Enrollment This Year Reaches All-Time High

Sponsored by the administration of 877 students and 61 returning male students this year, the enrollment at the College of William and Mary totals 1,186, an all-time high for the College of William and Mary.

The admission total, although proportionately lower for the 1,938 students, nevertheless exceeded the abnormally high attendance record held by the College during the spring of 1945-46, according to announcements from the office of J. Wilford Lamberts, dean of students. At that time the male admission, which averaged 860 a year in the pre-war era, shot to 1,175. In the fall of 1945-46 total male enrollment has declined to 1,264. This year a record 1,938 men, including more than 850 veterans, are in attendance at the College.

The admittance total for women, however, is not available, as the College of William and Mary enrolls only women. At that time the female admission, which averaged 850 a year in the pre-war era, shot to 750. In the fall of 1945-46 total female enrollment has declined to 670. This year a record 1,938 women, including more than 850 veterans, are in attendance at the College.

Students Will Select Officers in November

The Student Assembly slate will probably consist of a junior and a senior assemblyman, three freshmen men and three freshman women and a senior member to the men's House Council.

Freshmen will go to the polls to elect their entire list of class officers, president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

In all of these elections, petitions signed by ten people as well as the nominating party must be turned in by the office of the dean of students before a time to be specified by the Student Assembly.

The results will be announced at the meeting of the Student Assembly which will be held during the first two weeks of November.

The Student Assembly also intends to send delegates to the national convention of the Student Assembly of America to be held at the end of the year.

Dr. Douglas G. Adair was named party director of the student vote, the Varsity Show of 1948 was the first production of the Backdrop club on Thursday night.

Ronald King, president of the club, announced the production's main theme of the show, "Our only regret," is that many who were unable to make the production under the impression that it is too late.

Plans for the next show were discussed at the meeting, and officials and production chiefs were introduced to the new members. Blanche Duff has been selected as advisor, and Dr. George J. Ryan has accepted the post of censor for the production.

The crowd milled around the piano where Fred Morris, Dick Clink, Betty Devol, Bill Hills, Eddie Anderson, Bill and Jim Bray, and Bill Smith, members of the previous show, also led the audience in singing some of the songs from that production. Lettie Settle and Dick Bost accompanied the festivities at the piano.

We thank you—call again!!

"It was chart of the legal division of the United States forces in Austria for a year," Dr. Edgar M. Foltin, head of the department of psychology, related of his experiences last year. "We supervised all the Austrian Courts in our zone and we prosecuted all the cases passed by the courts of the American Military Government.

He continued, "We acted as a liaison between the American element and the Austrian Military Government and we gave legal advice to the American high command and staff. Our main occupation was to aid in the demobilization, but we did act as a liaison with the other three liberating powers, that is, the German and the Austrian parliament.

We have been back on our own for a year now and I sat in conference every week with Russian, British and French delegates, discussing Austrian legislation during the year over 400 legal matters passed through our hands, among them, the famous demobilization law.

Work Strengthen

"The work was not only interesting, but also strenuous, as one is required to preserve good international relations, to deal with the British, French and the Austrians, as well."

The conference was held between the Austrians and Americans, and we made the best of it. We had to be careful how to speak 'Liberty.' The growing bond between itself and the West makes life for the Austrians almost as difficult indeed.

Since the day of liberation, the American Military Government has not only reduced the dollar, but the Austrians have had to live on a dollar which has less value than the dollar of the former days. It is a matter of concern to both sides at the Eastern State Hospital. They are facing problems of the war-torn city. At this point, Dr. Foltin explained the attitude of the old churches and palaces, remembering how they have been undamaged, and the parks are green and bloom over air raid holes. Even as the citizens of the United States are forced to fight the severest winter ever since the war, the Austrians are still playing 'Wein, Wein.'

"This will be done only if the members are needed to make a difference in their high school bands, but three turned up. Six more freshmen have been added since, but ten members are now enrolled, and they will get college credit for the work."

"This is required to preserve good international relations, to drink tea and get something!"

Experts Expose Fake Manuscripts;
Adair's Article Explains Forgery

A corps of 11 experts, including Dr. Douglas G. Adair, professor of history at the college, have exposed the Horn Papers as "the most elaborate and clever collection of forgeries dealing with American historical lore manufactured in the United States."

An article just published in the October issue of the William and Mary Quarterly, in which Dr. Adair is the editor, revealed the forgery of the three-volume work, which contained diaries, maps and court dockets dealing with pioneer life in the eighteenth century, the frontiers of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia.

