Miss Hunt Releases Cast

The Candidates, the first place winner in the 1947 Virginia Inter-college Press Association yearbook competition, received second place honors in the 1948 contest of Blackshear last week. Jean Foot, present editor of the Colonial Echo, represented William and Mary at the meeting.

Louis Sullivan, president and editor of the Waynesboro News-Virginia, was the main speaker at the Saturday night banquet. He pointed out the advantages of the FIPA, reminded the members that the major aim of their association is to foster the advancement of better college journalism, and recommended several improvements which might be made by the member publications.

Critical advice, reasoning, evaluation and elbow grease. This type of literature is not only the verbal, the ideal, and the real, but the ideal and the real. The pursuit of knowledge is the pursuit of wisdom.

Ronald King Revives Football Revolution in His
William and Mary-Go-Round

Last year I wrote a piece about a hypothetical football team, and that particular item seemed to strike a chord with the readers. People from a number of freshmen have asked me about that, so, I feel as haul these week, I've decided to do a full rewrite of that column, and present it herewith.

It was just about a year ago that football was in the purest of slumber, that the gridiron was filled with grass, at the very least, that the football season was starting. The idea of playing football was not in the mind of many people, especially the students and faculty members at the college. But that all changed when the New England League was formed.

The joint committee of students and faculty would be composed of those interested in the sport. The committee would be responsible for the conduct of the season among the students at Brooklyn College, and, a few weeks ago, Warren Smith was announced a student-faculty seminar as a team through which the members could air their gripes.

Grading Professors
Both the seminar and the questionnaire might prove to be ineffective. The faculty would have to be given the opportunity to speak before the seminar could possibly become just another piece of paper which no one would bother to fill out. Suggestion was made to include a course during which students would write an evaluation of the professors. The questionnaire could then be turned over to a group of students and faculty members in each department who would tabulate the results and present a summary to each professor.

Under such a system as we propose, the professors would be filled out the opportunity to change the atmosphere of work in the course. The joint committee of students and faculty would be composed of those who have an interest in working on the project. The professors would then be given the opinions of all their students—not just the opinions of those rare individuals who show enough individual initiative to attend or to return a questionnaire handed to them in the cafeteria.

Eva Barron Reports On R. Manson Myers

Campus Crossroads
Having emerged UNSCATHED from the encounter at the crossroads with Mr. Kline, I leave a silent order call continue in a slightly quicker pace as you pass by. Attention, please! Notice the attention by (1) becoming a Flat Hat columnist (2) joining the staff of the Royalist or (3) taking up Lr. B. Moore's cudgel.

Remembrance Of People Past
Fleeming might at well stop this line, concerning Dr. Robert Manson Myers. He was a distinguished professor, no doubt, remember the former assistant professor of English. During his tenure, the Royalist faculty members offered to assist the school in the study of their history, their ordering, and their teaching.

Educational Plans
From the Carnegie Institute of Technology (Pittsburgh) comes news of a proposal calling for drastic revision in professional education. As a matter of fact, the Institute, in Education in the past has unquestionably failed to prepare professional men to assume a democratic leadership in dealing with the problems of society. His remedy program includes the following main points: (1) A new system of teaching humanities and social sciences, and a new course for each. (2) A shortening of the time required for a professional degree at the University of Michigan. (3) A jointing of general and technical education in common method of instruction and in the selection of material. Professors Smith pointed out that his school has been developing a system of education in which these goals are being met. The past decade, and spending especially to the professionals and medical schools has been a slow one. Later on, the new system may take another form, and the paper may be to shorten the period of training needed by bringing the human and social science training into the primary education.

It Can't Happen Here
But this one really did happen at the University of Illinois. A student of the school, after hearing the remaining lectures and tests, at the end of the semester the assistant the professor was pleased to send a final exam paper from the delinquent student. Grading it, against his better judgment, the professor was amused to find a tally of 98. We called the student to his office to make inquiries.

The student arrived, the professor said: "I've just finished grading your final exam and the grade is 98. What's the explanation of such a fine achievement?"

