College Refuses Holiday Extension

Replying to a General Co- operating letter expressing the extension of the Christmas holiday, Dr. Marshall, president of the college, announced today that the policy of the annual vacation schedule would be impractical.

Dr. Marshall stated that the col lege will hold classes on December 17 and 18, and will reopen school on January 4. This year's Christmas vacation will extend over eight days, and in the past two years the college has observed a two-week holiday.

The president said that he felt that the college could not consider a longer vacation, in view of the demands of the curriculum.

Possibility

The only possibility to extend the Christmas holiday is the final decision of the board of trustees on January 13. This body will meet in the interest of extending the vacation.

Procession

The annual procession to the Christmas market will be held at 11 a.m. on December 17. The procession will be followed by the annual Christmas market, which will open at 10 a.m.

Preparations

The dean revealed that the annual procession is one of the most important events of the year. The college is scheduled to open on January 4, and the procession will be held at 11 a.m. on the day before the opening of the new semester.

The dean said that the procession is an important part of the college's tradition. The processional song is one of the college's most popular songs, and the procession is a time of great excitement and anticipation.

The dean also mentioned that the procession is an opportunity for students to show their school spirit and pride. The students are encouraged to wear school colors and to participate in the procession.

The dean concluded by expressing his excitement for the upcoming holiday season, and he wished everyone a happy and safe holiday.

Freshmen And Juniors

Will Vote Tomorrow

Freshmen and junior candidates campaigning during the home stretch of this week and had its climax tonight with a final and furious burst of activity. Followers of the freshmen campaign were in the Phi Beta Kappa Amphitheater between 12 noon and 6 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Freshmen will have to choose between Barton Hellmuth of That College, who was endorsed by the Oldie Party and Bob Schauf of the Friendly Party for Freshmen and Juniors.

Candidate List

Running for president of the freshmen class are Harry B. Guill, John P. Huggins, Bob Myers and Jim Rehlaender. Bill Schumer, who comes to William and Mary from Alexandria, is planning to go into law.

Student Directories

Will Go On Sale

Nicky Dillard, president of the Student Council, announced that student directories will go on sale for $2 on Friday. The directories are broken down into small and large caffeteria.

The directories are broken down into small and large caffeteria. The small caffeteria includes theIslin cafetera, which also sells milk and eggs. The large caffeteria includes the Student Center, which also sells milk and eggs.

"For many years it has been felt that there should be a student directory and this year it is being published by the Student Council. For convenience in future years it will depend upon the volume of sales. Nicky said that the Student Council will buy their directories while they are on sale, but if the number of copies is limited they will be available. However, the directories will be placed in the reasonably short time if demand warrants a repeat printing.

Honor Is Indivisible

We, as students, need to seriously consider the implications of the "Student Loyalty Committee" that was disbanded last year, which removes the threat to report a violation from the list of offenses that are categorically punishable by the Student Assembly. This committee, while it may not be perfect, is necessary to maintain the integrity of our student government.

The student government has a responsibility to maintain the honor and integrity of our institution. The existence of the "Student Loyalty Committee" serves to deter students from engaging in misconduct and to uphold the values of our community.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Of the many traditional grievances I have against the operation of our student government, none is more worrisome than the fact that the Student Assembly has disbanded the "Student Loyalty Committee." For many years, this committee has served as a vital mechanism for ensuring the integrity of our student body, and its dissolution will leave a significant gap in our oversight of student behavior.

The Student Assembly has a duty to maintain the integrity of our student body and to ensure that our institution is held to the highest standards of honor and integrity. The "Student Loyalty Committee" was a critical component of this effort, and its dissolution will leave a void that must be filled.

Sincerely,
[Name]

Dear Sir:

You too, Techman.

Dear Eddie Fry:

I am writing a vendetta with a laundry lady. I am normally as peaceful as a March hare in their annual hoopla, but I insist that a case stand for itself. It all started when I bought four arrow shirts for the bargain price of $2.00 per shirt. With some shrewdness, I was able to get the lady to square away four shirts instead of three.

