roanoke As Giermaks Shatter State Scoring Mark

William and Mary's rampaging basketball team notched victory number 20 of the season, clinched itself a spot in the seasonal conference tourney, virtually assured itself of at least a share in the state crown, and Captain Chem Giermak set a new all-time state scoring record—all while the Indians beat University of Richmond and Roanoke College last week.

Richmond blew into town Wednesday afternoon intent on upsetting the favored Indians. Wednesday night brought havoc with those intentions up the Roa.

Kovaleski Beaten in Indoor Finals

William and Mary's nationally renowned tennis group, Fred Kovaleski, was one of the finalists in the Michigan State Indoor Tennis Championship, held February 5-6 in Detroit. The popular Indian star was upset by the national indoor junior champion, Tony Trumbull, 5-7, 6-8, in his defense of the title, which he won in 1946. Trumbull was leading the championships for the second straight year.

Kovaleski commented, "Trumbull played very well, winning the match by his fine play at the net." The originally planned doubles matches were cancelled due to lack of time.

Howe Atwater, number two on the Indian team, also played in the tourney, winning in the first round, but having to leave before the second round could be played.

Their arch-rivals, Coach Mac Pipp's Spiders led off with a three-man win designed to halt Giermak's ball-handling. Indian guards Jere Bunting and Fuzz McKeen proceeded to pay them up from outside and after minutes of play the locals were leading, 16-4, with Giermak still completely spotless.

The Indians went on to man-to-man defensive tactics at that point and managed to give the Indians a ball game with few up against the Blue Phantoms.

Stephenson Stars

Shortly after the half-hour mark, Stephenson, marking Freshman from Newport News who won in 17 points and Jim Fittenfield, feisty center from Longwood, carried the brunt of a rally that whipped the W&M lead to a mere five points.

Giermak, who had led up 16 points in the first half, found himself in another corner of the basket, accounting for 20 points for the opposition, and the offense backed into itself. His fourth point of the game shattered the existing state scoring mark for a single season.

McKeen produced 14, Bunting 11, and Bob Holley nine tallies during the contest, while Charlie Sokol, who set up a good many points, made in basket ball, track, handball, softball, swimming and the free throw tournament.

The figure released by the intramural department this week shows that at the halfway point, Pi KA with 137 points, Sigma Phi last year's champions, with 251 points, and SAE, which came in second last year, with 204 points are leading the race for the intramural championship.

The anticipated Monday night clash between the Indians and the classy Washington and Lee Generals is the key contest of the week. Both teams have won two victories over the much-publicized Virginia Cavaliers, and are now ready to end the strong West Point team, and decamp for the East.

And Fred Kovaleski looked strong in the tourney at Detroit during period between sessions. Given adequate practice, the Indian swinger is one of the hottest indoor players in the country.
Tracksters Drill
As Warm Weather Gives Cooperation

The varsity track squad has opened its season following a well-organized practice, working outside as often as possible. The famed Williamsonburg weather could have made it impossible to practice, but everything is in perfect shape for this year's campaign. Practice is going on in earnest in preparation for one of the toughest schedules ever undertaken by a Williamsburg track team.

Thirty-five enthusiastic trackmen are working out at present. Among them are several veterans of last year's squad, who have been training for several weeks. The spring training is going on in earnest to get the team into shape for the upcoming season.

The team will compete in the upcoming track meet, which is scheduled for the weekend. The meet will feature some of the best teams in the country, and the Williamsburg team is expected to perform well.

The meet will be held at the college track and field, and will attract a large audience. The weather is expected to be clear and sunny, making it an ideal day for outdoor track and field events.

The meet will feature a variety of events, including the 100-meter dash, the 200-meter dash, the 400-meter dash, the 800-meter run, the 1500-meter run, the 3000-meter steeplechase, the 5000-meter run, the 10000-meter race, the long jump, the triple jump, the high jump, the pole vault, the撑杆跳和铅球。There will also be relay races.

The meet will be an exciting event, with top athletes from colleges and universities across the country competing against each other. The Williamsburg track team will be looking to make a strong showing and perhaps even win some events.

The meet will be held on Saturday, May 21st, and will start at 10AM. Admission is free for all spectators. Come out and support your Williamsburg track team as they compete for glory!

McCray Appoints Five Graduating Indians To Assist With Spring Training Program

Working under the idea that production of good coaches is important as well as the production of good football teams, Coach R. M. (Rube) McCray of the Indian grid team has appointed several of his players who have used up their eligibility to assist him in spring training this year.