"I'm afraid, sir," returned the student, "I haven't been able to understand a single thing of the school work, but I got the 98 because I kept down the right hand for two weeks, and by the time I got back, I had forgotten how to do it."

Statistics Prove . . .

To the Editor:
It appears now that the only way to get the financial allocation to the band is by virtue of the team's playing spirit. It is difficult to measure these factors, but it is important that we cultivate a few of a statistics we can arrive at the conclusion that the band has it.

The band has played at every home game and in three away games every week since the beginning of the season. The records show that every pep rally, usually an enthusiastic gathering and when not playing, the members have their voices there to cheer the team. The band play.

The word of endearment and send off and welcome home. There have been occasions in which the student body was not playing, the members have used their voices to cheer with the spirit has been answered by statistics proves . . .

At this writing, William and Mary's Delta Bowl opponent is still undetermined. The University of Utah declined to accept their bid to the Delta Bowl, or any other bowl.

When Utah was mentioned as our possible opponent for New Year's Day, we did a little research in regard to the school and its students. Our source was a good one—the Utah Daily Chronicle, Flat Hat of Utah (that is).

With the Bowl bid broaching the point, we looked into their reaction to such a proposal. A surprise was in store for us. The paper had conducted a poll of some of the students and administrators in regard to their feelings on a bowl game. The opinions expressed were almost unanimously against playing the game. Reasons ranged from the fact that the students would have to spend the money to the fact that the game would be so far away that hardly any of the students could see it.

At any rate, it later developed that Utah rejected the bid after a vote by its players. Two votes were taken—the first had a majority in favor with about a dozen opposed. The second, this time a secret ballot, produced a trip.

The entire matter should be of interest to WMU students, since for two years in a row now, our boys have made bowl trips. We wonder what the inside story is on bowl-game participation throughout the country. It would seem to us that the question of playing in these games should be left to the players—and the players alone. All votes on such trips should be taken by secret ballots—such as we assumed Utah's was.

Dr. Daniel J. Blocker Will Speak Tomorrow Night In Wren Chapel

Dr. Daniel J. Blocker, retired head of the sociology department, will speak on the Twenty-Third Psalm tomorrow night in Chapel. "When the hungry are hungry" the gods are happy," he will say. "Let's make the gods happy tomorrow." Dr. Blocker first said that nothing new could, or should, be said about Thanksgiving since people want traditions with their holidays. Still, he said, there are new problems and new hopes each year.

He considers the tragedy of the world to be the problem this year and spoke of how reform is first of all a personal problem and how we must reform ourselves before we can hope to reform the rest of the world. "Then crownest the year with thy goodness" may seem like irony now, but Dr. Foltin thinks one shouldn't "mix into other people's Thanksgiving," for they may have more than we think to be thankful for.

He declared we should be thankful for the things we have, and not for the things we want. "When the humans are happy, the gods are happy," he said, "and the gods are happy too." In this case, the twenty-third Psalm tomorrow night in Chapel.

Oklahoma Aggies Will Engage Big Green in Delta Bowl

By Hugh Moore

The William and Mary basketball Indians tur ned their last exhibition game of the season under their belts last Friday afternoon in Blow Gym in preparation for their regular season opener here tomorrow night with Longley Field at 8 p.m. in Blow Gym.

The Redskins cagers, with Coach Stanley Wilson calling the plays and advantage and feeling out the defensive strength of his reserves, set down a Camp Ladner, N. C. quintet of Maroons, 78-56.

Bill Chamberlain, a newcomer at forward, paced the scoring derby for the local ballists, with 30 points, being closely pressed by Howard Pinckard, who, as captain, pleased both, of whom garnered an even dozen markers. Captain Chet Giermak, who, for 11, Puny McMillian, who mothed 10, and Bob Holley, who accounted for nine.

Giermak, a fixture at center for the past two winters, again leads the Indian squad, and will start that position tomorrow night when the Braves take the floor against the Longley Field Flyers.

Teaming with Captain Giermak front will be Bunting and McMillian inocludes Jim Alex, Jack Ward, Horace Moses, Charles Lewis and Sherman Robinson, while Wills and Jack Faye will spell Giermak at center.