Horn Manuscripts Frauded

The exposure came as a surprise to many historians and the members of patriotic organizations and local historical societies who previously had accepted the forged documents as genuine. The Horn manuscripts, they claimed, had been widely praised for the "wealth of authentic new data" they contained on such famous pioneers as JonathanStatic, the founder of Hagerstown, Maryland, Christopher Gist, George Washington's friend; Thomas Cresap, John Canon and others. Leaders, heads of private individuals, were also noted. The manuscript was to be a large group of experts, led by the investigating commission. The forged documents was said to have been "nearly flawless," and meant to be the raw material in the making of future history. The text, however, was written to be indistinguishable from the real thing. The text of the investigation, when carefully examined, was found to be subsidized with machecked, unbranded toilet paper and with unaccepted text. It was even harder for the experts to identify, in some cases, the modern handwriting, as it is used as the raw material in the making of future history. The text, however, was written to be indistinguishable from the real thing.

Financial Examiners

A committee of the American Historical Society, also of the American Historical Society, and the late J. L. Fulton, also of the American Historical Society, were biding their time, watching for the right moment to strike. The late J. L. Fulton, of the American Historical Society, sat in conference every week with the British, French and Russian delegates, discussing Austrian legislation during the year over 400 legal matters passed through our hands, among them, the famous demobilization law.

There were 30 students in the high school band, but three turned up. A thousand more students have been added since, but ten members are now enrolled, and they will get college credit for the work. The text of the investigation, when carefully examined, was found to be indistinguishable from the real thing. participating in Saturday's W&M-UNC game here include North Carolina tackle Lou Salpy, Jr., below, William and Mary Fullback Walt Papa, upper right, and Indian Center Tommy Thompson, lower right.

Poplinger also did well while he lit his afternoon's work. Herb Coughron, Lou Hoitsma and Tommy Thompson were not immediately determined.

Jayvees Play At Georgetown

William and Mary's Junior Varsity football team plays its second game of the season Friday afternoon, traveling to Washington, D. C., to face the Baby Hoyas of Georgetown University in an afternoon game.

It will be the second contest of the season for the Hoyas, the first resulting in a 24-0 decision over the Newport News Apprentice school last month.

Jayvee Coach Al Thomas has not determined who would make the trip early in the week, but especially the same group which took part in the first game will likely take the field. Players work together during the week, but the personnel of the junior Varsity squad and the varsity remain about the same at game time.

Eninists Smear Virginia Tech In Hard Fight

Last year's scheduled battle of the giants between William and Mary and Virginia Tech finally materialized at City Stadium in Richmond last Saturday when the Gobblers gave the William and Mary team and supporters some anxious moments before accounting for the Brave attack, 21-7.

Winning back their green tawny at the hands of Virginia the previous week, Coach Jimmy Kilker's Tech team played an aggressive game and had William and Mary on the defensive during most of the early stages of the game. With their line charging and tackling hard, the Gobblers were able to score once and hold the lead for nearly three periods.

Bunt In Third

But late in the third quarter, the Redskins started rolling, and the game went the way it was supposed to go from then on. A couple of breaks aided the Tribe, who played a much better brand of football the second half. The William and Mary offense, under more direction than usual, was the key to the final score. Tommy Thompson was the hero last week.

William and Mary's running back got the ball on the first touchdown play and went 98 yards to paydirt. His run was the only score of the game.

In the line, Harry (Red) Caughron, the center he plays against this year, and the Carolina representatives.

Notable exceptions are Tommy Thompson, who stands to outshine any junior Varsity squad and the varsity remain about the same at game time.

SPECTORS are eagerly anticipating one of the hardest fought college games here since the 1943 championship team from William and Mary, the Tar heels, were outscored and the game was decided rather late.

The backfields stacked up astonishingly similar before Korczowski was hurt. Walt Papa and Jack Cloud at fullbacks, Charlie Justice and Kowdick at halfbacks, Jim Camp and Henry Elson at wingbacks and Ron Wright and Tom Mine of blocking backs all measure up very much alike in weight and height, and Saturday's game will probably add ability to the list. Average and individual ages of the UNC backfield man is greater than those of the Indians, but the Tribe list older men.

By virtue of a more powerful line, we pick William and Mary to win over the Tar heels. And regardless of the winner, however.

Macken Plays For Canadians In PA Tennis

Brendan Macken, William and Mary senior and one of the finest of Canada's amateur tennis players, is in Mexico City, participating in the Pan-American tournament to which he was invited as a Canadian representative.

Macken left Williamsburg last week for practice Saturday and ends Oct. 19. The colorful tournament is replete with figures from the minute to the mammoth.

The best players from the Pan-American nations were invited to the tournament, which is being played at the Centro de Partido de Clubes, House Tennis Club in Mexico City with Massigraph's in Walter Strohberg, of Vancouver.

Macken was a member of the final two Canadian Davis Cup teams, while Strohberg is an outstanding contender for a position this year.