All of these young men plan to enter the coaching profession, and they will be able to obtain experience here that will be invaluable to them when they leave school.

These appointed are Tommy Thompson, Knox Ramsey, Harry Blair, Len Hedin and Harry (Red) Caughron. All these men have played under McCray in recent years, with all but Ramsey finishing their playing days January 1 in the Delta Bowl classic in Memphis. Ramsey played pro football for the Los Angeles Dons last season.

Hedin is working on a master's degree, while the rest are undergraduates.

- These men will be able to offer a great amount of assistance to the Indian coaching staff, explained somewhat by the loss of line coach Marvin Bass. Caughron, Reiter, Ramsey and Thompson are all experienced and will coach aspirants for their particular positions.

- Incidentally, most of the newly appointed men will be coaching men to fill spots they vacated last season—all except Ramsey, who finished a year earlier.

- These men have played outstanding college football during the past few seasons, and will have a large store of experiences to draw on from this particular angle.

- The appointment of men who had previously played for William and Mary to the coaching staffs has been immensely successful in the past few years. Glenn Knox, Bass and Al Vandenbogue all are W&M products and all did outstanding jobs as members of the W&M coaching staff.

Tribe Will Open Against Houston

The William and Mary football Indians will open their 1949 schedule with the University of Houston at Houston, Tex., on September 17. The game with Houston rounds out a 4-game slate for the Reapers.

12 Men Lost By Graduation

One of the main objectives of the six-week spring training program of the William and Mary football team, which got underway yesterday, will be the replacement of the five men who have used up their eligibility and will not be available in the fall.

About 60 games will participate in the drills, which will last six weeks. The maximum period allowed under Southern Conference regulations, both spring and fall schedules will be such lengths as center Tommy Thompson, 1949 co-captain, will call the shots.

Others who will be missing include Moe Kish, Ralph Hendrix, Harry Wensing, Chauncey Black and Jack Bruce.

- Several big "ifs" hang over the team. Two of the most important are Baby Lex and Xavier Williams, both of whom were injured during the 1948 campaign and underwent knee operations at the close of the fall season. These two likely starters have been kept well and should start limited work "off to the side," but it will be impossible to tell much about their condition until they are in shape and in action.

- One of the Reapers has been Louis Alphonso, who did not play during 1948 because of injuries, but is expected to be in good shape from the start.

- Coach McCray and his staff of assistant coaches will have a good opportunity to try new combinations of plans and schemes with an effort to arrive at the most effective line-up. Unusual weather conditions and "cold" weather will force change and in the final analysis may cause the Reapers to move back to the heat of the spring sun to give a clearer view of their movements.
By Hugh Moore

The William and Mary freshman basketball team will lay its undefeated home record on the firing line tonight at 8 against the boys of Norfolk Division.

When the Papooses take the floor against their down-river brethren they will be attempting to extend their No. 1 season winning streak to 14 games. Yes, at long last, William and Mary's first post-war freshman club will be attempting to stifle a team from Norfolk Division.

Tonight it's back to the real road. For the fourth time this season Strokkor will be facing the critical city. This time it is to Grey's Armory for a shot at Marshall High's defending State Group I championship.

The Papooses may have slipped at the end of the regular season against Delta College, but tonight they can't afford to lose if they want to continue their blowout and win the State Group I championship in the upcoming post-season competition.

Next Tuesday the first-year men wind up their season with their second home game, this one against University of Richmond. The Holly Spiders howled, 60-45, in the previous meeting between the two clubs in Richmond.

Speaker Decision Roanoke Women

The women's varsity basketball team started the ball rolling Saturday afternoon, February 1, at Jefferson Gym, defeating the crack women's basketball team of Roanoke College by a score of 38-14.

The William and Mary girls looked very good in this encounter with speedy Ann Huffman (scoring her team's first 11 tallies at following close behind her was Juanita Pomeroy, who sank two points into the net. "B.B." Stevens played an excellent game and tossed six points through the hoop before being felled out. Nancy Alexander also accurately hit the meshes for six scores for the winners.

Leading the Roanoke girls in high scoring honors was Oliver, a small but speedy forward, who sank eight points off the backboard for her team. The losers executed some excellent passes and proved themselves to be able competition for any college team.