Students are reminded that they must present their student identification card at the door of the William and Mary home basketball games.

Williams, the diminutive pair of guards, likewise holdders from last year, while Solo in a sure bet for the forward slot he held down last season.

WILL SEE...

For all students who wish to see the game will climax a comeback from the Arizona A&M. A&M, champion of the Missouri Valley Conference, will play a second straight bite in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. The game is expected to be available at the Athletic office. But no definite decision to the powerful Oklahoma team, now bound for the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. The William and Mary bowl trip was won and lost three on a one hundred twenty trip to Canada, and the Indian record of six wins, two losses and a pair of ties over the past three seasons.

Jim Lookabah's team will open the New Year's day completion, having played in two pre-season bowl contests seeming disappointing setbacks to the powers of the Aggies and absorbed a 44-0 whipping in the Oklahoma Bowl battle, and St. Mary's lost in the first annual Sugar Bowl in 1946 by a 31-13 count.

But William and Mary will be out for revenge and victory in two attempts, having lost a narrow 18-17 decision to Texas Christian University against Arkansas eleven in the Dixie Bowl at Birmingham, Ala., January 1 of this year. The Indians will be led by the Dixie Bowl committee of Jack Landrum, chairman, and the not-so-expert arrange ment on the part of the NCAA chooses to recognize it as such, is one of the biggest business in the country and consequ­ently draws outstanding talent into its ranks as players, coaches and other persons concerned with the sport.

Four of the William and Mary players, Cloud, Thompson, Williams and Caughron, rang with the television in mind, with an eye for publicity and a winning team. But on the other hand, if individual ability were the only con­sideration it would be impossible to assemble a satisfactory team with several men for each position.

The age of specialization in All-America team picking began long ago. Many of the teams this year have included two squads, while previous years have found each picked as well. On the other hand, if individual ability were the only con­sideration it would be impossible to assemble a satisfactory team with several men for each position.

The day was marked by the mete­orological All-America, picked by one of the Boston papers, with the Indians played there. That team included players from Notre Dame, Duke, Connecticut and the like.

The performance of the William and Mary team against Arkansas showed a great amount of deter­mination on the part of the Razorbacks to win the game, which was more than the Indians had shown in the previous contests. The defense of the Indians was relatively poor, but their offense was able to keep the ball in play long enough to gain some yardage.

The Tribe Gridders Blank Razorbacks, 9-0, To Close Regular 1948 Football Season

The game closed the regular season for the Indians, giving them a record of five wins, two losses and two ties.

The first half was a wide one in many respects. In a see-saw first quarter battle, neither team was able to make much headway until Henry Holder intercepted a Bay Park's pass in the closing minutes and ran it back to the Arkansas 25. The period ended with the ball on the 12 after a nine-yard run by Tommy Korrin and a two-yard line run by Bill Holley.

On the first play of the second quarter, Korrin cut off Joe Mack for the score, but the play was called back and the Tribe penalized 15 yards for clipping. The Razorbacks took over on downs then and four plays later (one forced from a pass-play) from Gordon Long to end Jack Rich back to back Leon "Muscles" Campbell.

However, this score also was called back to the two-yard line when the Pirates were penalized 10 yards for roughing the passer. The Pirates then went over on downs to the Tribe, and both teams settled down to a battle of the lines and penalty calls. The Tribe was backed over 55 yards on penalties, and 30 more in the sec­ond half. Arkansas received 29 yards in penalties in each half.

Midway in the third quarter, the Tribe took over on their own 15 and proceeded to drive 68 yards See ARKANSAS, Page 8

Oklahoma A&M, champion of the Missouri Valley Conference, will play a third straight bite in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. The team originally expected to meet the Indians at Memphis was the University of Utah, champion of the Mountain States Conference. That team bailed out at the last minute on a vote of the players, after having received an invitation from the Sugar Bowl committee.

The Oklahoma Aggies dropped decisions to Texas Christian (21-0) and the University of Utah (27-14) in the first two weekly games of the season and then decided to enter the Delta Bowl in New Orleans in its first appearance. The Indians, who last week were ranked number seven in the nation, will meet Oklahoma A&M, champion of the Southern Conference football.