I ended up with a vendetta with a laundry lady. They evidently boiled the shirts in a big pot of hot water, for I now wear the collars open (halfway to my ear) and I have to tuck the shirt in. The lady was ready to go to war. She said, "We don't wash arrow shirts here."

Dear Sir:

I read with interest the article in which the students requested that the student government do something about the honor system.

Since it is now considered correct student gripes seemingly doesn't work here. I am having a vendetta with a local laundry.

Dear Sir:

The Student Assembly has the power to abolish the "Student Loyalty Committee." No member has denied that name, and a few independents were included.

We believe that a strong honor system can exist only if it rests on the essence that all honor is indivisible. This belief has been implicit in word and in spirit of our student government, and the only penalty for violation should be expulsion.

The most amazing question of all is the silence with something resembling a "Student Loyalty Committee." No member has denied that name, and a few independents were included. In preparation for what is hoped will be a more successful season than last year’s, the Indian swimming team has been held up for work since the beginning of the school year. Chosen last week to lead the freshmen team to this meet lend the taskmaster who was John Sterke, also captain last year.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Howard Smith, the team has been working on starts, relays, kicking, pulling and various conditioning exercises and seems to be gradually rounding into shape. Eleven men are scheduled for this year’s team, among whom such veteran swimmers as will be C.P., W. M., and C.P. are expected to provide the backbone of the team, with the freshmen runners who will likely complete the annual classic.

In addition, the lower half of the tribe will be greatly improved from last year’s team. Some of the most important developments are expected in the meet with Quantico, Macon harriers. Freshmen John Connors is especially adept at pass blocking, and the other of the many new faces. Coach Smith will have to turn to the freshmen runners who will provide the backbone of the team, with the freshmen runners who will likely complete the annual classic.

Interest In Cross-Country Created By Walkie Talkie Mile-By-Mile Report

A valuable instrument during the war was of great help to the Infantry forces of Uncle Sam. He turned up in a novel and unusual role. The well-known walkie talkie, backbone of communication between small groups, may be the runner of collegiate cross-country, the sport with the least of official interest of any sport.

But the close friends and families of the runners were always attending a cross-country meet—a sport that is growing and unqueried. The reason is that the runners start at six-thirty and they start off down the road or across fields for upwards of three miles. There is little for the spectators to do except start a game of bridge or talk to each other until the runners return some 25 to 30 minutes later.

But all this has changed, and Williams and Mary can claim the distinction of being one of the pioneers in this station. The idea was borrowed from the Quanick Marines, who used the field budget for the Telegraphers over the course at Quanick.

A week ago, when the Redmen were hosts to the N. C. State harriers, the Papooses, 27-28, upheld their honor, nosing out the Triangle. In a nip and tuck scramble, the varsitymen Bob (Bullet) Lawson. Pierce is to be congratulated for his fine leadership. The cheerleaders are to be congratulated. And the students are to be congratulated. Let's not let this enthusiasm die out just because the game is over. There are other games that can be won or lost by the students in the stands. The team can prepare plays and a defense, but no one but the students can give them the desire to win, and confidence that we want them to win. The Indian team of last Saturday was a great team. Let's keep it that way with the support that it deserves.

Indian Of The Week

In view of the outstanding performances turned in by so many of the Indians in Saturday's conflict with the Tarheels, the Flat Hat's Indian of the Week is not one man, but the entire Tribe football team.