Campus Cadets, Laff 'n Learn

"Is there a varsity women's basketball team?" A good question and one that is easily answered, in words of one syllable as a matter of fact. "Yes!" But apparently there are very few students who are aware of it, as evidenced by the attendance, or the lack of same, at the games played thus far this season.

It cannot help but be discouraging to those players to play before a cheering, wildly enthusiastic mob of fifteen or twenty spectators. Counting the bands and at the Roanoke College game, we figured there were seventeen watchers in the balcony of the gym. Half of these were the usual wanderers who happened in, and then happened out after a minute or two.

This year, the varsity team looks better than it has in some years. The freshman class supplies the majority of the talent and there is no reason why William and Mary should not have excellent representation in the female basketball world for the next four years. But it is an extreme external, judging from past experience, that any of this year's roster will continue playing on the varsity squad in subsequent seasons. And perhaps one of the main reasons for this rather disappointing situation is the lack of interest on the part of the student body as a whole in women's varsity sports.

Stuille Tillett, one of the most outstanding athletes of the freshman class, has led these sacred precincts for Temple University, transferring there this month. In the short span of three months, Stuille managed to pile up an enviable record in intramural and varsity sports. She captained the varsity hockey squad, being awarded a monogram for this effort in January. Stuille was also a member of the Jefferson swimming team which took second place in the intramural competition. As one of the all big reasons for Jefferson being the basketball title holders down, Stuille started one of the guard positions for her term.
Workmen Uncover Ancient Fossils At Dunbar During Excavation Job

Bones of a whale believed to be between 10 and 20 million years old were discovered near here last week. The fossil was found at Dunbar, future home of Eastern State Hospital, by workmen of the J. C. Perrin Construction Company.

The bones of the whale are well preserved, owing to the probable replacement of the bone tissue by iron salts, according to Walter Sheppe of the college's biology department. Sheppe also stated that there was a possibility that the whale is upwards of 140 million years old but he believes the age to be between 10 and 20 million years.

All of the remains are brown in color probably owing to their iron content. Pieces of the spinal column measure seven inches in diameter and nine in length. Rib fragments are one and one-half inches thick.

Shells surround Area

Thousands of seashells inhabited clams, oysters and conches surround the area in which the bones were found. It is claimed that this proves that the entire vicinity was under a body of water at one time.

The find was made 25 feet below the ground surface where red clay noticeably changes to a brown color due to iron salts, according to Walter Sheppe of the college's biology department.

Leach To Hold Readings For Varsity Show Friday

The initial reading of the script for the 1949 Varsity Show has been announced for 6:30 on Friday night, February 18, in the Apollo Room, Willard Leach, director for the Pick-O-Club presentation announced today.

"All interested performers are required to attend, and members of the business staff are also invited. From 6:30 to 7:30 the entire musical score will be presented for the first time, and immediately following readings will be announced and registered," Leach declared.

Vann Rhodes, technical director and designer for the 1949 show, has nearly completed floor plans for the forthcoming production. Construction of the sets called for by the show will start almost immediately, the director said. All of the various technical committees will meet within the next two weeks," Rhodes declared. "I should like all members of the technical staff to attend at least the early portion of Friday's opening rehearsal. More important announcements may be made then."

Delores Peck, chairman of the costume committee, has announced a meeting of her group for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Washington Club.

Dance Rehearsals

Dance rehearsals have been underway for the last several weeks under the direction of Jean Munson, director of the 1949 Varsity Show, and Mary Dayton, assistant dance director. "While these rehearsals are primarily for the cast of the show, they are also declared, "Members of the cast should also plan to attend, since dances are based almost entirely on what will be called upon during the show.""

"All members of the cast and staff, Leach added, "should check the bulletin board in Ph" Beta Kappa Hall under the notice that we are underway. Everyone should plan to check the bulletin board this week before Friday's opening rehearsal concerning the reading of scripts for the meeting.

Openings

Bill Harper, producer for the 1949 Varsity Show, stated today that there are still several openings remaining for the first half of the Backdrop Club musical. "Anyone who can play any sort of instrument who would like to play in the orchestra for the show should contact Mr. St. Julian," he advised. At least 12 members of the show will attend the meeting of the club scheduled for Friday at 8:30 in the Apollo Room. Arrangements will be made for try-outs. We are especially in need of violinists, viola, and violas. There is no set time at this time for musical comedy," Harper added, "for we have a script, a story by Jay Henritze, that four more are needed to complete the cast for the 1949 show. They will be auditioned at the weekend."