Win In Finale
Over Quantico

The Francis McFall-coached cross-country team of William and Mary completed its first undefeated season since the revival of the sport last Wednesday when it whipped the favored Quantico Maroons by a score of 20-35. The race was run at Quantico over one of the most difficult race courses ever encountered by the team.

Lt. Henry Hart, of Quantico, took individual honors, dolloping over the 3.3 mile course in 20 minutes and 29 seconds Bob "Bulllet" Lawson matched Hart for the best part of the course, dropping behind in the last quarter mile to place second. This was definitely Lawson's best race of the year.

The depth of the Indians paid off in this meet, as after Hart, the entire Tribe varsity team placed ahead of the next Marine. Clyde Baker, who ran with an injured leg for the third time since November 6, had his victory streak broken at six in a row. He hobbled over the course driven on by his spirit.

This meet closed the season for the Julibian Redmen, who have topped Representative, Rolph-Dolman and Quantico in dual meet competition, and placed fourth in the Conference. In the Conference meet, they topped VMU, Dale, St. C., Daedalus, and Richmond. Coach McFall has high hopes for the squad next year, since no one will be lost, and several others will become eligible.

The team elected Clyde Baker team captain for the 1948 season immediately after the meet. Baker has led the team in its six-mile victory streak over the past two years.

The Summary

Way by Hart, first; second, Lawson, W&M; third, Lindsey, W&M; fourth, Baker, W&M; fifth, Lawson, W&M; sixth, Don Day, W&M; seventh, Lawson, W&M; eighth, Dean, Quantico; ninth, Hall, Quantico; tenth, Braddish, Quantico.

W&M Retains Fencing Team Through Interest Of Women

By Dolores Houle

If you happen to be a fan of the blood and thunder variety of Hollywood productions, you are probably aware of the importance of the manly sport of fencing. At last, this was the season a couple of hundred years ago.

There is a small band of people left on this campus who feel, quite strongly at that, that fencing has not gone the way of the bucking stallion and will survive to reappear in the years to come.

It, fencing that is, is probably the only kind of an "informal tournament" will be served in Barrett living room on December 12, the only day of the month when a meeting is scheduled. The members of the club and William and Mary alumnae with a group from an area, as well as in the larger educational institutions.

"Our only outside contacts have been with teams from schools in the New York area," said Dr. Caroline Sinclair, sponsor of the club. "For the past three years, we have participated in the Inter-Collegiate Fencing Tournament in New York, but we would like to fence teams a little closer to home," she added.

"We've written letters to Madison, Connecticut, George Washington, Duke, North Carolina and Mary Washington, asking them to form teams in order to participate in a Fencing Sports Day in the Spring," said Janet Pierce, President of the Fencing Club.

Tentative plans have been made for a Tri-Meet, pitting the local college in this section of the country which sponsors fencing as an organized sport for women. How­ever, one of the projects which the club is undertaking this year is the furthering of interest in fencing in some of the women's colleges in the area, as well as in the larger educational institutions.

Tentative plans have been made for a Tri-Meet, pitting the local college in this section of the country which sponsors fencing as an organized sport for women. However, one of the projects which the club is undertaking this year is the furthering of interest in fencing in some of the women's colleges in the area, as well as in the larger educational institutions.

"Our only outside contacts have been with teams from schools in the New York area," said Dr. Caroline Sinclair, sponsor of the club. "For the past three years, we have participated in the Inter-Collegiate Fencing Tournament in New York, but we would like to fence teams a little closer to home," she added.

"We've written letters to Madison, Connecticut, George Washington, Duke, North Carolina and Mary Washington, asking them to form teams in order to participate in a Fencing Sports Day in the Spring," said Janet Pierce, President of the Fencing Club.

Pi KA, OD ‘A’ Teams Top Selections Of Fraternity, Independent All-Stars

Three members of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity football league championship team were positions on the all-star team selected by the managers of the various teams at the end of the season, and all of the members of the OD ‘A’ players were awarded positions on the first and second teams of the Independent loop stars.

Skip Snider of Lambda Chi was named most valuable in the Independent loop, with Al Lang winning that honor among the independents.