At Williamsburg and Mary, Macken has played some very fine tennis before being declared ineligible during last season on a rule that had expired in the period in which a man may use his athletic eligibility to five years.

Jack Cloud, all-Southern Star, Batters Opposition Of Braves

Facing North Carolina this week, the big Goose football team had much the same lineup they had when they played the Tar heels last fall. One member of the backfield is Dick "Flying" Cloud, who boasts 40 lettermen from last season, including the backfield.
Intramural Grid Loop Begins Play

Intramural touch football began last Friday when Pi Lambda Phi met Lambda Chi Alpha in the cur-the 11 team fraternity league, while in the seven-team independent loop 21 games will be played.

All fraternities have teamsters who have been considerably strengthened by "phobie" material gained in last month's running. Several of last year's independent league stars are in the mix this year. These players include

Tribe Gains On Pass Against VPI

STAN MAGDZIAK PASSES to Jack Bruce for a 15 yard gain in the first quarter of the William and Mary-VPI game in Richmond last week as the Indians attempted to get started in that quarter.

The score remained 7-0 in favor of the Gobblers until late in the third period, however, when the Tribe really started moving.

Eleven men representing all the classes in school are out for the team. The candidates work out daily on the newly-planned two-and-a-half-mile course. Regular practice is at 2 p.m., but some who have conflicting class drill at their own convenience.

Candidates out at present include Spencer Overton, Max Staszesky, Bob McPeek, Bob Carter, Bob Patel, Clyde Baker, Bob Batchelder, Stuart Dewitt, David Bowling and Jack Ulrich.

After the meet with Randolph-Macon Thursday, the Indian runners will meet the U.S. Naval Training Command team at Norfolk and the University of Richmond harriers at Richmond and Williamsburg.

"All types of material are still desired for the first issue of the Royalist," announced Marcia Magill, recently-appointed chairman of the editorial board and editor-in-chief.

The deadline for all manuscripts to be used in the coming edition is Thursday, Oct. 15, while the final dates for try-outs for staff positions will be Sunday, Nov. 2. Freshmen, sophomores, and two junior women will be selected for the staff next month. All manuscripts should either be deposited in the Royalist box in Marshall-Wythe hall or given directly to an editor.

Newly-appointed members of the editorial board are Dick Batty, Dick Bethge, Peter Borton, Patty Lou Young and Nancy Morton.

Four Students Pass State Bar Examination.

Four William and Mary students passed the Virginia Bar Examination given in Richmond last June and have now been admitted to the practice of law.

They are Donald Taylor, Virginia Till, Robert Vegh, and Garrett Tumblin. In order to be eligible for the examination, which is given twice a year, students must have completed two years of law study.

Taylor has opened a law office over the old post office building in Williamsburg and is also continuing his studies at the college. Vegh will also continue his work toward a B.A. degree. Tumblin entered the government service. Virginia Till, the first woman from Portsmouth to be admitted to the bar, has accepted the position of law librarian at the college.

Voting Tomorrow Will Decide Tie For WSG Office

Women students will elect a freshman representative to the executive council tomorrow from 4 to 6 p.m. in the large dormitories.

June Mercer and Elizabeth

Sarah Enos

Graves received an equal number of votes in the election held last week. Tomorrow's election will determine which of the two candidates will receive the office.

Sarah Enos was chosen as the freshman representative to the executive council in last week's election. Sarah is from Clifton Forge, where she edited her high school annual for two years and served as president of the Beta club.

Shirley (Shuz) Sprague, president of WSCGA, announced that only 50 per cent of the women students went to the polls last Wednesday.

IRC Sets Picnic Date For Friday At Shelter

Members of the International Relations club will hold a picnic at the shelter on Friday, Oct. 17, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. “All students who plan to attend should contact John Helfrich, Betty Breed or Peggy Ballentine,” stated John Fritz, president.

"Nur du Allein" — ‘You Only, Austria.’

"The evenings were well-spent in the two state opera houses (to mention only one form of evening entertainment)—where I attended 71 various operas, some of them five times.

"... And now it is good to be home again surrounded by friends and students" Dr. Foltin commented, adding "an ice box and an oil heater are indeed, added pleasures. A few green handkerchiefs and army shorts keep the memory alive—if nothing else would."

"And now" Dr. Foltin asked "What I do now, you want to know? I'm preparing mid-term examinations. I'm continuing a year old study of painting of psychic patients. I'm fighting an occasional spell of nausea with a glass of my own home-grown grapes. This wine is delicious" he declared ecstatically. "And as" he added, "the grapes were few, I'm practicing now the art of making cider. This is, of course, deterioration, and I know it. Besides this I am laying my plans for my next journey and adventure. This is the secret."