With everyone giving perhaps the best performance of the year individually, and definitely the best of the year as a unit, the selection of one player would surely slight the others who had done so well. The work of Lee, Cloud, Lewis, Yewett, Weber, Howren, Doreau, Magdaik, O'Pella and Mark in the backfield was nothing but fine. Every man did his best and looked like a champion. The bulldozing W&M line, spearheaded by Crum, Gehlmann, Hughes, McDowell and Getter and aided immensely by Kirk, Lake, Lane, Zupko, Floyd, Mogale and Baker came through in heroic fashion, playing for the first time the way that had been predicted for them. Vitb Ragazzo again showed his greatness on the flank, and Heflin, Bates and Wilson gave able support. Defensive ends Goodlpw and Smith put in an afternoon of terrific play. Centers Sonny Davis and Filer were unyielding middle-men.

A team that played as the Indians did on Saturday did not deserve to lose. The alertness on all sides, the blocking, tackling and ball carrying was that of a great team. In the minds of the W&M boosters, the Tribe was not outplayed or beaten Saturday, merely outscored.

Weather Holds Back Fraternity Loop

Pi KA-SAE Clash Postponed By Mud; Sigma Rho Closes In On Grid Crown

Seven games were played in the fraternity league this week and seven more were postponed because of heavy rains and an unplayable field. These postponements, the first of the year, may push back the date for the termination of the fraternity season by an entire week.

The league leader, Sigma Rho, had two games canceled, while playing one with Pi Lambda Phi. In this game they moved one step closer to what seems to be an inevitable championship. Led by their always dependable tailback, Paul Webb, and the glue-fingered ends, Jay Groves and Ken Schleicher, Sigma Rho ran roughshod over tenth place Pi Lambda, 42 to 6. Their two postponed games with Lambda Chi Alpha and Phi Tau have been re-scheduled for next week.

The eagerly awaited battle between SAE and Pi KA for second place, and conceivably a chance for the title, also received an unforeseen postponement from the very un-cooperative weather and will have to be replayed. At the end of the week these two teams remained as the second and third place, neither having taken the field.

Pi KA-SAE Clash Postponed! By Mud

The eagerly awaited battle between Pi KA-SAE and Sigma Rho in the football championship will have to be replayed. At the very un-cooperative weather and place, and conceivably a chance scheduled for next week.

Kappa Sigma battled league leaders Sigma Rho, 42 to 0. Their two postponed games were with Lambda Chi Alpha and Phi Tau, who have been re-scheduled for next week.

Both Pi Lambda and Pi Lambda Phi, who played three games this week, the former winning its only two and the latter dropping all three games of the year while losing one and the latter dropping two of the three games of the year. Pi Lambda Phi dropped a close one to Kappa Sigma, 12 to 12. All of Kappa Sigma's points came on two touchdowns by the connecting Ed Spencer, who virtually passed Pi Lambda, dizzying and end Ed Spencer three times for scores and Jim Kelly once, Phi Tau won their fourth victory of the year against only one defeat. Phi Tau made five victories on Friday at the ever present Rambacher toed for two touchdowns and ran for still a third in leading his fraternity to an 18 to 6 win over Phi Delta. Ed Spencer again was on the receiving end of the touch-down passer.

In the week's other battle, Lambda Chi fought Kappa Alpha, 24 to 6. Lambda Chi's extremely fast field on Wednesday. The other postponed games were between Kappa and Kappa Lambda, Sad and Kappa Rho, and Phi Alpha and Sigma Phi.

Squaws Break Even

Traveling to Westminster for a rain-soaked week-end Virginia Tech football tournament, the Squaws split with a 7-0 trimming from Sweet Briar Friday and a 4-0 victory over the Petersburg Club Saturday afternoon. Presently, the team over won Hotspurs, 4-2, last weekend in Richmond, and now Sunday in Westminster, 4-0.

Rebounding the next day, the Squaws came out from being a group of good individual players SAE and Kappa men won as a team for the first time this season. Good positioning, balance, and skill in all three phases of the game half won the ball for the Squaws, who brought their 1-3 lead to the final 4-0.

Macklin Field, where the Tribe will face Michigan State this week, has a capacity of over 50,000 persons.

Fristoe Flips Clinch Independent Pennant

Swept and markedly playing Pi Lambda prevented all but one of the Independent League games, with the result that the scheduled second round of games between the clubs has been cancelled.