Bill Garrison, Harry Robison and Ted Uhler of the Pi KA’s won theirs, as did Doc White and Paul Walzak of SAE and Sluder.

Al Lang and Al Pirkle of OD ‘A’, Ken Muddon and Herb Beale of Flying ‘B’, Pete DeWitt of Chicken Clippers and Jim Casey of the Flying Vets were the winners of Independent league spots.

The team was selected by a vote of the managers of the various teams and officials.

Hagerty Wins ‘Lineman’ Award

Put Hagerty, connected to end this season from his old fullback post, this week became the second William and Mary to win "Lineman of the Week" honors in the Colonial League. Times-Dismal.

Lou Hottens previously had been selected.

Picked for "Back of the Week" for the second time this season was Bobby Thompson, great VMI passer.

Hagerty, playing his last regularly scheduled college game, played a spectacular game all afternoon against the Porkers andคล

Papoose, Baby Spiders Struggle To 12-12 Tie

William and Mary's first post- war freshman football team waded out of its season Wednesday night at Richmond by struggling to a 12-12 deadlock with the Baby Spiders from the University of Richmond in the Rotary Club stadium. The “Mudders of ’52”, one of the best of Papoose elevens, sloshed, slipped, and slid to a record of three wins, one loss, and one tie. No less than four of those ties were played in a sea of mud.

Coach Al Thomas, head mentor of the yearlings, expressed satisfaction at the accomplishments of his club. Said Thomas, “The entire coaching staff is well pleased with the results of this fall’s campaign.”

Thomas declined to single out any individual stars, pointing out the fact that the 1951 Papoose were a team rather than a bunch of great-slipping stars.

Coach Thomas went further to predict that this club, sticking to their successful record were as many as twenty-five to one.

Braves

Sophomore Bruce Douglas has led the mound with eight complete games. In all, he completed 21 for 114 yards gain. Tommy, himself, has crossed the stripe five times inside the Arkansas five. The Homies has received 16 aeries for a total gain of 214 yards gain. These receptions went for scores.

W&M Retains

Jane Anne was executive secretary of the W&M Retains, although for the most part it was a un組織 task. The director was Bob Smith, a member of last year’s Southern Conference Champion outfit, and Jim Ford, who served in the capacity of treasurer.

The “Mudders of ’52” are looking to the formation of a permanent group of about twelve women.

As an induced result of swimming, intramural, an interest club offering intramural and other programs in formation. As is the case with many clubs, and as much as ordinary is a must, try-outs were held for the past three weeks on Monday and Wednesday. The “Mudders” are looking to the formation of a permanent group of about twelve women.

In the Wednesday night finale, the Papoose tallied first early in the game and then permitted two long scoring chances by the Little Spiders in the second period, to leave the field trailing, 12-8.

Threatening skins burst forth in a downpour then and the final half was played in a virtual sea of mud, seriously hampering any offensive intentions of either team. The Junior Braves did manage to set up fiber for a tying thrust into the pastel with but five minutes remaining in the game.

In addition to the Richmond statement, William and Mary had previously downed the first year teams of Maryland, Duke, and Richmond, and dropped close chances to Wake Forest and the Navy Jayvees.

The injury of Lewis, coupled with the earlier loss of Norton, almost completely stripped the Papoose gridiron of its ballbearers in just two periods, and left the “Mudders” with but nine players remaining in the game.

GOOD NEWS FOR NIGHT OWLS!

WOMEN’S WILES

By Delores Heute

“Tic about time!” That’s the comment of most women on campus. The time element is the only one which would put an obstacle in the execution of such a scheme. However, one night every other week is one solution which would not bear too heavily on the individual participants.

The next few weeks should bring an answer to the bowling propositions. Within that time, it would be advisable that all those interested in this sport make known their ideas and wishes on the subject.

Notes From Jefferson Gym:

With basketball intramural starting in the first week of this month, there is an urgent need for student officials to help with intramural games. Each team is asked to provide two persons for officiating purposes. Women who are planning to play in the league may also officiate, since the two will not conflict in time. Notices will be sent to team managers at the time and place for the meeting of the student officials.