Freshman Club will hold the Friday meeting. Dancers need already be Backdrop Club members. "All dances are to be paid immediately to Jobi Hendee, treasurer," Harper concluded.

GI Insurance Nears Expiration, VA Warns

GI term insurance is approaching expiration dates for an increasing number of veterans, particularly those who went into service after the first three National Guard units and the first Selective Service units were called to domestic service.

VA explained that these veteran intuitions must take actions in order to keep their National Security Life insurance in force. Expiration of their GI term insurance may be renewed for a new five-year term or converted to a permanent plan.

Original term insurance taken out prior to the beginning of the period in 1945 may be revised if the veteran wishes to do so. The period of time before the official insurance in force in 1941. Some of these contracts are entire.

VA will attempt to notify these veterans of their options, but VA contracts expire. If the veteran does not act within the prescribed time, the policy will be automatically converted to a permanent policy.

Students Will Give Recital To Exhibit Musical Talent

Student's talent will be presented in a recital entitled "The Flat Hat" which will be held next Sunday, February 20, at 3 p.m. in the Apollo Room. According to Dr. Andrew C. Haigh, associate professor of fine arts, the recital will be presented by the pupils of Dr. Laflin, professor of fine arts, and Mr. Ralston, assistant professor of fine arts. The recital will be presented by the pupils of Dr. Laflin, professor of fine arts, and Mr. Ralston, assistant professor of fine arts.

Williamsburg Restores Square Dancing

By Mary Lou Hostetter

The chance to saunter and swing your partner comes again to Will­lamsburg for the second time this semester. The reason? You can't beat the real dancing, Smith stated, "for the campus." Smith stated, "for the campus," fur­thermore, "if the fad which is sweeping the nation will also hit Williamsburg, Virginia will be extended to our campus." Smith added, "this fall, 100 girls and 11 boys are signed up for in­ternational square dance program." Smith concluded, "the fact is that by the end of the evening you know everyone else there since you have danced with them all at sometime or other."

Dr. Paolo Treves, Independent Socialist, Lectures On Political Struggles In Italy

Dr. Paolo Treves, speaking in the Reliance Room Friday evening, found in Williamsburg "a boundless vigilance and energy" in the middle of a struggle for democracy in Italy.

A member of the Independent Socialist party and Vice-President of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, Dr. Treves spoke on Italian political parties and their recent developments. He described Italy's multi-party system to the fact that Italy does not have the kind of people who love to talk and argue among themselves. He went on to describe the difficulties involved in reviving the various parties after 20 years of Fascist repressions. "I think we have done a job which does not deserve a completely negative judgment. I think I can say that Italy is a democracy again," Dr. Treves declared.

The talk centered on understanding Italian political parties in the context of the 1944 present coalition government is composed of those groups which excluded. The Christian Democrats, headed by Vice-Prime Minister Saragat, the Socialists, whom Dr. Treves described as "a junior branch of the communist party," the Left Wing Socialists, and the Communist party were all included. The government consists of the Christian Democrats as a non-socialist partner, the Socialists, and the Communists as directed by the Soviet Union. "The communists still active," Dr. Treves said, "are trying to make a solid block against all totalitarian parts, including the last non-communist remnants of Fascism." He declared that although the aliens had succeeded in rebuilding a democratic government, it was still their job to make it work. "Democracy and freedom are not safe anywhere unless they are "as everywhere," he concluded.

As the aim for his own party, Dr. Treves gave the saving for the Italian working class of a "true democracy," the Independent Socialists find their objective in the old Socialist traditions but broke with the Socialists two and a half years ago, because they felt the party was being run by the communists. Of the coalition government, Dr. Treves said, "We are trying to make a solid block against all totalitarian party" and the last non-communist remnants of Fascism. He declared that although they had succeeded in rebuilding a democratic government, it was still their job to make it work. "Democracy and freedom are not safe anywhere unless they are "as everywhere," he concluded.

Italians have welcomed the new government, and are fighting communism in Italy. As the enemies for communism in the history of the country, the best means to combat the communists are to raise the economic, social and political standards of the Italian people. "You have a right to know how we are using the Marshall Plan," Dr. Treves said and declared that it was being used for its real purpose, raising the standard of living and preserving freedom and democracy.

Dr. Treves went on to describe the difficulties involved in reviving the various parties after 20 years of Fascist repressions. "I think we have done a job which does not deserve a completely negative judgment. I think I can say that Italy is a democracy again," Dr. Treves declared.