The Fristoe Flips, with an un-paralleled record as champions of the league, will play the College, September 1 in a 19-0 victory ever embodied SAE and Sigma Phi teams that could not stop the strong Fristoe offensives, guided by Ed Stewart. The loss crippled the SAE's chances of winning the football crown.

Bob Hackler Reveals Date Of Sophomore "Turkey Trot" Dance

The "Turkey Trot," a sophomore class dance, will be held in the Pepsod Room Saturday evening, November 18, from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight. It has been revealed by Bob Hackler, sophomore class president.

Hackler has appointed Phil Deenam as dance chairman to work up the details of the affair. Admission will not be charged. Hackler said, and the college band will provide the music, he added.

Hackler announced that a door prize of a Thanksgiving dinner at the Williamsburg Lodge will be awarded the winning sophomore and his date.

The dance is open to all sophomores and their dates.

Debate Council Meets Lynchburg Here on Thursday

Bill Mary and Bruce Robinson will represent William and Mary in the Debate Council's second meet of the year here Thursday at 11 a.m. against Lynchburg College.

The following afternoon at 4 p.m. Joe Calloway and Dick Hackler will debate with a team from Randolph-Macon College.

Walter E. Swayze, professor of English, will act as judge for the Lynchburg debate, while the Randolph-Macon judge has not as yet been chosen.

Both debates will be held in Washington Hall.

Last Friday the William and Mary debate team met the Norwich debate team in a row.

The Realistic Portrayal Of "Little Foxes" Satisfies Audience in Season's Successful Opening Show Of W & M Theatre

By Pattie Lambert

The William and Mary Theatre presented last Wednesday and Thursday an unpleasant but impressionative drama, The Little Foxes, by Lillian Hellman. Miss Althea B. Hunt directed this smooth production which was enhanced by the lighting and scenery of designers Albert Haak and Norman Sherman.

The realistic Victorian set threatened to rival the play, but it soon faded into its proper place behind the absorbing action.

The Little Foxes is under statement; The Little Wren is under statement, too, as may be seen from the excellent Southern family of the early 1900's. The Hubbards, a sister and two brothers—Regina, Ken, and Oscar—are with each other for power through wealth. As members of the Hubbards, they are resisted by Birdie, Oscar's wife, whose cultured and aristocratic background the Hubbards subconsciously feel is lacking in themselves. This causes their motivations; another—-I dare to say it—-is supposed to be one of society's ballroom polishes.

The Hubbards not only conflict with each other, but are opposed by Horace, Regina's husband, who developed ethics because a bad heart made him rest, gave him time to think. It's all very logical. Leo and Alexandra, the children in the family, and Addison and Cal, the servants, do their best to bend the main characters. Marshall, the rich businessman from Chicago, is not essential to the plot, but was apparently written in to strengthen Regina's motivation over that of her brother.

Miss Hellman is a good craftsman—her play is tightly written, and even the old unities are well observed. She tells an exciting story, but her social implications are lost in the plot. The depth at which she hints remains for someone else to show up; the surface of evil is revealed, but we know no final comment about it is the world's morals.

Examined for entertainment value, The Little Foxes is a melodrama on a high plane. The situations and violent action in the Hubbard's living room are as realistic as this type of drama allows.

The play is not a real tragedy; it fails to achieve "noble purpose" in a definite catharsis. With her delicate talent Miss Hellman gives us "good theatre," and the well-drawn characterizations provide the grist for young school and amateur actors.

Featured in the lead role of Regina was Ann Hackler, who played the scheming sister with strength, dignity, and a fine voice. She lacked a seductive grace which have made her too sensitive and mild, qualities which many men will treasure till, but last longer.