(Continued from Page 5) in eight plays for the score. Cloud, Bruce and Korczowski featured the drive, the big gainer being a 33-yard put from “The Kid” to Bruce on the seven. In three plays, Cloud tossed over for the six-pointer. The injured Buddy Lex converted in his only appearance to make it 7-0.

The fine punting of Tommy Korczowski, who played another stellar game, kept the Furkas back on their heels a great part of the afternoon.

Gone are the days of bounds on the one up on the Indians’ final score in the last period. Korczowski had a special affinity for the coffin corner, punting outside five times into the Arkansas 20-yard line.

After Korczowski had punted one out on the Arkansas one-yard line, the Furkas failed to move the ball any distance and dropped back to kick. Put Haggerty rushed fast and blocked the attempted punt out of the end zone for an automatic safety, making it 9-0 for the Indians, the final score.

Company Establishes New Travel Division

The establishment of a new "Educational Travel Division" by the American Express Company, to aid faculty members and students who contemplate traveling abroad to study in universities in foreign countries, has been announced by Ralph T. Reed, company president.

The division of the company under the guidance of Dr. B. W. Van Hiper, scholar and world traveler, was established to aid thousands traveling abroad each year for foreign study.

The new division also advises on scholastic requirements and fees, academic calendar and dormitory space, and answers a host of other questions on student activities in universities in 30 countries throughout the world. The new division will advise the travelling student by giving helpful advice on where and how best to go, what to wear and what to take along for life in a foreign country.

The vast fund of scholastic and travel information prepared by the "Educational Travel Division" of American Express was gathered in cooperation with the Institute of International Education, the U.S. Foreign Service,崇评论, information bureau of foreign governments, and executive officers of more than 300 foreign universities.

Mrs. Robert Stuart, throughout his residence in Virginia, served as a member of the Board of Visitors at William and Mary.

Concerts Will Begin December 8 With Coloratura Marimi Del Pozo

Marimi Del Pozo, young Spanish coloratura, will appear as the first guest artist of the William and Mary concert series on Wednesday, December 8, at 8 p.m. in the Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The golden-haired, twenty-one-year-old soprano will include selections from Mozart, Handel, Bachmuller and Della Cava on her varied program. Touring America for the first time this year, Miss Del Pozo has already created leading opera roles opposite such world-famous stars as Gigli, Pineschi and Lauri-Volpe and has successfully toured her native Spain, Portugal and the Scandinavian countries. Planter Pablo Miquel will accompany her during her appearance in Williamsburg.

The young artist is the youngest of five professional members of one of Spain's oldest and most prominent musical families. Both her father and mother were opera singers of ability and reputation. Her two sisters are celebrated vocalists. At one time in the Canary Islands, Miss Del Pozo's mother told her that her singing recalled a supra-lative artist heard 20 years previously in Milan. The actress remembered the singer's name, Angeles Orhill, Miss Orhill is Miss Del Pozo's aunt and her music teacher.

Miss Del Pozo has mastered a large repertoire of 12 operas, songs by more than 50 composers in half a dozen languages, and coloratura excerpts and concert arias by the Spanish, French, in English and five other languages and now is hard at work adding French, Italian, German and Spanish to her repertoire.

"Miss Del Pozo," writes her manager, Albert Morin, "has managed to inject the glowing sense of style and dash that comes from her own country into her work and has made the coloratura range, with the result that she is a totally unique coloratura and one whose career right at this time/too early shows very great promise."

James Madison was president of the college from 1777 to 1812.

New members, elected at the last meeting of the Dramatic Club for outstanding work in the William and Mary Theatre, will attend the Christmas meeting. They are John Donovan, Bill Harper, Dick Lee and Dave Friedman, all of whom have been active in the William and Mary Theatre for the past two years. A number of new invitations will probably be sent out in January to William and Mary Theatre members made eligible by work on The Great Carol, and new members, elected at the last meeting, will be invited to attend the Christmas meeting.

Leach stated. "Eligibility for the Dramatic Club is through work on the technical staff as well as the acting of a production." Leach added.

"The mysterious copy of Paolo Sarpi's 'Council Of Trent,' printed in London in 1674, has arrived at its original destination, the Library of William and Mary for the third and, hopefully, last time," declared Robert Land, librarian.

Recently Mrs. Hazel Dreis, former binder at the Folger Shakespeare Library, row of The Grosvenor Library, Calf, expertly bound the volume as a gift and returned it to the Library. The volume is now fully bound in Persian goat-skin. This leather, known as morocco, was most appropriate because it has been exported from Africa to England and is the material ever since the 18th century, and is a favorite material among book binders for its texture and durability.

Aside from the historical importance of Sarpi's Council, this copy has added value since it is the only known surviving book from the original library of the college. Inscribed on its fly leaf at the gift from Captain Nicholas Hurd, the volume first reached the College "Ago 1702" (between January 1 and March 24, 1704). It was unaccountably absent from the Library when a disastrous fire gutted the interior and contents of the Wren Building in October, 1705. The volume, known by what means it was added to the Horncastle College Library in London, the stamp of which it bears, and how or why it left there to reappear in a book salvage drive conducted in Bristol, England, during World War II. Fortunately, Janet Rose, the city Librarian of Bristol, discovered it and offered to return it to William and Mary. It was stored in a bombproof shelter until after the war and it once more safely crossed the Atlantic Ocean.

Until 1928 all the departments of the college except sciences, philosophy and business administration were held in the Wren Building.

Backdrop Club Will Name Cast

William Leach, director of the 1949 Varisty Show, announced today that the selections for next year’s production will be presented to the members at the next meet­ ing of the Backdrop club on Tues­ day, December 7, at 5 p. m., in Washington Hall.

Scene will once again be under the supervision of Blair Mac­Kinzie, new to the Backdrop Club this year.

First, of the third consecutive year Bill Kopper will serve as head of the lighting committee while make up will be under the direction of Harry Cooper and Amy Davidson, both of whom are members of the club. The head of the painting committee this year will be announced.

Lindsey said, “On Thursday of this week, special try-outs will be held in the student gym from 3:30 to 5 p. m. for people who will be called back once again to try out for the Backdrop Club.” Cards were mailed yesterday to all students and if they should find it impossible to attend, they may contact Bill Harper or any­ self. The fact that someone is not called back to try-out does not mean, of course, that he does not have a part in the show.

Wiseman Compiles Biographical Sketches On Seven Wise Men

Howard W. Wiseman, a junior student at the college, has prepared a series of biographical sketches which were published under the title, The Seven Wise Men, by Jacques and Co. of New York last Saturday.

A history major, Wiseman compiled his book while in summer school this year and obtained his information from the college library. The slender, cloth-bound green volume is dedicated to Henry (Doc) Billups, the bellringer, upon his sixtieth anniversary at the college and contains several old prints from early editions of the Colonial Echo.

Two copies of the book are in the library. These are dedicated to the memory of Herbert Lee Bridges, registrar of the college from 1906 to 1932, who first wrote of the "seven wise men" in the April, 1936, issue of the Alumni Gazette.

It is these seven men whom Wiseman describes in his newly-published book.

Descendants Of Wise Men

"It is interesting to note," Wiseman declared, "that many of these men are forbears of people who are now daily connected with the college and Williamsburg." Dr. Tyler is the grandfather of Harston Tyler, a senior student, and Dr. Garrett is the grandfather of Nick Dillard, a junior at the college. Douglas G. Adair, associate professor of history, is the great-nephew of Dr. Whorton. Ex-mayor Channing Hall of Williamsburg is the son of Dr. Hall, and Mrs. Ballard Boswell is the daughter of Dr. Stubbs.

Wiseman, who comes from Maplewood, N. J., has worked for two years as a guide in the Wren Building and was head guide last year. He is now working in the manuscript department of the library. "I was in the manuscript department so much working on the book this summer that I've gotten to be part of the scenery," Wiseman laughed.

Copies of the book are on sale at Casey's, Rexall's No. One, and the Kerr Kitchen, opposite the Capitol, for $1.50. Students may also purchase copies of the book from the author at 323 Monroe Hall.