Bill Harper as the mean, flashy husband, and Joe Benedetti as his son were well-cast as the sadistic Oscar. He really looked ill, and can be even greater. Frank Hall, a lively little screen, was Amanda, the daughter who somewhat redeemed the family by her revolt. Leo was played by McCull Richow, who looked the part on the stage which experience can give him. Otherwise he was well-cast as the callow, sallow, degenerate youth. Shallow, too, possibly. His hair-do was overdone. Chris is a capable actor, but was apparently written in to show us; the sur-

Debate Council Discusses Nationalization
Of Non-Agricultural Industries This Year

Joe Debator travels to Nation's Capital

After pouring over information and factors concerning the subject, Joe Debator moves forward and formulates his own arguments. Since Joe does not seek to inform or convince an audience, but merely wishes to hold or distort the facts of his opponents while making the best advantage of his own side, he has the test of sophistically and technically organizing his case. Joe does not suffer from stage fright since in all probability he will not have much of an audience. (Audience do not gather abundantly to see the same topic over and over.) Joe may expect to come in the platform at least six times a year at home or in far flung travels.

This year William and Mary's debate team will bombard Washington, D.C., where they will compete with Catholic University, Marylond University, George Washington and Georgetown. Later a Carolina tour will take them to Duke, Wake Forest, Carolina State and Carolina. In addition the council will journey south as far as New Orleans and north to Temple University where they will enter the semi-finals for the national debate at West Point. Each year members also enjoy a state-wide visit to other Virginia schools and pay host to the annual Maryland-Wyke tournament for fifteen facilities. Facilities in Williamsburg are very limited for these functions. The debate council prefers to meet in the Apollo Room, but between the Garden Clubs and Historical Societies they usually end up in Washington Hall.

This year Joe Debator may have a chance before an audience, for the council plans five or six inter-school debaters upon topics of current interest to the students.

Dr. Sydney Rome
To Talk On Faith

Dr. Sydney Rome, assistant professor of philosophy, will address chapel Wednesday. His topic will be Freedom, Faith and Authority. At last week's chapel service Dr. Nelson Marshall, dean of the college, spoke of his experiences in representing the colleges at the recent inaugural exercises at Hampden-Williamsport. Dr. Marshall stressed the fact that the work being done by this group and all connected with it was something which should be looked upon rather than down upon. The student leader for chapel was William Janson.

Interfraternity Council Will Arrange Open House, Discussion To Acquaint Freshmen With Fraternity Activities

The Interfraternity Council will hold an open house and discussion for all freshmen, Sunday, November 27, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The time of the meeting will be announced at a later date.

The council hopes to bridge the gap between the freshman's concept of fraternity life as presented in printed matter and fraternity life as it exists at William and Mary. While handbooks and such do help new students to become acquainted with social life at the college, they do not show how each student may fit into this social life, according to council officials.

The meeting will consist of talks by council members, followed by a general discussion period. After the meeting, refreshments will be served and freshmen will have an opportunity to talk with councilmen and have their questions answered.

Rush Week will be held from 12 noon, Monday, November 28, until 12 noon, Friday, December 2. This year a list of ineligible men will be available before the mailing of invitations begins; this will eliminate the confusion caused last year when many names had to be eliminated from rushing lists because invitations were being sent to ineligible men. The council hopes to eliminate confusion in mailing lists so that no eligible student will be omitted.

Last Sunday the Westminster Fellowship heard a talk by Miss Clemens of the Physical Therapy Department of Eastern State Hospital. This coming Sunday, November 13, the speaker at the Fellowship meeting will be Dr. Moreland of the social science department at William and Mary. Miss Clemens told of the work of the Presbyterian Church at the local hospital and Dr. Moreland will speak on his work in China, showing slides of pictures he took while in the Orient.

George Zupko, sub tackle for the Tribe, is also an excellent wrestler. Zupko participated in the Olympic Trials in 1947 and was doing very well until he met New York policeman Henry Wittenberg. Wittenberg pinned Zupko and then went on to capture the Olympic crown at the London Games.
